FIRST PROGRESS IS MADE TOWARD ARMAMENT CUT

Italian, Japanese and German Agents to Join Private Talks.

HUGH GIBSON PHONES HOOVER TO REPORT

Compromise Expected After French, British and U. S. Plans Are Offered.

Geneva, June 19 (A.P.).—Representatives of the United States, Britain and France tonight sought a way to bring the world disarmament conference to a successful close, with a feeling that the ground at last had been laid for a genuine grappling with the problem.

Although no decision was reached, arrangements were made to continue the private discussions begun here this week-end, extending them to representatives of other governments, especially the Italian, German and Japanese, in the search for a basis of agreement.

Participants in tonight's conversations, which lasted more than two hours, said they felt a useful preparation had been made for grappling with the problem. The Americans particularly got the impression that the Europeans "could really determine to face realities and do business."

Gibson Talks With Hoover.

Senator Claude A. Swanson, chief American spokesman, was accompanied at the informal talks by Hugh R. Wilson and Norman H. Davis, other members of the American delegation to the arms parley, which will resume its deliberations next week.

Hugh Gibson, another member of the delegation, remained at a hotel where he was described as very busy. Later it was learned that he had telephoned to President Hoover.

Senator Swanson requested in today's talk that the American plan for limiting effectives be placed in the agenda of the informal conversations, which will be resumed tomorrow.

The American plan provides for determining the manpower defense needs of a country by adding the police needs to requirements for protection of colonies and other special responsibilities. Then a percentage reduction would be made for all countries, leaving the relative defense strength unchanged except for nations disarmed by peace treaties.

British and French Plans.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, assisted by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretray, explained the British plan for qualitative disarmament by a long holiday for certain offensive arms without permitting replacement. Joseph Paul-Boncour presented the French plan for a global cut in defense budgets.

There was some disposition in informed quarters to believe the British and French had an agreement combining their two plans, but the Americans said they got the impression that there was no connection between the British and French proposals presented tonight.

Sentiment grew in the American and other quarters, meanwhile, that the arms conference would have to achieve some agreement for limitation and reduction within the next few weeks or admit failure.

Menjou's Adopted Son Held in Death of Girl

Los Angeles, June 19 (A.P.).—Harold L. Menjou, 20-year-old adopted son of Adolph Menjou, screen actor, was arrested on suspicion of murder near here today after his motor car, pursued by a motorcycle patrolman, overturned and killed the youth's companion, Miss Marjorie Gauthier, 16.

The patrolman said he chased the Menjou car six miles along the Inglewood-Redondo boulevard at a speed of 78 miles an hour. Menjou was uninjured in the crash. The girl died on the way to a hospital.

57,000 Philadelphia Families Are Destitute

Philadelphia, June 19 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia committee for unemployment relief, after distributing $14,500,000 in the past 18 months, today announced it had decided to "dissolve forthwith" because of lack of funds.

At the same time it appealed to Gov. Pinchot to call another special session of the Legislature immediately to consider relief for the unemployed and for State-aided institutions, asserting 57,000 families will "face actual starvation" with the suspension of the committee's activities.

Big 4 to Seek Debt Plan at Parley Today

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 19 (A.P.).—The Big Four of Europe—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—will meet here tomorrow for a private and intensive effort to chart a definite channel for conversations they hope will permanently settle war debts and reparations.

Their meeting will come on the eve of plenary debate, which was dropped Friday after the nations represented here had agreed to forego an estimated $48,000,000 in war payments for the duration of the conference.

Aside from this decision, no authoritative evidence has turned up

DAVILA CLAIMS ALL CHILE BEHIND JUNTA

Reports of Counter-Revolt Denied; Army Takes Over Railroad.

Santiago, Chile, June 19 (A.P.).—Carlos Davila, head of the Socialist junta of Chile, emphatically declared today that all armed forces and a "united country" stood behind his government despite reports of another counter-revolt on behalf of Col. Marmaduke Grove, former head of the country's air service.

Simultaneously came an announcement from the junta that a destroyer was proceeding with Grove and his principal aid, Eugenio Matte, as prisoners to Juan Fernandez Island. This flatly contradicted reports that part of the air force had rebelled and was detaining the destroyer.

The junta also denied reports rebellious airmen had captured the airports at Iquique, Quintero and Valparaiso, and insisted the country was quiet.

The reports of a counter-revolt came last night, two days after Davila, ousted by Grove, returned to power with the backing of the army.

Late last night groups marched in the streets of Santiago cheering Col. Grove, the air corps and the navy, which was reported by counter-revolutionists as lukewarm toward Davila, but rain minimized the demonstration.

The army took over operation of the Valparaiso-Santiago Railroad when a protest strike was called, and troops protected military train crews. Efforts to start a tramway strike failed during the night.

Otherwise everything appeared to be normal and quiet in the capital.

Conflagration in Japan Takes $350,000 Toll

Kobe, Japan (Monday), June 20 (U.P.).—Seventy buildings in Kobe's business district were destroyed in a costly fire here early today. The blaze, believed of incendiary origin, started at 4:30 a. m. Damage was estimated at 1,000,000 yen ($350,000).

The impressive Sannomiya Club Building was among those destroyed. Several police and firemen were injured.

Former King Alfonso's Fortune Is Confiscated

Madrid, June 19 (A.P.).—Former King Alfonso's private fortune was declared confiscated today by the director of the Spanish republic's treasury. The fortune included more than $2,500,000 in cash and securities, as well as other possessions valued at more than $500,000.

BONUS GROUPS FAVOR REPEAL IN 'PLATFORM'

Seek View of Democratic 1932 Aspirants on Public Questions.

ALMAN PLANS FIGHT UPON HIS REMOVAL

Waters Scores Republicans for "Laughing Down" Bonus Plank.

The new political organization of the bonus expeditionary forces, having definitely aligned itself against President Hoover, called upon possible Democratic nominees for statements of opinions on public questions, and in particular their views on the bonus.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment was favored in the first declaration yesterday of the legislative committee of the army, which is directing the political policy of the veterans, as it began to lay a basis for army's "platform."

If the Democratic presidential nominee is against the bonus and other veterans legislation, the former soldiers will throw their support to a third party. Just what party this might be, they didn't say, but they have been talking of transforming their organization into a nucleus of a third party.

Waters Sends Out Letters.

To align the veterans against the Republican party, Commander in Chief Walter W. Waters directed letters to all veteran organizations throughout the country urging them to "Remember November," and telling them that an effort "to place a bonus plank in the Republican platform was laughed down and filed in the waste basket. Think it over, men."

A split in the army became nearer last night when George Alman, deposed national billeting officer of the army, announced he will carry the fight against his removal to the men in the ranks. Alman was removed after an arguments with Capt. William G. Stott, in which police sought to remove the men from an abandoned building on Pennsylvania avenue near Fourth street northwest.

The executive committee yesterday reaffirmed its verdict of removal for Alman. In the dispute with Capt. Stott, Alman shouted there was too much "back-pedaling by the national officers," and there would be some real action in the future.

Offered by Keyser.

The motion supporting repeal of the eighteenth amendment was made by William S. Keyser, of Cleveland, Ohio, and was seconded by M. Bern-

Wife of Calles Better On Passing Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, June 19 (A.P.).—Her condition slightly improved, Senora Leonor Calles, rushing to New York for medical treatment and a possible operation, passed through Pittsburgh at 8:30 (E. S. T.) tonight accompanied by her husband, former President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico. The party, traveling in two private cars, includes J. M. Puig Cassurane, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, and a corps of physicians.

"She is in a delicate condition," Gen. Calles, now Mexican minister of war, said she is suffering from meningitis. Ambassador Puig added, however, that Senora Calles was slightly better than during the past several days.

Nicaragua's Lack of Funds Hints Trouble in Election

Little Republic, Unwilling to Pay More Than $104,000 for U. S. Supervision, Declines to Use Part of Loan for Marines.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

A series of complications threatens to compromise the American marine supervision of the forthcoming Nicaraguan elections with grave outlook for the maintenance of order and tranquillity in the country. These complications are as follows:

1. The Nicaraguan government will refuse to pay any more than $104,000 and perhaps, not even that much, for the costs of the elections which may amount to $500,000.

2. The State Department is reported to have put forward certain conditions in supervising the administration of the $1,500,000 loan which the Nicaraguan government has refused to consider.

3. The loan was made for internal improvements in Nicaragua and the Nicaraguan government is reluctant to consent to the diversion of the loan for the payment of election expenses.

4. If Congress will not appropriate the sums necessary for the costs of the Marine supervision of the election, the State Department is contemplating making a proposal to President Moncada for the reduction of the proposed electoral commission from 843 to approximately 400 men with Nicaragua paying all the expenses.

5. Former President Adolfo Diaz is reported to be in New York canvassing New York financial agencies for the funds necessary to effect a coup d'etat with the collaboration of Gen. Emiliano Chamorro, now in Nicaragua.

The apparent intention of the Senate and House conferees with regard to the provision of the Navy appro-

Roosevelt Nominator To Be John E. Mack

Farley Declares Party Should Be Frank on Prohibition.

Poughkeepsie Attorney Sponsored His Start 22 Years Ago.

Chicago, June 19 (U.P.).—A declaration that the Democratic party should meet the prohibition question squarely, and "not pussyfoot," came today from the forces of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

James A. Farley, strapping 6-foot manager of Roosevelt's campaign, made the statement as he arrived here, full of fight and optimism, to dust out the headquarters formerly used by Chairman Simeon Fess, of the Republican national committee.

These quarters will be the base of the convention work by which Farley says he is confident the New York governor will become the Democratic nominee—and next President of the United States.

Just how far Roosevelt would go toward resubmission or repeal of the eighteenth amendment has been a big question, chiefly because his strength is centered largely in the West and South, hitherto regarded as the bulwark of the dry forces. Farley declined to discuss Roosevelt's position in detail today, but indicated the New York governor, who is on record

Albany N. Y., June 19 (A.P.).—John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, who placed Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in nomination for his first public office, State senator, 22 years ago, was chosen tonight by the New York Governor to place him in nomination for the Presidency at the Chicago Democratic convention.

A formal statement by the executive said:

"I am very happy that my old friend and neighbor, John E. Mack, has been good enough to say that he will make the nominating speech in my behalf at the Democratic national convention. Aside from my close association with him, covering a period of 25 years, it seems to me very fitting that the same man who, in 1910, placed me in nomination for the first office for which I was ever a candidate, should once more act as my sponsor."

Whose position in the New York delegation to the convention Mack would take to provide for his nominating speech was not immediately decided, it was explained. Reports said Mack would be named a district delegate to fill the position now held by

CICERO GANG BOMBS NEW MAYOR'S HOME

Attack Believed Inspired by Drive on Vice; Capone's Brother Arrested.

Chicago, June 19. (A.P.).—A heavy bomb was hurled today at the home of Joseph G. Cerny, recently installed Mayor of Cicero.

The explosive, projected from a speeding automobile, missed its mark but tore a gaping hole in the sidewalk in front of the residence and startled residents of the suburban village which, until several years ago, was widely known as the bailwick of the Alfonse Capone mob.

Police Chief Sullivan immediately dispatched his riot squads and they corailed eleven suspects, among them Albert Capone, who identified himself as the brother of the scarfaced gang leader now incarcerated in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

Strong guards of officers also were thrown around the Cerny home and the dwelling of State Senator Richey V. Graham, Democratic leader of Cicero and son-in-law of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago.

Mayor Cerny was in South Haven, Mich., for the week-end, but his sister-in-law, Miss Rose Novak, and a girl friend were in the house when it was rocked by the explosion. Windows throughout the neighborhood were shattered and the entire community aroused.

Sullivan laid the attack to Mayor Cerny's firm policy of suppressing gambling and eradicating organized vice in the village.

Chief Sullivan, a member of the Chicago department who was "farmed out" to the turbulent suburb by Mayor Cermak in anticipation of trouble when Cerny took over the administration, said:

"Cicero was under Capone domination once, but that is over. We are running all hoodlums out of town. Mayor Cerny said when he took office that if citizens wanted beer they could have it. But there will be no gangs or gambling in Cicero."

So startled was the clerk at the hotel when Sullivan arrested Capone, that he motioned the officer aside and whispered:

"Why, that's Mister Capone!"

88 in Minnesota Seek Congress Seats Today

St. Paul, Minn., June 19 (A.P.).—Eighty-eight candidates for congressional nomination wound up their campaigns tonight in preparation for Minnesota's State-wide primary Monday, when nine nominees will be selected by each of the three parties.

Farmer-Laborites have 35 candidates, Republicans 32 and Democrats 23 for Congress with large fields of aspirants for most State offices. Because Minnesota is without valid congressional districts, its nine representatives are to be chosen at large this year instead of by districts.

Japan Will Be Neutral On Seizure at Dairen

Tokyo (Monday), June 20 (U.P.).—Japan will take a neutral stand if the "independent state" of Manchukuo seizes the Chinese maritime customs office at Dairen, a government spokesman declared today.

Customs funds at the Japanese leased seaport, it was believed here, soon will be seized. The Manchukuoan government is without funds and has been under heavy expense in its military campaigns against Chinese irregulars.

GIRL U. S. EMPLOYE DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Three Companions Injured as Tragedy Ends Vacation Trip From Capital.

Indianapolis, June 19 (A.P.).—The vacation trip of four employes of the Federal tax department at Washington, D. C., ended here today in a head-on automobile collision that caused the death of Miss Beverley O'Brien, 22, of Highmore, S. Dak., and injury to her three companions.

Miss Lucille Leckie, 20, of Topeka, Kans., and Bert Bagranoff, 25, of St. Louis, Mo., were seriously hurt, and Kenneth Broderick, 23, of Washington, suffered minor injuries.

Their automobile, driven by Broderick, collided with a car driven by Thomas O'Connor, 22, of Indianapolis, on the national road a half mile east of Indianapolis this morning.

Dr. E. R. Wilson, deputy coroner, said blood tests he made showed O'Connor was intoxicated. O'Connor was arrested on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

The Washington group was en route from the Capital to St. Louis.

Mr. Broderick lives at 3105 Garfield street northwest and is employed by the District government. He left here Saturday morning with his companions to visit his grandmother in Kansas.

Miss Leckie lives at 3704 S street northwest. Authorities at Indianapolis were unable to learn the local addresses of Miss O'Brien and Bagranoff.

Police Nip Plot to Kill Crown Prince Leopold

Brussels, June 19 (U.P.).—A plot to assassinate Crown Prince Leopold was rumored today as the cause of special police precautions when the prince attended the colonial feasts at Mons.

Police mobilized an extra guard to assure the prince of safety and, it was said, discovered a secret meeting of Communists in a woods near the scene of the celebration attended by the prince.

Hospital Patients Fight Manchurian Guerillas

Mukden (Monday), June 20 (A.P.). Patients in the field hospital at Tangkangtze, 64 miles south of here, took up rifles to defend their lives today when a band of guerrillas attacked the South Manchurian Railroad station and the hospital. The station master and railroad personnel were taken captive.

Reinforcements of Manchukuoan and Japanese soldiers were dispatched from Mukden by special train to drive on the attackers.

Kvale and 2 Army Men Unhurt in Plane Crash

Baltimore, June 19 (A.P.).—A Government-owned monoplane piloted by two Army officers and taking Representative Paul J. Kvale, of Minnesota, from New York to Washington, was slightly damaged late this afternoon as it landed at Logan Field for weather reports. No one was injured.

Attendants at the field said the ship, named South Carolina, with Maj. Louis Field and Lieut. Goodrich at the controls, made a three-point landing and as it taxied its brakes locked, causing the rudder to break, nosing the ship into the ground. Representative Kvale and the two pilots continued to Washington by train.

AID SOLUTION BY SATURDAY SENATE'S AIM

Economy and Relief Are Last Hurdles Before Both Houses.

GARNER BILL CHANGE EFFORT SEEN TODAY

Vote on Furloughs or Pay Cuts Also Near; Victory for Former Likely.

(Associated Press.)

Turning down the road to adjournment, congressional pilots pushed yesterday toward the last steep hills—unemployment relief and governmental economy.

An end of the session by Saturday was the goal as the Senate neared the heart of the controversy over relief to the jobless and House leaders prepared to take up today the economy issue which got out of hand before.

The relief obstacle appeared the most formidable to the weary leaders. President Hoover, the Senate and the House each hold their own ideas on what should be done.

On one part of the program, that providing for a $300,000,000 emergency fund for relief loans to States, the President and the Senate were agreed, but the House has withheld actoin on it.

Garner Bill Conflict.

President Hoover called members of the House banking committee to a White House conference Saturday night in an effort to get action on the Senate bill providing this fund, but yesterday House leaders still insisted the Senate first should consider the $2,300,000,000 Garner relief bill.

This measure is now before the Senate, amended in committee to substitute the $2,000,000,000 program of Senate Democrats.

A sharp conflict was brewing over this bill because of its provision for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue to which President Hoover is opposed.

Administration Republicans were prepared to offer today an amendment to strike out this section.

Senate Democrats Confident.

There was also a fight in prospect over the other section of the Democratic bill, authorizing a $1,500,000,000 increase in the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation for loans on self-liquidating construction.

The bill excludes loans to private competitive industry which the administration has recommended. Senate Republicans were preparing to offer an amendment to make this change.

Senate Democrats were confident they had enough votes to approve the bond issue section of the bill, in which case their measure would be

Argentine Trade Envoy Assaulted and Robbed

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—Juan Emilio Capurro, trade representative of the President of the Argentine Republic, was beaten and robbed by two men in Grant Park early today.

At first thought seriously injured, Capurro was found at St. Luke's Hospital to have received a bad scalp wound, many bruises and a probable nose fracture. Money and jewelry and his letter of credit and letters of introduction were taken. Eduardo Gruning Rosas, Argentine consul, said.

Eucharistic Congress Near, Dublin Bars British Leader

Gov. Gen. McNeill Is Left Off List of Guests for State Reception Tomorrow; Many Poor Build Altars in Streets.

Dublin, June 19 (U.P.).—Gov. Gen. James McNeill, representative of King George in the Irish Free State, has been excluded from the list of guests invited to a state reception Tuesday night in honor of Cardinal Lauri, the papal delegate to the Eucharistic Congress.

The exclusion of the governor general was because he represents "an alien interest," a spokesman close to President Eamon de Valera said.

Dublin, June 19 (A.P.).—Dublin had its first glimpse today of the sheen and luster the Eucharistic Congress this week will bring, for many of the prelates attending have already arrived and appeared in the services today.

And the city was made aware, too, of the religious significance of the congress, for in the morning there was general communion of men throughout the island and the conclusion of retreats for men in the afternoon.

Dublin's slums were seething with color in anticipation of the congress, even as were the main streets of the city, for the poor had been saving their pennies from the dole and meager wages for six months.

Where they could not afford bunting banners, they used bits of colored glass and mirrors stuck in plaster, or even painted crude mottoes.

In many of the mean streets, the poor built altars, which constantly were the scenes of impromptu prayers.

The flags of every nation were used in Dublin's decorations today save the British union jack. There was not a solitary representative of the king's flag visible, apparently reflecting the bitterness of the current dispute over the oath of allegiance to the king.

The papal legate to the congress, Cardinal Lorenzo Lauri, passed through London today en route from Rome, and received a tumultuous ovation from thousands who fought to kiss his ring and robe.

Man Hurtles Off Train to 'Escape Gang'

A fantastic tale, describing at length the actions of a "gang" who had trailed him for days bent on taking his life and robbing him of his life's savings, was unfolded last night to railroad and police officials by a man who leaped from the observation platform of a speeding R. F. & P. train between Alexandria and Richmond, Va., and was brought to Washington for hospital treatment.

Joseph Fallon, 29 years old, who said he was from Jersey City, N. J., is in Gallinger Hospital in an undetermined condition, suffering from

MATRICIDE SUSPECT DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Two Companions Also Killed With Harry Hill, Illinois Social Leader.

Ottawa, Ill., June 19 (A.P.).—Harry Hill, 27, young social light, whose trial here a few years ago for the murder of his mother provided one of the most sensational and mysterious cases in Illinois' annals, was killed today when his airplane crashed at a local airport.

Two companions, Bert Lorenz, of Streator, and John Marshall, 20, of Berkeley, Calif., also were killed.

Hill, who was piloting the plane, was returning to Streator after a visit here, with the two youths as passengers.

Marshall, the son of Mrs. H. H. Clark, of Berkley, Calif., had planned to leave tomorrow to enter summer school at the University of California. Lorenz was the son of a Streator decorator.

Hill, social pet, high school cheer leader and former Knox College student, was tried in 1927 for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Hill.

The jury disagreed and the case is still on the docket here for retrial. He had pleaded not guilty.

He was arrested in Seattle September 3, 1927, after a Nation-wide search following discovery of the woman's body in a cellar grave in the basement of her home at Streator.

Harry's absence, a recent trouble over money matters and his mother's known opposition to his friendship with a young Streator woman immediately turned suspicion in his direction.

His capture followed sale of an automobile he had driven to the Coast. The engine numbers were traced and he was arrested at a hotel.

Although subjected to a severe grilling in Seattle and on his return to Streator, Harry persisted in declaring his innocence. He said he fled in

Garner Is Not Yet Able To Return to Capitol

(Associated Press.)

Ill from bronchitis for more than a week, Speaker Garner felt better yesterday, but was forced by damp streets and overcast skies to stay in his hotel rooms. Dr. George Calver, his physician, issued the following bulletin: "Speaker Garner shows continual improvement, but will not be able to be back at work tomorrow."

Garner kept in close touch with the legislative situation at the Capitol over the week-end, conferring with his party leaders and trying to help them clear the jam so Congress can adjourn.

2 SAVINGS BILL SECTIONS DRAW NEW PROTESTS

Restrictions on Married Employes and Night Work Flayed.

FIGHT TO KILL PLANS URGED ON CONGRESS

House Is Due to Decide on Furloughs or Cut in Pay Today.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Recommendations of House and Senate economy conferees, particularly as they hit night pay for Government workers, were vigorously condemned yesterday at a meeting of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101. Telegrams protesting drastic personnel provisions of the economy bill were ordered sent to every member of Congress.

At the same time bitter opposition to the recommendation of the conferees calling for the dismissal of wives whose husbands are also employed in the United States or District government, was voiced yesterday at a meeting of the National Woman's Party, as plans were laid for a campaign to have the provision stricken from the bill.

Clyde M. Mills, representative of the International Typographical Union, and president of the local, at the union meeting said the bill was "railroaded through Congress without hearings." He charged Federal employes were "deprived of every right granted them as citizens of this Nation;" that "the wage cut hysteria has affected Congress to such an extent that all other problems of the Nation are made secondary."

Attack on Provisions.

Following is an extract from the telegram dispatched to members of the House, who today will vote on the conference report:

"The International Typographical Union, comprising 78,000 members of more than 700 cities, most vigorously condemns the action of the conferees on the economy bill in reducing the higher rate of pay for night work in Government service. Senate committee, after fully understanding result of House section, amended the bill by striking out first four lines. The conferees have ignored this amendment.

"Action tends to show lack of knowledge of conditions in Government service and practices in outside industry. The Senate amendment should be insisted upon by both houses of Congress. Conferees' amendment to present law governing annual leave, making permanent reductions, when bill is intended as temporary. Employes of Government Printing Office do not receive leave until accumulated for one year. Conference report deprives them of leave due and not taken because of certain restrictions, while other employes have taken all accumulated leave."

Mr. Mills said that the proposal to cut the night pay differential 50 per cent will mean a reduction of approximately $225 to night printers in addition to the proposed pay cut.

The economy bill, he charged, will relieve the tax burden on people drawing more than $5,000 a year by taking savings from Government workers drawing less than $2,000.

Officers Are Installed.

Officers of the union for the coming year were installed at yesterday's session. Mr. Mills began his third term as president, and Fred S. Walker his seventh term as secretary-treasurer. Other officers installed included Vice President Frank D. Seiffert, J. M. Gentry, trustee, and Henry C. McLean, Arthur Armstrong and Harry C. Carter, auditors.

It was pointed out at the Woman's Party meeting, at Alva Belmont House, 144 B street southeast, that

SEABURY TO ATTEND CHICAGO CONVENTION

Foe of Roosevelt Admits He Has Engaged Suite; Not Party Delegate.

New York, June 19 (U.P.).—Samuel Seabury, Tammany Hall's most vigorous enemy, admitted today that he had "tentatively" engaged a hotel suite at Chicago for the period of the Democratic convention.

Although Mr. Seabury will be in the convention city as a private citizen, without the credentials of a delegate, New York politicians believe his presence there will bode no good to the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Seabury answered questions regarding his purpose in going to Chicago with the mild reply that he had attended "every convention of my party since 1904" and that he saw no reason why he should stay away from this one.

But his decision to be present means that almost the entire cast of the Seabury-Tammany-Walker-Roosevelt troupe, which staged one of the longest dramatic runs on record with their "sins of New York," will be on hand when the convention opens.

Mr. Seabury's antipathy for Tammany and his unfriendliness to Gov. Roosevelt have not been softened by recent events. A statement by Gov. Roosevelt's "spokesman," in which the chief counsel for the Hofstadter investigating committee was severely criticized and charged with playing politics in his complaint against Mayor James J. Walker, is said to have angered Mr. Seabury.

Mr. Seabury also was accused by the "spokesman" of dumping the Walker case on the governor's doorstep at a time when it might be embarrassing to Gov. Roosevelt's national aspirations, and to further his own ambitions, if any.

Mr. Seabury has never made any public reply to the "spokesman's" statement, except that two days later he slapped down a formal complaint "as a private citizen" against the New York mayor.

Maine Casts Vote Today in Primary

Five in Each Party Are Out for Governor; Candidate List Totals 300.

Portland, Maine, June 19 (A.P.).—The people of Maine tonight neared the end of a primary campaign more or less confused by pledges and promises of a multitude of candidates. Republican and Democratic nominees for office ranging from clerks of courts to representatives in Congress will be chosen by the electorate tomorrow from a list of more than 300 aspirants.

The Democrats, usually quiescent in this normally Republican State, but stimulated this year by the national "victory" drive, have contests for every major nomination. With only one exception, Republicans, too, are contesting for each important post.

Ten candidates, five in each party, are desirous of the two opposing gubernatorial nominations. Fifteen men aspire to the Republican or Democratic nominations for representative to Congress in the three Maine districts. Several of these races have been enlivened by the prohibition issue, which entered even the gubernatorial campaign.

Platform Ignores Women, Is Charge

Party Leader Raps G. O. P. in Citing Concern Over Other Groups.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican platform was censured last night by Mrs. John Brisben Walker, of New York, National Woman's Party official, as one which "completely ignores women's demand for equality of opportunity."

Through a statement from the Woman's Party headquarters, Mrs. Walker said "for the first time since 1912 a national convention of a major political party does absolutely nothing to advance the position of women."

"The Republican party in its platform expresses concern for the rights of Puerto Ricans, Hawaiians, Alaskans, the Negro race, the Indians, the veterans, and so on," she added, "but evidences no concern whatever over the position of women, despite the fact that women's status is inferior to that of any of the other groups."

Hitler Party Makes Gain In Hesse Diet Elections

Darmstadt, Germany, June 19 (A.P.).—The National Socialists of Adolf Hitler gained further strength in the state Diet of Hesse in an election today, but failed to obtain an absolute majority by four seats.

Continuing the upward move registered in other recent elections, the Nazis succeeded in raising their number of seats in the Hessian Diet from 27 last November to 32 today. The Social Democrats increased their seats from two to seventeen, the Centrists won ten, and the Communists took seven, losing three.

sent to conference with the Garner bill.

The result probably would be a compromise measure written by the House and Senate conferees.

Leaders were hopeful of an early settlement of the economy issue. The conference report on the national economy bill was before the House for consideration of the disagreement over Federal pay cuts.

3 Supply Bills Also Up.

The House will vote today whether it will favor drastic pay cuts or yield to the President's furlough plan which was adopted by the Senate. Republican leaders believed the furlough plan would win, in which case the controversy will be over.

Several smaller obstacles also stood yesterday in the way of adjournment, but they were expected to cause little trouble.

Senate leaders planned to ask for a vote on the House bill, sponsored by the administration, for the creation of a system of home loan discount banks.

The Senate also still had to approve three of the ten annual supply bills for running the Government during the next fiscal year.

Many Delegates Lined Up For Roosevelt by Phone

Farley, His Contact Man, Reveals Secrets of His Operations.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—When the story of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination is told, James A. Farley said recently, "there will be plenty of surprises."

Farley is the 6-foot-2, 215-pound "contact expert" who has been field marshal of the Roosevelt forces. His telephone work is one of the "surprises" he referred to.

"I doubt," he said, in his customary booming voice, "that the public will ever believe how many States were carried for the governor by a telephone call or two."

As he made the statement he had eight long-distance calls in—to points as far away as Texas.

"And that's nothing," he added. "I can remember when I've had as many as twelve calls like that in at one time."

In the last few months he has telephoned to every one of the 48 States and to many of the Territories.

His "swings" around the country have taken him into 37 States and the District of Columbia.

His assistants have sent out more than 500,000 pieces of literature—all bearing the smiling likeness of "the chief," as they call Roosevelt.

Farley has two passions—one for maps and the other for contacting. At his headquarters he has a corps of girls who do nothing but make maps—maps showing the political complexion of the country at a glance, the strength of every candidate for the nomination, the contacing situation, and most everything else a campaign manager ought to know.

JAMES A. FARLEY.

Farley is proud of his contacting. His friends call him the world's champion. He himself says he probably knows more men than any other person in the world.

And he remembers most of their names and a majority of their faces.

for a change, would stand for a more direct commitment than that of the Republicans in their plank.

The Roosevelt manager made it plain that while prohibition is the focal point of most discussions as the convention nears, Roosevelt's candidacy will be advanced on the strength of measures to meet the economic depression, and that much more attention is to be given these other issues than was paid them by the Republicans.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the national executive committee, repeated today his forecast the Democratic convention would adopt a plank similar to the minority plank rejected by the Republicans which recommended repeal with protection for the "dry" States.

Farley reiterated his insistence of the last two months that Roosevelt will be nominated on the first ballot by virtue of a band-wagon stampede. He envisaged this as sweeping through the great stadium here after the cautious, and those pledged to other candidates, had heard, from State after State, the steady refrain, "Roosevelt, Roosevelt, Roosevelt."

As evidence of the Roosevelt edge even before the convention begins, Farley—New York boxing commissioner—pointed to a big map on the wall attesting to his capabilities as a political manager. The map of the United States is almost bathed in red, representing those States whose delegates are actually pledged or instructed for Roosevelt. These total 32, whose votes, together with those of Alaska, Hawaii, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia, make a grand total of 566, or nearly half of the convention. Beyond these are listed 95 votes not instructed, but favorable, with 30 in Indiana which are expected to go for Roosevelt—a grand total of 691.

It requires two-thirds, 770 of the 1,154, to nominate. Farley said there will be sufficient switches before the first ballot is completed to push the total beyond this figure.

Anti-Roosevelt Forces.

Farley's arrival brought the two preconvention generals of the Roosevelt and "Stop Roosevelt" forces to the scene of battle. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the national executive committee, is already here. He is regarded as the genius of the anti-Roosevelt movement. Advance agents of other candidates are arriving to set up headquarters early next week.

The Roosevelt manager issued his challenge today by serving notice that the forces of the New York Governor will move right into the convention at the outset to throttle the anti-Roosevelt forces, gain control of the convention, and then proceed with their business of nominating their candidate.

The Roosevelt leaders will "go down the line," he said, for Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who wielded the gavel at the turbulent 1924 Madison Square Garden convention, as permanent chairman against Shouse, the candidate of the anti-Roosevelt group led by Alfred E. Smith and Chairman John J. Raskob, of the national committee.

For their floor managers, the Roosevelt leaders have gone to the Middle West. Farley announced that Arthur Mullen, national committeeman from Nebraska, had been selected for this post.

Ritchie Manager Arrives.

The Roosevelt lieutenants are doing things here in a metropolitan manner. A private switchboard was installed in their headquarters for clearing calls in and out, many of which will be hooked in directly with the governor at Albany. Whether Roosevelt will come here in person still is a question.

Robert B. Ennis, campaign manager here for Ritchie, said today the Maryland Governor would be for a straight-out repeal plank in the Democratic platform, with a provision also for modification of the Volstead act to permit beer and wine meanwhile. E. Brooke Lee, former speaker of the Maryland Assembly, will represent Maryland and Ritchie on the resolutions committee. Ritchie, who is a delegate, will arrive next Saturday with his State delegation.

The handsome Maryland executive's name will be placed before the convention by Senator Millard Tydings and will be seconded by Richard Folsom Cleveland, Baltimore, son of President Grover Cleveland. Howard Bruce, national committeeman, will be Ritchie's floor manager.

JOHN E. MACK IS SELECTED TO NOMINATE ROOSEVELT

Henry Morgenthau, jr., another Dutchess County neighbor of the governor, but Mr. Roosevelt said the acceptance of the job by Mack was so recent this phase of the matter had not been discussed.

The announcement of the selection of Mack set at rest rumors involving a half-dozen names of New Yorkers as the nominator. Among those names was that of United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York.

A recent secret meeting between John F. Curry, leader of the powerful Tammany Hall delegation, and Mr. Roosevelt, was followed by a rep rt that Curry had prevailed upon the governor not to choose Wagner as the nominator. This was said to have been founded on an idea that Wagner had failed to aid Tammany Hall in blocking the present Republican Legislature's investigation into New York City's governmental machinery.

Mack came into his most recent public notice last week when Gov. Roosevelt selected him as one of two "eminent counsel" to aid him in his study of Samuel Seabury's charges against Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City.

A year after Roosevelt had taken office for his first term, he named Mack to fill a vacancy on the supreme Court bench in his district. Mack, seeking reelection the following fall in a strong Republican area, was defeated.

Mack, as a member of the Poughkeepsie law firm of John Hackett, was attorney for the governor's father, James Roosevelt.

When a national political unrest began to upset the Republican party more than 20 years ago, Mack was elected a Democratic district attorney in Republican Dutchess County. With this foothold, he succeeded in building up the then young and virtually unknown Roosevelt for the candidacy for State senator. Roosevelt was elected in the fall of 1910 and, with Mack still carrying the sword for him, was reelected in 1912.

A Dutchess County triumvirate, Roosevelt, Mack and Thomas M. Lynch, present State tax commissioner and old friend of the governor, toured to San Francisco for the 1920 Democratic national convention. A campaign, with Mack and Lynch contributing a generous share, brought to Roosevelt the nomination for the Vice Presidency.

Given to Homely Speech.

Mack, a Dutchess County "gentleman farmer," declares himself no orator. His speech is homely, toned to audiences of common folk. In his address to the juries before which he appears as an attorney, he turns to the language they know and holds their attention.

"John E" is the salutation for him in his home county and he in turn addresses figuratively the population of the county by its first name. Mack, a man of more than comfortable means, lives in a home in the suburbs of Poughkeepsie and maintains a farm near the Massachusetts border of the county.

Tall, youthful appearing but dignified, Mack attracts attention without ostentation. A flowing black bow tie, worn on all occasions, helps to label him the barrister.

'Daddy' Browning's Counsel.

He is a member of the Catholic Church. His family is a wife, two sons and a daughter, one of the sons a member of his law firm. He was born on a Dutchess County farm in 1874 and educated at a parochial school and the Poughkeepsie High School. He read law in the firm of Hackett and Williams.

One of the most famous cases in which Mack served as counsel was the divorce fight of the James A. Stillmans. He is reputed to have convinced Mrs. Stillman she should fight the banker's effort to procure a divorce.

Mack also was attorney for Edward (Daddy) Browning in the court troubles the real estate man had with his youthful wife, Frances "Peaches" Browning.

Milwaukee Animal Fancier Dies.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 19 (A.P.).—Miss Lenore Cawker, who attained a unique place in affections of the Middle West by devoting her life to relief of suffering among animals, died here today. She was 58. On clover fields about Milwaukee dozens of the horses are browsing today because Miss Cawker rescued them from the fox farms when Milwaukee motorized its fire department.

REDS OF NEW YORK PUBLISH PLATFORM

Regard It "Refreshing Contrast to Vote-Shopping Compromises."

Schenectady, N. Y., June 19 (U.P.).—The Communist party of the State of New York today made public its campaign platform with the mild suggestion that the public "may find it a refreshing contrast to vote-shopping compromises adopted by the old-time parties."

The Communists' preamble, dire in its forebodings and graphic in its description of the suffering of the masses, makes a direct appeal to war veterans, Negroes, farmers and unskilled workers, and asks for "a huge vote to show Hoover, the bosses and bankers that we are united."

It promises:

"Unemployment insurance to the full amount of their wages" for all workers, industrial or farmer, through funds to be raised by heavy taxation on incomes above $5,000, special levies on capital above $100,000, reduction in salaries of all officials getting more than $2,500 a year, and the turning over of all army, naval and war appropriations into unemployment and social insurance funds.

In addition, the Communists want:

State building of workers' homes, to be rented at cost.

No eviction for unemployed.

Free food, shoes, clothing, milk and school supplies for all children of unemployed.

Full payment of veterans' bonus.

Immediate payment in full of all deposits in failed banks, by the State.

The seven-hour day, with no overtime.

Exemption of "poor farmers" from all taxes.

Full social, economic and political rights for Negroes.

Abolition of all vagrancy laws.

Right of soldiers and sailors to elect their own officers.

Withdrawal of all American armed forces from China, the Philippines, Latin America and all colonies or "semicolonies."

G. O. P. Urged to Offer Dry Plank to Congress

Philadelphia, June 19 (A.P.).—If the Republicans want to "prove that the administration prohibition plank was not a straddle," the Republican citizens committee against prohibition suggested today, they can do it by presenting to Congress now the amendment on which they would sanction a referendum.

The suggestion was contained in a telegram sent today to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who last week praised the plank as a forthright declaration. Raymond Pitcairn, of this city, who signed the telegram as vice chairman of the committee, said copies had been sent to President Hoover, the other cabinet members and all the Republicans in Congress.

Bay State Smith Men Deny Dejection Report

Boston, June 19 (A.P.).—The assertion that there has been no defection in the Massachusetts Democratic delegation pledged to the support of Alfred E. Smith was made today by John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Boston and a delegate at large.

Commenting on a conference yesterday between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and M. Fred O'Connell, a Smith-pledged delegate, Fitzgerald said the Massachusetts Democratic delegates had received a mandate from the people, and any one who did not "carry through" for former Gov. Smith would say "good-by to any political future."

Mrs. Boole Asserts Dry Leaders Steam-Rollered

Evanston, Ill., June 19 (A.P.).—Withholding her personal opinion of the Republican prohibition plank, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, today charged that dry leaders were "steam rollered" at the Republican convention.

"The statement that the Republican plank was written with the acquiesence of dry leaders is news to me and I do not believe it," Mrs. Boole said. In resolutions committee sessions, she declared, "many a dry delegate was deliberately silenced by the steam-roller methods of the Republican bosses."

Gov. Roosevelt Studies Walker Case Testimony

Albany, N. Y., June 19 (A.P.).—A testing of the "analysis" Samuel Seabury made of the Mayor Walker testimony was begun jointly tonight by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and his special counsel of two on the case.

From tonight's meeting of the three men—the Democratic governor and the attorneys, John E. Mack and Martin Conboy—was expected to evolve a decision on Mr. Roosevelt's part as to his next step on Seabury's charges against New York city's chief executive. A possibility existed that Mr. Roosevelt would reveal his decision before the end of the week.

Colored Democrats Will Meet Tonight

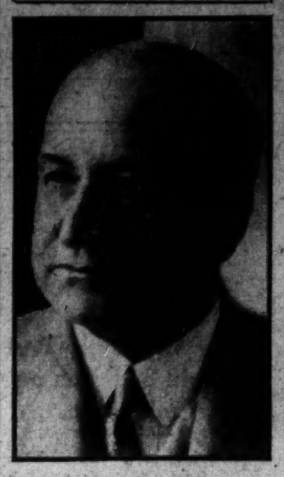
F. Q. Morton to Preside Under Victory Fund Army Auspices.

Ferdinand Q. Morton, colored Civil Service Commissioner, of New York, and leader of the Negro Tammany Hall group, will be the principal speaker tonight at Pythian Hall, Twelfth and U streets northwest, at a mass meeting of colored Democrats under auspices of the Victory Fund Army. This group, which has been perfecting its organization during the last two years, is expected to develop a national leadership this month, with Commissioner Morton or Dr. W. H. Thompkins, of Missouri, heading it up.

Colored Republicans will begin discussion of organization of voters for the forthcoming campaign tonight also, in New York, where the Negro Business League, headed by Robert R. Moton, of Tuskegee, will begin a four-day session. These voters were headed four years ago by Dr. John R. Hawkins, president of the Prudential Bank, who, if displaced, may be succeeded by Robert R. Church, Perry W. Howard, Charles E. Mitchell or Judge William C. Hueston, of Indiana.

Speakers for the Pythian Hall meeting include Representative Samuel B. Pettingill, of Indiana; Dean Kelly Miller, of Howard University; M. L. Plant, of Texas; W. H. Whaley, of Boston; W. H. James and J. W. Phoenix.

ON PROGRAM



HENRY J. ALLEN,
assistant to the president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, who will address the National Retail Credit Association at the Mayflower tomorrow.

FOX MAY MISS QUIZ ON STOCK BY SENATE

Delay in Inquiry Is Forced by Other Legislation, Norbeck Says.

(Associated Press.)

Too ill to appear last week at the Senate banking committee's investigation of his stock market activities, William Fox, former motion-picture magnate, may miss the questioning which awaited him.

Chairman Norbeck of the committee said yesterday other legislation, including the Pittman silver bill, would delay for several days resumption of the stock market inquiry. In the meantime, however, Fox, who is ill in his hotel room here, will be kept under subpena, Norbeck said.

Senator Carey (Republican), Wyoming, said Saturday when Fox again failed to appear, upon the advice of his physician, that he would move that the committee visit his room to take testimony.

"The evidence is in the record," replied Norbeck, indicating that the organizer of Fox Films and Fox Theater corporations, might not be needed to testify. Some other members hold the same view.

Dr. F. A. Hornaday, House physician of the Mayflower Hotel, yesterday told newspapermen that he had advised Fox against appearing in the next few days, because "an emotional strain" might make him a sever diabetic.

Despite Fox's absence, William A. Gray, the committee's investigator, Saturday completed his picture of Fox's dealings by exhibiting a photostatic copy of a $322,960 check with which he said the former theater operator had been paid a profit from short selling stock of one of his corporations.

Gray said the check was made out to P. J. Higgins, a partner in M. J. Neehan & Co., but indorsed to Fox in order to conceal that the latter was in a short-selling pool of the Fox Theater corporations.

League Group to Press War Debts Settlement

New York, June 19 (U.P.).—A nation-wide campaign "to convince Congress of the wisdom of taking action seeking an immediate settlement of inter-Governmental debts, reparations, trade barriers and other basic problems underlying the depression" was announced today by George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, acting in his capacity as president of the League of Nations Association.

The campaign would also seek Congressional action "authorizing the President to initiate the necessary negotiations" for such settlements, the announcement stated.

Comdr. James Gromer Claimed by Pneumonia

Seattle, June 19 (A.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. James G. B. Gromer, 42, navigating officer of the airplane carrier Saratoga and a professor of naval science at the University of Washington in 1927 and 1928, died here today of pneumonia.

He was graduated from Annapolis in 1911 and had served 14 years in active sea duty. During the World War he was attached to a destroyer in the North Sea. His widow, Belle Burns Gromer, a fiction writer, survives.

MAN 'FLEEING GANG,' HURTLES FROM TRAIN

severe lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Fallon said he was en route to New Orleans, La. He said for days he had attempted to elude a gang of men, who, he declared, intended to rob and murder him. This gang, he said, was also aboard the southbound train on which he was traveling to New Orleans.

Witnesses on the observation car said they noticed Fallon standing on the rear platform for some time. Suddenly, they said, he leaped into space. The train was traveling at a high rate of speed and his body was seen to hurtle over and over after striking the ground.

The train was immediately stopped and after backing some distance reached Fallon lying unconscious near the tracks.

A northbound train was flagged and Fallon was placed aboard. Police and railroad authorities here were notified and met the train at Union Station. He was given first aid treatment at the station and transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

Fear that the "gang would soon get him" prompted Fallon to leap from the train, police declared.

The man was well dressed, police said, and was carrying expensive luggage. A search of his effects revealed no tickets to New Orleans, but a return trip ticket from Washington to New York was found. Police were of the opinion he suddenly made up his mind to go South and left without purchasing a ticket here.

Until his story is investigated, Fallon is being held under a charge of mental observation.

NEW TAXES TO TAKE EFFECT TOMORROW

Treasury Seeking to Realize $654,000,000 by Levies; Individual to Pay.

(Associated Press.)

Upon the stroke of midnight tonight the major machinery of the new tax bill will be thrown into gear, to operate continuously through June 30, 1934.

At that time the Government's program for raising more than half of the additional tax burden of $1,118,500,000 will be launched through a new manufacturers' excise levy, stamp taxes and miscellaneous others. From these the Treasury hopes to realize $654,000,000 during the coming fiscal year.

Apparently few purchasing agents throughout the land will be spared by the new imposts. The list of taxable articles includes a cross section of more or less essentials, such as matches, gasoline, electricity for domestic and commercial usage, automobiles and tires, candy, soft drinks, toilet preparations and a host of others. From these manufacturers' excise taxes the Government expects $457,000,000 next year.

Theatergoers Are Hit.

Under the miscellaneous imposts are found telephone messages costing more than 50 cents, telegraph and cable communications and a tax on admissions—designed to raise $64,500,000.

The stamp taxes on security issues, security transfers, conveyances, checks and the like, is calculated to provide further revenues of $132,500,000.

The tax on admissions is applicable at the rate of 1 cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof on charges above 40 cents. Admissions not only to theaters but "to any place" are affected. The tax must be collected from the persons paying the admissions, and persons, except employes, admitted free or at reduced rates must pay the tax.

Certain exemptions are made in favor of religious, educational or charitable organizations, except at wrestling, prize fighting, boxing or sparring matches, or other pugilistic exhibitions. The regulations made public yesterday provided no exemption for college athletic games or for those operated by the Government.

Lodges Are Exempted.

The tax on tickets sold for more than the established price is 10 per cent of the excess remaining after the fixed price and the tax have been deducted. This tax which has been in effect since June 6 is paid by the seller.

Dues and initiation fees to any social, athletic or sporting club or organization are taxable at the rate of 10 per cent if the dues of an active resident "annual member are in excess of $25 per year, and if initiation fees amount to more than $10.

Exempted from the provisions are amounts paid to a fraternal society, order or association, operating under the lodge system, or to any local fraternal organization among the schools and colleges.

Life membership costs are not taxable, but the holders are required to pay a tax equivalent to that paid by annual members for dues or membership fees other than assessments.

Increased postage which is expected to help slash the Postoffice Department's deficit are not to go into effect until next month.

Treasury Bulletin Lists Amusement Tax Imposts

Leases on boxes or seats in roof gardens, cabarets and similar places of amusement, dues or initiation fees, cover charges, which represent charges in excess of established prices at resorts and restaurants, will be taxed under the new Treasury levies, it was revealed yesterday when a bulletin covering a portion of the new set of Federal taxes was issued.

In yesterday's bulletin from the Treasury Department, only the admissions tax, which will take 10 per cent of amusement fees above 40 cents, were covered, but the other levies are due to emerge as soon as the legal and technical work of preparing their details is completed, it was learned.

On straight admissions, the regulations provide, the ticket purchaser must pay the amount of the tax in addition to the impost of the operator of the enterprise. On cover charges and similar charges in excess of established prices, which many resorts impose, the operators of the places must account for collections, under that heading and remit 10 per cent.

The term admission is defined by the regulations as "the right to enter into a place." However, the law specifically provides that it shall also include "seats and tables, reserved or otherwise, and similar accommodations."

A charge for their use must therefore be treated as a taxable charge for admission, and not as a rental charge, it is explained. Therefore, an amount paid for the right to use a reserved seat at a theater or circus, or a table in a roof garden, a seat in a hotel room or a window to view a parade, is taxable. This applies to tickets combining both charges and when the charges are separated.

Exemptions from the impost in the new statute, the regulation said, shall only be allowed where receipts above ordinary costs go to religious, charitable or educational purposes.

Government Coalition Wins New South Wales

Sydney, Australia, June 19 (A.P.).—Final results of the election in New South Wales a week ago showed today that the government coalition of the United Australia and country parties were given more than twice as many seats in the Legislature as the combined opposition groups.

The distribution was: United Australia party, 41; Labor, 24; Country party, 23; Unity party, 2. The coalition is headed by B. S. B. Stevens, state premier, and the Labor opposition by former Premier J. T. Lang.

Hoover Spends Busy Sunday in White House

(Associated Press.)

Forgoing his usual custom of attending church Sunday mornings, President Hoover spent yesterday secluded in the White House.

White House attaches said there were no callers and that the Chief Executive worked most of the day. With Congress entering on its final days of the session, Mr. Hoover decided against making his usual weekend trip to his mountain camp in Virginia.

Telegraphic Dispatches

Atlanta, June 19 (A.P.).—During a heavy downpour of rain that flooded numerous Atlanta streets last night, forcing water a foot deep into several stores, fire headquarters received an alarm from the box at Grady Hospital. Five downtown fire companies fought through the pelting rain and vivid flashes of lightning to answer the call. Reaching the hospital they found a man, not later identified, who said he thought the box was used to summon taxicabs.

Cambridge, Mass., June 19 (A.P.).—Present unsatisfactory economic conditions are not caused by "sun spots or by changes in climate," President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, said today in his baccalaureate sermon. "They flow from human conduct and are hence under human control."

Middletown, Conn., June 19 (A.P.).—Prohibition was termed a failure today by President James L. McConaughy in the baccalaureate address at Wesleyan University. "The experiment was, I think, a noble one," he said, "but it has proved to be a failure; some other method must be tried."

Hanover, N. H., June 19 (A.P.).—President Ernest Martin Hopkins, of Dartmouth College, in delivering the annual baccalaureate address today, charged the American people with a lack of courage in facing a "period of crisis in world affairs so great and so complicated as to bewilder thought."

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—A conference of universities will be held next November in an effort to fix the responsibilities and obligations of educational institutions in the present economic and social stress. In issuing the call today, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown, of New York University, sponsor of the conference, said 37 leading educators and business men had joined him in the movement.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker was 51 today and he cut a cake. Presented in the grounds of the Shield of David Home for orphan girls, the cake was in the shape of a huge heart.

Montreal, Quebec, June 19 (A.P.).—The death toll in Friday's explosion which wrecked the tanker Cymbeline and the Canadian Vickers drydock tonight stood at 24, of whom three were unidentified. Three others were missing and presumed dead.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 19 (A.P.).—Attempting to regain the world record for delayed parachute drops, Joe Long, San Antonio, Tex., gave it up after a drop of 5,000 feet today when he felt himself fainting and pulled the rip cord. He leaped at an altitude of 19,000 feet from a plane piloted by Glenn Fellows, of Jackson, Mich. The record is 15,000 feet, set by Spud Manning, of Los Angeles, in 1929, a year after Long had established the previous record of 5,000 feet.

Pittsburgh, June 19 (A.P.).—Two Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad locomotives crashed head-on today only 100 yards from a lofty trestle above a main thoroughfare. No one was injured. Company officials estimated the damage at $20,000.

Baltimore, June 19 (A.P.).—The flags of two nations fluttered over the heads of marching men here today as delegates from many parts of the United States and Canada gathered for the opening tomorrow of the annual convention of Civitan International.

Trenton, Nebr., June 19 (A.P.).—A cloudburst in this vicinity last night caused the death of one man, did thousands of dollars worth of damage and sent a flood 3 feet deep through Trenton's streets.

Pittsburgh, June 19 (A.P.).—Richard B. Mellon today laid the corner stone of the costly new church being erected where the Mellon family has worshipped for more than a century. The edifice is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Mellon to the congregation of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church in memory of the donors' mothers. Estimates of its cost have been as high as $3,000,000.

Princeton, N. J., June 19 (A.P.).—President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, in his last baccalaureate address today, urged the members of the graduating class to try to formulate ideals "which must guide us back to a normal basis of existence which will insure a permanent and true prosperity."

New Haven, Conn., June 19 (A.P.).—President James Rowland Angell, of Yale, urged the university's seniors in his baccalaureate address today to do everything possible to make the world recognize the futility of war. "Assuming that we really recover from the last one," he asked, "are we to live indefinitely in a world where the sinister clouds of war constantly threaten to descend and wipe out civilization?"

Colby, Kans., June 19 (A.P.).—Frank (Doc) Young, 28, of Colby, committed suicide by cutting his throat in the county jail here today after making a confession admitting his complicity and accusing Wade Tate, 32, in the murder of an unidentified man whose body was found by harvesters in a straw stack fifteen miles northeast of Colby last July 20. Sheriff Edward H. McGinley said Tate had made a confession two weeks ago accusing Young of the actual slaying, which, both said, had resulted from a quarrel February 3, 1931, about who could husk the most corn.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 19 (A.P.).—Frank B. Metcalf, Milwaukee County supervisor, today was nominated Socialist candidate for governor. He was candidate for the same office in 1930. Emil Zidel, Milwaukee's first Socialist mayor, was nominated for United States senator, and William Coleman, Milwaukee alderman, for lieutenant governor.

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—The Chicago Association of Commerce reported today that during the Republican national convention wholesale and retail turnover of seasonal goods showed an upward trend, resulting from special bargains and low railroad rates. Farm employment in the Middle West was better during the week and local dealers made a more favorable showing on lower-priced automobiles, the report said.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Berlin, June 19 (A.P.).—Extremists of the right and left skirmished in various parts of Germany over the week-end and scores were injured. Communists systematically provoked National Socialist followers of Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, at Elberfeld. Sixteen persons, including two policemen, were taken to hospitals. Chairs hurled from Brown House, local Nazi headquarters, at Cologne, greeted police attempting to disperse a forbidden demonstration of Nazi stormtroopers and members of the steel-helmet organization.

Madrid, June 19 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the National Exportation Association today decided to call a general convention to study "the difficult situation in the markets of the United States, England, Belgium, Germany and Argentina regarding Spanish agricultural products." The committee called the regulations of the United States affecting oranges, grapes, peppers, and onions "an absolute prohibition and unjust," and so designated part of the restrictions in other countries.

Newcastle, New South Wales, June 19 (A.P.).—Manned by a crew of three men and three women, the ship Gullmarn, 34 feet long with a 14-foot beam, has started on a voyage around the world. The ship, a former Swedish pilot boat, is making for London by way of the Torres Straits, the Indian Ocean and the African Coast. The party includes Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Metcalf, of Sydney; Miss Rene Saxby, Mrs. B. Birtles, S. H. Morris and H. P. Nicholson.

Tashkent, U. S. S. R., June 19 (U.P.).—The death sentence passed upon former Chief Prosecutor Shamsi Badretdinov, charged with using his high position secretly to combat communism in Central Asia, was commuted today to ten years imprisonment. The trial of the prosecutor of the Uzbekistan Republic and five others, was a sensational case, as they were charged with converting the judicial apparatus of the republic into a stronghold for anti-Soviet elements over a period of many years.

VANNIE HIGGINS DIES FROM GANG BULLETS

Notorious Brooklyn Racketeer Fatally Wounded Leaving K. of C. Clubhouse.

New York, June 19 (A.P.).—A storm of bullets overtook Charles (Vannie) Higgins, notorious Brooklyn racketeer, when he forsook his bodyguard and ventured out in the role of a family man early today.

Higgins was wounded fatally and his 7-year-old daughter, Jean, whose request had led him to drop his customary vigilance for an evening, was grazed by a bullet.

Eight gunmen in two automobiles blasted away at him as he emerged from the Knights of Columbus clubhouse in Brooklyn, where he had watched his daughter take part in a school entertainment.

Higgins' wife and mother-in-law also were with him, but they were untouched by the spray of bullets.

As the Higgins family emerged from the clubhouse and started for their expensive coupe, the two gang cars drew abreast.

"Hey, Vannie," some one carolled, and Vannie turned.

Sure of their quarry, the gunmen began blasting. A splotch of blood appeared on the lobe of little Jean's left ear as she dived for the coupe. Later, however, doctors said she was unhurt. Higgins' wife and mother-in-law ducked back into the clubhouse, but the racketeer elected to run.

He sprinted madly down the street. His assailants followed leisurely behind, pumping bullets at him. Then he sprawled on the sidewalk and they hastened away.

A blood transfusion was resorted to at the hospital, but Higgins sank steadily, dying shortly before 4 p. m. Sluga had struck him in the chest, abdomen and arm.

Higgins' police record began in 1915. He had been arrested on numerous charges ranging from homicide down, but his only convictions appear to have been on disorderly conduct and intoxicated driving charges.

While he preferred to describe himself as a respectable lobster fisherman, police said he owned the Cigarette, which they called the "fleetest rum-runner in New York waters," as well as a seaplane and a fleet of land vehicles used, they said, for liquor transportation.

Clockwork Machine Found in School.

St. Bees, Cumberland, England, June 19 (U.P.).—Police today investigated circumstances surrounding the discovery of a clockwork machine beneath the dais at St. Bees School yesterday when Lord Lloyd, the Bishop of Carlisle, and 350 men, women and children were attending a ceremony there. The machine was timed for 3:30 p. m., at which time Lord Lloyd was distributing annual prizes to the students.

Publisher Criticizes Court Powers in Contempt Cases

Head of Indiana Paper, Given Jail Sentence for Opposing Selection of Bank Receiver, Says Decision Affects "Free Press."

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following dispatch was written by Don M. Nixon, editor of the Wabash (Ind.) Plain Dealer, who faces a sentence of ten days in jail and a fine of $100 for contempt of court because he criticized a judge for what he believed to be the appointment of an incompetent bank receiver. Editor Nixon tells the details of his part in the case, and explains why he believes his forthcoming battle against the jail sentence will prove important in the annals of the "free press" movement.

By DON M. NIXON.

Wabash, Ind., June 19 (U.P.).—Because the Plain Dealer criticized the appointment of a village garage keeper as the receiver for a bank with $1,000,000 in deposits I have been sentenced by the Wabash County Circuit Court for indirect contempt to ten days in jail and a fiine of $100.

I have appealed the case and await the decision with interest, not only because it involves my own personal freedom, but the freedom of the press throughout Indiana, and perhaps because of the precedent established, throughout the country. It is difficult, meanwhile, for me to write a news story "so close to home," but I shall attempt it by writing in the third person and calling myself "The Publisher."

Circuit Judge Frank O. Sweitzer appointed Quinten Carger as receiver of the Wabash County Loan & Trust Co. The Publisher made no comment, even though none of the 900 depositors knew Carger, and even though his only business experience had been as the keeper of a garage in the village of Roan.

The directors remained in the bank and apparently influenced the receiver. Many of the depositors told The Publisher they were not getting a square deal. He investigated and his editorials in the Plain Dealer followed. He charged that the receiver was wholly incompetent.

Indirect contempt proceedings were filed. Judge William H. Eichorn from an adjoining county gave the judgment. Before the judge took his seat to pass on the argument, 900 depositors and others in the courtroom applauded so enthusiastically when the publisher entered that the bailiff could not stop the demonstration for several minutes. Five hundred persons outside could not gain entrance.

Judge Eichorn then granted an appeal Saturday. Feightner, a Huntington lawyer employed by Judge Sweitzer, argued for 30 minutes that the publisher could be jailed forthwith. He suggested that the publisher serve the sentence first and be acquitted afterward if a reversal came from the Supreme Court. The receiver and the directors believed that if the publisher were jailed, his silence would be enforced and the influence of the Plain Dealer weakened.

Judge Eichorn, however, granted the publisher his freedom under $1,000 bond.

The publisher holds that changes should be made in the laws to prevent courts having such all-inclusive power in acting on their own cases, which they term "contempt of court." The publisher also believes that contempt cases should be given a jury trial, which now is denied. Finally the publisher contends that there is too much power in the hands of a court to coerce a newspaper against telling the truth about a court and its acts.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A FARM FOR EVERY MAN.

YOU can't turn a corner these days without being knocked down by a man with a solution to the unemployment problem. And he won't let you up until you have heard his plan.

* * * * *

The people with unemployment relief plans are rapidly outnumbering the unemployed.

* * * * *

A candidate for Congress in Texas is the latest to jump onto the dining room table with a plan to make everybody happy. He would give every unemployed family man a farm on the time-payment plan.

* * * * *

The candidate's theory must be that no man minds starving to death if he can do it among the squirrels, woodpeckers and summer tourists.

* * * * *

Here's the plan: Uncle Sam would buy vast areas in many States and supply each family with twenty acres, to be paid for in 30 years. He would provide the family with one plow, two spades, two hoes and a horse, and enough cash to start farming.

* * * * *

If you took the average unemployed man and put him out in the country on a twenty-acre plot he would do one of three things: (1) start practicing golf shots; (2) open a hot-dawg station; (3) flood Washington with letters demanding to know why he had been sent to an isolation camp.

* * * * *

The Texan, you will observe, would give each man two hoes. And the farmer's wife could have one or both.

* * * * *

He would also provide two spades. It would be up to his wife to take him out in clubs.

* * * * *

The plan also calls for giving the unemployed man a horse, but what good would a horse be to millions of city-bred depression victims without a set of directions!

* * * * *

Take an unemployed cashier and set him down in the woods with two hoes, two spades and a horse, and what would he do? The answer is easy. He would wait for the hoes to start laying, plant the spades out where they would get plenty of sunshine and put the horse on the front lawn with a big sign on him reading, "Summer Boarders Taken In."

* * * * *

No city man would have much use for a horse that didn't give milk, hatch young chicks or provide wool for the children's heavy undies.

* * * * *

And what does the Texan know, that he would start anybody in the farming industry with nothing but a plow, a horse and a couple of hoes with no extra blades?

* * * * *

Doesn't he know very well that he would have to have a couple of gasoline pumps, a couple of coffeepots and some frankfurters to make the place pay?

* * * * *

The plan omits any mention of a cow, hogs or chickens. There must be a reason for this.

* * * * *

Possibly the idea is to not start a new farmer in business with anything the experienced farmers of the country have been compelled to turn over to the sheriff for debt.

* * * * *

CYNICAL REACTION.

As I behold the leaders in
The daily press and news reel houses
All government, it seems to me,
Is just a bowl of Mickey Mouses.

* * * * *

According to the Republican keynoter, Mr. Hoover "cushioned the effects of the debacle." How about a slogan: A cushion for every crisis.

* * * * *

AS RIGHT AS EVER.

As the Garble Sisters understand it, the Republican convention favors the repeal of Charlie Curtis and the resubmission of the depression.

* * * * *

HAVE THE DICKINSON O. K.

Mr. Dickinson's keynote speech was a great tribute to Abraham Lincoln and went pretty far to show that you can't go wrong with George Washington.

New York Central Net Off Sharply

1931 Income $33,551,690 Under 1930; Freight Down 24 Per Cent.

New York, June 19 (U.P.).—The pamphlet report of the New York Central Railroad Co. for 1931, issued today, disclosed large losses during the year in both freight and passenger traffic resulting in a decrease from 1930 of $33,551,690 in net income.

Revenue freight totaled 113,945,490 tons, a decrease of 36,100,780 tons, or 24.06 per cent, while 63,166,911 passengers were carried against 73,951,015 in 1930.

The road's operating expenses dropped $69,663,737, of which $16,441,942 was in maintenance of way and structures, $22,247,468 in maintenance of equipment and $28,153,482 in transportation expenditures.

The road's net income, as previously published, was equivalent to 49 cents a share compared with $7.21 a share in 1930. Dividends amounting to $4 a share were paid during the year.

MEXICO QUAKE TOLL 3 KILLED, 12 INJURED

City of Colima Badly Damaged; Reports Awaited From Manzanillo.

Mexico City, June 19 (A.P.).—Known casualties in yesterday's severe earthquake in the Colima section of western Mexico stood at three persons dead and twelve injured today.

The damage was great, however, in the entire region around Colima, capital of the state with that name, which was struck hardest by the big temblor reported felt from coast to coast.

The low casualty toll was attributed to the unessiness of the people since a previous heavy earthquake on June 3 and the first warning shock yesterday that sent a majority of the inhabitants outdoors before two more shocks occurred.

Gov. Salvador Saucebo, of Colima, reported that apparently every building in the city of Colima was damaged in yesterdays' earthquake. Many homes were destroyed, he said, and others were in a dangerous condition.

The state palace, his own residence, the Civil Hospital, army barracks, churches, schools, jails and court buildings were damaged, the governor said.

There was an alarming lack of information from Manzanillo, port city of the state of Colima. Earlier dispatches indicated the quake had caused extensive damage there. Telegraphic communication was broken at noon today and it was impossible to communicate by radio. Railroad service was interrupted by rails torn up by the quake.

A series of cyclones sweeping the Pacific led to fears that perhaps the city had been hit by a disastrous windstorm. The radio station on Tres Marias Islahd said extensive damage was caused there today by winds. Tala, in Jalisco, reported that a severe cyclone passed at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Four Die in Colombia Clashes.

Bogota, Colombia, June 19 (A.P.).—Four persons were killed and several wounded yesterday in political clashes at Salazar, a hamlet of Santander Del Norte province, next the Venezuelan border. The disturbances were inspired by the assassination of a Liberal leader of the region, Fausto Penaranda. A garrison was sent from Barcaramanga, and the rioting was reportel dwindling.

Platform Pleases Puerto Ricans.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 19 (A.P.).—Local Republicans were represented today as well pleased with the plank in the Chicago convention platform favoring inclusion of the island in all legislative and administrative action. Rafael Martinez Nadal, president of the Union Republican party, said the platform acknowledged the island as an integral part of the nation, which should end the colonial status and look toward the territorial with ultimate statehood.

Puerto Rico Chief Judge Puts Attacker to Flight

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 19 (A.P.).—Chief Justice Emilio del Toro, of the Puerto Rico Supreme Court, drove off a Nationalist who attacked him in his office Wednesday in resentment against a Flag Day speech by the jurist, it was learned today.

The attacker gave the name of Luis F. Velasquez. He struck at the chief justice, who defended himself vigorously, chasing the assailant from his office and the Supreme Court Building. The chief justice delivered his speech Tuesday night on a program arranged by the Sons of the American Revolution. He asserted that time would bring a full realization of the benefits of the American flag in the island.

fear of being suspected on reading of the slaying.

The State's theory of the killing was that Harry, angered by his mother's threat to disown him if he continued to sign her name to checks and to see the young woman, shot her as she stood a few feet below him on the basement stairs. Dragging her body into the cellar, he took up the bricks of the floor and put in his mother's body, it was maintained.

When Mrs. Hill's will was probated, it was found she had left Harry her property, amounting to about $50,000. He was to come into it, according to the will, when he was 26 years old. The inheritance had since been turned over to him.

Due to the shortage of county funds, the case has lain dormant for several years. In the meantime Hill has been at liberty.

He was the son of Dr. H. S. Hill, Streator eye, ear and nose specialist, who announced after Harry's capture he would spare no expense in his defense. Dr. Hill and the slain woman were divorced about a month before the tragedy occurred.

TWO SECTIONS OF ECONOMY BILL DRAW NEW PROTESTS

enactment of such a law would be contrary to the Civil Service merit system. Dismissal of a woman from the Government service because her husband also happens to be a Federal worker is decidedly unfair, it was declared.

The only remedy for such a situation, should it become a law, would be for married women to obtain legal separations from their husbands, the organization pointed out.

Section Protested.

The provision under protest in the economy bill is as follows:

"In any reduction of personnel, married persons (living with husband or wife) shall be dismissed before any other persons—if such husband or wife is also in the service of the United States or District of Columbia governments. In appointment of persons to the Civil Service, preference shall be given to persons other than married persons, living with husband or wife."

Before sundown today Federal employes may know definitely how much Uncle Sam intends to hold back from their pay envelopes, beginning next month, in the name of Federal economy.

The choice is up to the House. It may concur in Senate recommendations for payless furloughs on the five-day week principle. It may substitute 10 per cent horizontal pay slashes, throwing the whole issue back on the Senate.

A battle of strategy and oratory is in prospect, overshadowing even the dramatic night session weeks ago when the issue was supposedly settled once and for all.

McDuffie Favors Cut.

Supporting the flat cut will be Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, House Democratic whip and chairman of the House economy conferees. It was Mr. McDuffie's stubborn refusal to yield that blocked a conference agreement on furloughs last week.

Supporting furloughs today will be the entire administration forces led by Representative Bertrand H. Snell, New York, House Republican leader. Standing with him will be a few scattered Democratic adherents of furloughs over pay cuts.

Aligned against both of these groups will be a third faction, probably captained by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, New York progressive, opposing any pay cuts at all.

Any hazard as to the outcome would be the merest guess, despite the fact that advocates of the President's compulsory furlough plan appeared to be the most surely entrenched.

Representative McDuffie will meet this morning with other House economy conferees and House Democratic leaders, in an effort to map an effective plan of procedure.

Although he is expected to move for adoption of the pay cut plan, the final form of the proposed amendment had not been irrevocably decided last night.

The plan may be drafted to apply only to salaries over $1,000, as originally agreed to by the Senate. Again, leaders may decide this morning to raise this figure to $1,200, or even more.

It was pointed out that the furlough plan as approved by the Senate applied only to salaries over $1,200. To make their pay cut plan more palatable, House economy conferees may endeavor at least to match the Senate furlough exemption.

Higher Exemption Possible.

Thrown open to floor amendments, there is every possibility that an even higher exemption will be written into the plan, depriving it of its teeth.

This last is just what happened to the House committee's original proposal for 11 per cent pay cuts with $1,000 exemptions. Sundry higher exemption figures were proposed, until finally Representative Fred A. Britten (Republican), Illinois, hit upon one that was acceptable to a majority—$2,500. The amendment reduced savings under the committee plan to $9,000,000, and wrecked their economy program.

Representative C. William Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, who originally advanced the President's furlough plan in the House, said it is unlikely he will move its adoption today if flat pay cuts are defeated.

Other Fights Faced.

The motion, rather, will come from members of the House conference group, Chairman McDuffie, Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, or Representative Lewis W. Douglas (Democrat) Arizona.

With pay cuts and furloughs disposed of, there are scores of controversial provisions in the conference economy report which may precipitate a floor fight.

Most obnoxious of these to Federal personnel are provisions for the discharge of married workers where both are Government employes, a clause permanently reducing annual leave to fifteen days, a section cutting in half the pay differential for night workers, and provisions forcing retirement of superannuated employes, requiring workers to pay just as much toward their retirement pension as if their pay had not been cut, and empowering heads of departments to furlough workers indefinitely in order to stay within appropriations.

Veterinarian Is Killed In Fight; Slayer Caught

Bainbridge, Ga., June 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Roy Howard Herron, 37, Bainbridge veterinarian, was shot and killed late last night as the result of what police said was an altercation with a Negro on a road near here.

The Negro, known as Sam Hall, was captured and taken by officers to an unannounced destination. A few minutes after the shooting became known many persons set out in cars from here in an effort to locate the jail to which the Negro had been taken. They were unsuccessful in finding him, however, and officers said today the ill feeling apparently had subsided.

CAPITAL MERCHANTS FROLIC ON SEA TRIP

Booster Party Due to Dock This Morning; Waters of Bay Calm.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hampton, Va., June 19.—The Southland docked at Old Point Comfort at 7 a. m. this morning to allow a party of golfers of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association to go ashore and play at the Hampton Country Club. Led by President Mark Lansburgh, the group included E. C. Baltz, Frank Mitchell, Ringgold Hart, Edward D. Shaw, Charles Frame, Carl Weigle, John Bean and others.

After discharging the party, the Southland proceeded to Norfolk where members of the association attended church and visited points of interest in the city. The Southland picked up the entire party at Old Point at 12:30 and proceeded on a cruise of the Capes. This evening she will turn back to Washington, arriving there at 6:45 a. m. tomorrow.

Last night President Lansburgh entertained with motion pictures in the boat's main salon. Several bridge games were organized following the pictures. Most of the association turned in early so that an early start could be made this morning for the golf course and church.

The members of the association are looking forward expectantly to a special entertainment planned for tonight. Noted gridiron singers will be a feature of the program. Motion pictures will be shown. Overcast weather has prevailed throughout the trip, but there has been no rain. The bay has been calm.

Former Mental Patient Held in Mother's Death

Dallas, Tex., June 19 (A.P.).—Yancey Lewis, 34-year-old former law student and one time mental patient at the San Antonio, Tex., State Hospital, faced a murder charge today in the death of his widowed mother, Mrs. Lula Lewis, 85.

Detectives said Lewis ad tted he chloroformed his mother and beat her to death, but contended he had violated no law. He indicated he considered the Lewis property here was inadequate to support both Mrs. Lewis and himself. Justice E. J. Baldwin named the son as the slayer after an inquest. Lewis holds a degree from Yale University.

Movie Men Fly Today For West-East Mark

Los Angeles, June 19 (A.P.).—In the Lockheed Orion cabin monoplane which he piloted to a new cross-country, passenger-carrying speed record last Thursday, Capt. James Dickson, pilot for Hal Roach, motion picture producer, plans to take off from nearby Santa Monica tomorrow with an eye possibly to establishing some kind of a West-East mark.

Flying with Dickson will be Roach, Arthur Loew, a vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Movie Co., and William Meiniker, South American representative of the studio.

COL. W. E. WELSH, 60, DIES IN WALTER REED

Noted Army Officer Expires After Weeks of Illness; Rites Tomorrow.

Col. William E. Welsh, U. S. A., chief of staff of the Second Division, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., died yesterday in Walter Reed Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 60 years old.

Col. Welsh, who was the holder of several medals and honors, had been assigned to the command of the Twenty-second Infantry, Fort McPherson, Ga., when he was taken ill and removed to the hospital here.

A native of Lansdowne, Pa., he was graduated from West Point in 1894. During the World War he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for exceptional meritorious and distinguished service as colonel of the 346th Infantry, and as brigadier general on the general staff and as inspector-instructor of the Infantry training section, General Headquarters, A. E. F.

His medal was inscribed with "His duties of very great importance were carried out with conspicuous success." He received a silver star citation on July 1, 1898, for gallantry in action against Spanish forces at El Caney, Cuba. On November 20, 1919, he was awarded the French Order Des Palmes Universitaires by the French government for his duties as officer of instruction. He also was the holder of the Philippine Campaign Medal, the Mexican Border Service Medal and the Victory Medal.

Col. Welsh is survived by his widow, Mrs. Laura Welsh, and two daughters, Mrs. K. J. Boyd, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Miss Barbara Welsh, of Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Interment will be tomorrow in Arlington National Cemetery.

Irish Group Threatens Boycott of British Goods

The Kevin Barry Council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic declared Americans of Irish descent would attempt to cut off trade relations between the United States and England if England attempted to deprive Ireland of her newly establish freedom.

A statement issued yesterday read: "Economic pressure is an implement that cuts both ways. If England can shut off Ireland's trade with her, we in this country can shut off our trade with England. The great body of people in America that have Irish blood, and the other and greater body of Americans that still keep liberty, have but to say that they will sacred the American passion for buy no article of English make and deal with no English products, and the thing is done."

New Bridge Team of 4 Announced by Jacoby

Kansas City, June 19 (A.P.).—Oswald Jacoby, New York bridge player, who recently ceased to be a member of the famous "four horsemen," announced here today the personnel of his Cavendish Club team which will play in the American Whist League congress at Cleveland early next month.

"I wouldn't call it a four horsemen team," he said of his new quartet. "I am one of them, of course. Three of them are the finest players in the country and they also are three of my best friends. I will play with Louis H. Watson, technical editor of the Bridge World. Walter Malowan will play with Jean Matheys. Since we are all members of the Cavendish Club, we intend to play as its representatives."

Women Outnumber Men As Centenarians Nearly 2-1

Census Figures Show 2,561 of Supposed "Weaker" Sex 100 Years Old or More, Compared to 1,403 Males; Birth Rate Declines.

(United Press.)

Women live longer than men in the United States, the Census Bureau revealed today.

Of the 3,964 persons 100 years or over recorded in the 1930 census, 1,403 were men and 2,561 women. Approximately the same ratio existed among persons between 90 and 100.

Only 94,022 persons out of the Nation's population of 122,775,046 either did not know how old they were, or refused to tell the census taker, the report showed.

The declining birth rate was also graphically disclosed, only 9.3 per cent of the population being under 5 years of age, compared with 10.9 per cent in 1920. Actually there were 128,840 fewer youngsters under 5 years in the country in 1930 than ten years before. In addition children between 5 and 14, and persons between 25 and 34 formed a smaller proportion of the population than in 1920.

Added proof that the American family is gradually getting smaller was gleaned from 1880 census statistics, which revealed that 14 out of every 100 persons in that year were under 5 years. Each census since has shown a decreasing proportion.

Turkish Ambassador Will Entertain Today at Luncheon; Senators And Wives Visit Rossdhu

THE TURKISH AMBASSADOR, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar, will entertain at luncheon today at the embassy on Massachusetts avenue.

Senator and Mrs. Daniel O. Hastings were among the group of senators and their wives who had dinner last night at the new Rossdhu Castle Club. The dinner was in commemoration of Fathers' Day and the group included Senator and Mrs. Felix Hebert, Senator and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour, Senator and Mrs. Wallace White, Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson, Senator and Mrs. Tasker Oddie and Senator and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg.

Though the club does not open until the end of the week, private parties may be given, and last night's was the first to be held in the new club. The drawing rooms were decorated with red roses, and on the table were pink roses and maiden-hair fern. Tall pink candles matched the Rossdhu pink castle service which depicts old castles of England and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Warner, of Cambridge, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lorraine Warner, to Mr. Robert Johns Bulkley, jr., son of Senator and Mrs. Robert Johns Bulkley, of Cleveland.

Miss Warner is a member of the Roosevelt and d'Oremieulx families, her mother being the former Lorraine d'O. Roosevelt. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. J. West Roosevelt and a niece of Nicholas Roosevelt, United States Minister to Hungary, and of Oliver Wolcott Roosevelt, of Woodmere, Long Island.

Miss Warner was introduced to Boston society in the season of 1929 at a dance given by her grandmother, Mrs. Roosevelt. She is a member of the Junior League of Boston and a student at the School of Fine Arts and Crafts, that city.

Mr. Bulkley prepared at St. George's School for Harvard, from which he will be graduated this month.

Rear Admiral Julian A. Latimer, U. S. N., retired, has rejoined his family at Wardman Park Hotel after an absence of a few days. Admiral and Mrs. Latimer, with their daughter and Mrs. O. A. Richardson, have been spending several weeks here.

Capt. Walter Newhall Vernou, who was appointed by the President on May 20 to succeed Capt. Charles Russell Train as his naval aid, has arrived in Washington with Mrs. Vernou, and they are stopping at the Shoreham for a month. They have many friends in Washington, and Mrs. Vernou, who was the former Miss Daisy Saunders, is a member of an old and distinguished Maryland family. Capt. Vernou until recently was commander of the cruiser Northampton.

Lieut. Comdr. Carleton C. Wright, U. S. N., who for the last three years has been attached to the Pacific fleet, has returned to Washington for a tour of duty with the Bureau of Ordnance. Mrs. Wright and their children, returning from California via the Panama Canal, are due to arrive in Norfolk tomorrow. Upon the arrival of Mrs. Wright the family will select a house in which to make their home during their stay in the Capital, which will, in all probability continue during the next four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Congdon entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Saturday night in honor of Miss Anna Reinhardt, of Kensington, Md. Their other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stein, Miss Anna Peck, Miss Martha Virkle, Miss Mary Virginia Harris, Miss Marian Taylor, Miss Sue Skipwith, Miss Mildred MacNair, Miss Natalie Beaumont, Miss Almeda McNabb, Miss Louise Stratton, Miss Katherine Bonar, Miss Katherine Jones, Miss Grace Barker, Miss Sadietta Rosenberg, Mr. Richard Brown, Mr. Robert Swain, Mr. Walter Scott Pratt, Mr. Milford Luden and Mr. Douglas Cameron.

Miss Lillian M. Hart, of New York, is a guest at the Shoreham for a few days. She is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart, before starting on a North Cape cruise on June 28.

T. Suffern Tailer Weds Miss Florence T. Baker.

Before a distinguished assembly of society from New York and other cities, Miss Florence T. Baker, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Baker, of 75 East Ninety-third street, New York, and Locust Valley, became the bride at noon Saturday of Mr. T. Suffern Tailer, jr., and the late Mr. Tailer, of New York and Newport, R. I. The ceremony was performed in the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John's of Lattingtown, and was followed by a reception and breakfast at the Baker country home, a short distance from the church. As the little stone church seats only about 200, the guests for the ceremony were limited to the members of the families and their intimate friends.

Miss Baker wore a gown of white satin, fashioned simply in empire style, with square neck and short sleeves and with a long train and a full veil of tulle. Her bouquet was a cluster of phalanopsis spray orchids. She wore a diamond bracelet, a gift of the bridegroom and a rope of pearls. Miss Edith Baker, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids wore gowns of blue mousseline de soie, that of the maid of honor being slightly paler in tone than the others. They wore large picture hats of blue straw, adorned with a blue velvet ribbon. Miss Baker's bouquet was of white bouvardia and the attendants carried white Madonna lilies.

The bridal party included the bride's sister, Miss Edith Baker, as maid of honor, and eight other attendants, Mrs. Walter Gurnee, sister of the bridegroom, the former Miss Betty Tailer; the Misses Elizabeth Duval, Emily and Margaret Lawrence, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lanier Lawrence; Penelope Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Dana Winslow, cousin of the bride; Barbara Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold I. Pratt; Georgette Whelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Whelan, and Isabel Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Henry, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Tailer and his best man, Mr. Robert Ogden Bacon, jr., awaited the bride at the altar, with the officiating clergyman, the Right Rev. Frank D. Moulin, the rector, and the Rev. Stanley Hughes, rector of Trinity Church, Newport, R. I.

The ushers were Messrs. George P. Baker, jr., Walter Gurnee Dyer, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Morgan Wing, E. Bonner Bowring, Joseph S. Freylinghuysen, W. Haggin Perry, John de Braganza, Richard A. Jones, Edmund H. Driggs; all of New York; Benjamin Griswold, jr., of Baltimore; Allan A. Jones, of Washington; Hugo Rutherford, of Aiken, S. C.; John T. Hamilton, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Malcolm L. Wister, of Wynnewood, Pa. Several were Princeton classmates of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Baker was joined by Mr. Baker after he had given their daughter in marriage. Her costume was of raspberry-toned georgette, with hat to correspond. With her were her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Kane, of Tuxedo Park. Mrs. Tailer, who came on from Newport for the wedding, wore a gown of powder-blue chiffon. She was accompanied by her father, Mr. Alexander Brown.

When the guests arrived at the Baker home for the reception the couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Tailer, sr. Masses of roses, lilies, delphinium and other early summer flowers filled the house. The reception was held in a special marquee which had been set upon a terrace overlooking the sound, pale blue lining it and making an effective background. Breakfast was served in the garden, which is at the height of its bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Tailer departed late in the afternoon. It was reported they would go to Bermuda, but announcement from the family was to the effect that they would go abroad for six weeks, returning later for visits on Long Island and at Newport.

Miss Jeanne Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richards, will entertain at dinner on the Shoreham Terrace Thursday night in compliment to Miss Mary Birdsall, who will sail later in the month for a Mediterranean cruise.

The Washington Olympic finance committee, with the assistance of officers on duty in the War Department, is arranging for an Olympic benefit horse show to be given on July 9, at the Fort Myer Garden, near the western end of the new Arlington Memorial Bridge approach. All funds raised through this show will be used to defray expenses of the 1932 Olympic equestrian team in the game of the tenth Olympiad, Los Angeles, Calif. Prize lists are being prepared and will be distributed within the next few days. The program calls for children's pony classes, hunter, jumping, military, remount, pole and saddle classes. Several of the classes are for owners, others are open.

Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, second vice president National United States Daughters of 1812 and honorary president of the Dames of the Loyal Legion, is giving a birthday tea to these two societies this afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock on board the frigate Constitution. This date is also the anniversary of the organization of the District of Columbia Society Dames of the Loyal Legion.

As the National Society, United States Daughters of 1812, had the honor of furnishing the captain's cabin when the old ship was restored they have an especial interest in the ship. The Commandant of the Navy Yard and Mrs. Henry V. Butler and Commander and Mrs. Gulliver will be the guests of honor and the officers of the ship will assist in receiving.

War Debts Still in Tangle As Moratorium End Nears

Anniversary Today of President Hoover's Proposal Finds European Powers Are Yet Far From Solution of Their Financial Problems.

(Associated Press.)

The first anniversary today of President Hoover's proposal of an international moratorium on inter-Governmental debts finds the war debts and reparations questions still held fast in a tangle of uncertainty.

At Lausanne, Switzerland, however, a conciliatory group of statesmen will be meeting, apparently persuaded at last that Europe must settle its reparations problem alone before coming to the United States for further relief.

It took nearly a year after the moratorium became effective for the great European powers to call a meeting to decide what is to be done when Germany ceases to pay reparations. They wanted the United States to sit with them and hoped to get this country to agree to a cancellation or modification of the debts Europe owes here before they sat in judgment upon Germany.

But finally, on June 16, just fourteen days before the expiration of the Hoover one-year moratorium, they met at Lausanne and listened to the announcement of Chancellor von Papen that Germany can not pay another mark.

A temporary moratorium until the end of the Lausanne conference was agreed upon by the European powers. Meanwhile, they are striving to devise some agreement which will move American public opinion to a revision of the debts European powers have been paying to the United States largely with the money received from Germany.

When President Hoover announced the one-year moratorium plan last June it was hailed as a move which would rescue the world from economic distress. Julius Curtius, Germany's minister of foreign affairs, said Hoover's declaration was "heroic." The radical press in Germany even relented in its past description of Uncle Sam as a "shylock."

Great Britain and Italy eagerly approved the plan. France alone of the great powers reserved opinion temporarily. It struck the French as a possible menace to the Young plan and, indirectly, to the Versailles Treaty.

On July 6 the State Department announced French and American negotiators had reached an agreement, President Hoover made a statement that all the important creditor governments had accepted the one-year moratorium in principle and were engaged in solving the "technical difficulties arising from many complicated international agreements, which involve the aggregate payment between governments of over $800,000,000 per annum."

These difficulties were ironed out. The moratorium was declared in effect as of July 1, 1931. The American Congress approved. Europe had a breathing spell to adjust its finances and the world awaited some step to adjust the reparations payments which Germany claimed were forcing her into bankruptcy.

Congress went on record against any extension of the one-year moratorium and against cancellation or further reduction of war debts owed to this country.

Still America's European debtors failed to reach any agreement about reparations which might have enabled them to present some concrete compromise proposal to the United States.

This country waived the payment for the fiscal year from July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, of $232,568,808 and spread it over ten years. In the fiscal year beginning June 30 of this year European powers should pay the United States $270,000,000. They expected to get most of this money from Germany.

No considerable payments on these debts are due, however, until December 15, of this year; therefore the European powers have considerable time for negotiations before any of their payments due to the United States will be in default.

Boat Trip Planned For Credit Group

1,500 Delegates to Convention Here Will Enjoy Ride Tonight.

Fifteen hundred delegates and guests of the twentieth annual convention of the National Retail Credit Association are scheduled to leave for a mardi gras on the Potomac River on board the City of Washington at 8 o'clock tonight.

A special delegation of the national officers and directors of the association will visit the Arlington National Cemetery and lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 10:30 this morning. At 12:30 the board of directors will be the guests of the Associated Credit Men of Washington.

The convention will open officially tomorrow in the convention hall of the Mayflower Hotel, where sessions will continue through Friday. Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, will welcome the delegates to the city.

Blast Wrecks Seligman Yacht; 2 Persons Hurt

Port Washington, N. Y., June 19 (A.P.).—A mysterious explosion and fire last midnight destroyed the private yacht Chico II of Walter Seligman, member of the New York banking firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co. The captain, John A. Watts, and a young woman companion, Miss Audrey Cornwall, 20, of Port Washington, were severely injured.

Hurled into the water by the blast, Capt. Watts and Miss Cornwall swam for shore, where they were taken to Doctors' Sanatorium. Physicians said Miss Cornwall's condition was critical.

2 Die in Fire Following Blast.

Kansas City, June 19 (A.P.).—Two men were burned to death and thirteen buildings were damaged in a fire which followed destruction of a vacant apartment building by a mysterious explosion here early today. The victims, David Rees, 71-year-old Rich Hill, Mo., coal dealer, and T. B. Shriver, grocer, were trapped in nearby dwelling quarters as they slept.

Post Model Home Opened to Crowds

Dwelling in Sligo Park Is Object of Admiration; Is Open Daily.

The opening of the new Washington Post model home at 9138 Thornhill road in North Hills of Sligo Park yesterday was one of Sunday's major events. In spite of chilly, gloomy and threatening weather, throngs of visitors inspected this fine home, showing qualified construction and every possibility for economic maintenance.

They were most favorably impressed by the handsome dwelling built by the North Washington Realty Co., developers of North Hills of Sligo Park, furnished and decorated by the Hecht & Co., and being presented by J. Wesley Buchanan, Inc., agent for the highly restricted community.

The home is a pronounced achievement in value-giving. It sets new standards of architectural and structural excellence in the moderate-priced field and the surprise of the year awaits those who visit it. The home is open daily and Sunday until 9 o'clock in the evening. To reach this delightful model dwelling, drive out Sixteenth street or Georgia avenue to Silver Spring; turn right at the traffic light on Colesville pike about a half mile to the entrance of North Hills.

BIG FOUR WILL SEEK DEBTS PLAN TODAY

to indicate the course of the proceedings, and it was indicated the fundamental differences between the various groups will have to be approached gradually.

Because of this the end of this week will roll around in all probability before the channel of the conference has been determined.

As the matter now stands, Great Britain has voiced her willingness to cancel all war payments, Germany has insisted she can not pay more now, at any rate, and pressed for an end to reparations, France admitted Germany could not pay now, but insisted that treaties must be observed, and Italy had previously come out for cancellation.

King Albert of Belgium today sent a message to the conference which was in its fourth day, declaring for international solidarity.

Moves Made by Herriot At Lausanne Attacked

Paris, June 19 (U.P.).—A biting attack on Premier Edouard Herriot's policies at the Lausanne Reparations Conference was launched tonight by the nationalist newspapers of Paris, which charged that the premier had "surrendered" to Great Britain.

Herriot, who was supported by the center and moderate left-wing press, spent all day consulting with his ministers and other high officials in an effort to complete his work here before returning to Lausanne tomorrow to continue private negotiations on reparations.

U. S. in Business Committee To Seek Facts in 2 Cities

Hearings on Government Competition With Private Enterprise Scheduled for New York and Kansas City; Many Lines to Be Investigated.

(Associated Press.)

The House committee that is trying to find out how much business the Government takes away from individuals will visit at least two cities in its search for facts—New York and Kansas City.

Chairman Shannon yesterday told newspapermen the New York hearings on clothing sold by the Government in competition with private business will begin just after Congress adjourns and last three or four days.

Those in Kansas City, expected to last longer, will begin the middle of July. Then in September the committee will return to Washington to resume hearings.

Representative Bacon (Republican), New York, arranged the New York City hearings, which Shannon probably will not attend because of the Democratic national convention. They will go into the question of civilian clothing sold at wholesale prices through Army, Navy and veterans' store. The manufacture of clothing at the Atlanta and Leavenworth Penitentiaries also will be considered.

The Kansas City survey, Shannon said, "has been arranged largely because of the mass of complaints from the Southwest."

He said the committee there will hear in detail how the Government competes with makers of artificial limbs, banks, chemists, coal dealers, coffee roasters, cotton and wool manufacturers, dairies, druggists, grain merchants, grocers, insurance companies, jewelry stores, laundries, live stock raisers, musicians, printers, railroads and barge lines, shoe manufacturers, restaurants and cafeterias, hotels, nurseries, map publishers and lithographers, doctors, leather and paper makers and numerous other lines of business.

"From the complaints we have received, it seems that there is no limit to the lengths to which governmental agencies have gone in competing with private enterprise," Shannon said.

"The competition spreads to all fields.

"One of the worst features of the situation is that the money of the taxpayers is used to pay the overhead expenses of these Government institutions which provide the competition. The more the Government goes into the field, the more business is taken away from private enterprise and the less taxes private industry can pay."

Shannon said the committee had decided not to go to the Pacific Coast or to New Orleans in answer to requests "because nobody is junketing, and we can get enough information in the hearings we have planned."

Rotarians Gather for Convention.

Seattle, Wash., June 19 (A.P.).—By boat and train, business and professional men from various parts of the world were arriving in Seattle today for the twenty-third annual convention of Rotary International. More than 6,000 Rotarians are expected to attend the five-day convention opening here tomorrow.

QUENSTEDT IS AGAIN V. F. W. COMMANDER

Department of Maryland Withdraws Criticism of Neglect of B. E. F.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, of Annapolis, was reelected commander of the Department of Maryland, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the closing session of the thirteenth annual encampment of the organization held in the House of Delegates chamber at the statehouse today. His administration was highly praised in a series of addresses by delegates. Next year's convention will be held at Salisbury, home of Meuse Post, the only post on the Eastern Shore.

All of the staff officers, with one exception, also were reelected. The exception was that of senior vice commander, to which office Jesse Bull, of Champagne Post, Baltimore, who had served last year as junior vice commander, was named in place of Herman H. Rudolph. The latter had let it be known that he would decline reelection. Albert S. Osol, of Waverly Post, Baltimore, was chosen junior vice commander. The other staff officers reelected are quartermaster, William M. Miller, Rotan Post, Baltimore; judge advocate, Albert Meid, jr., Baltimore Memorial Post; surgeon, Herbert C. Blake, also of Baltimore Memorial; chaplain, Andrew B. Eirkhoff, Rotan Post. The staff roll is completed by three appointees of the commander. These are chief of staff, George P. Covell, Baltimore; inspector, G. M. Jones, jr., Annapolis, and adjutant, James J. McGuirk, Baltimore.

In a final business meeting that preceded the election, the convention reconsidered its action of yesterday when it adopted a resolution censuring national headquarters and demanding an explanation for not providing proper leadership or supervision for the bonus army that moved on Washington and pressed a demand for the adoption of the bill providing for immediate payment of the bonus. The convention adopted a resolution thanking Gov. Albert C. Ritchie for his efforts in making possible a fund of over $70,000 for the relief of former service men, and the members of his war relief commission who administered the fund.

Joseph Hankins, chief of staff of national headquarters, addressed the group this afternoon. He praised the success that has attended the efforts of the Maryland department and commended the discipline that prevails among the "Bonus Army" now in the National Capital.

Cermak Urges Hoover To Aid School Loan

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—Mayor Anton J. Cermak sent to President Hoover today a personal appeal to assist in obtaining Federal funds to pay Chicago's 14,000 almost destitute school teachers and keep local governments functioning for six months longer.

The mayor, accompanied by representatives of the teachers and other employes, will appear Tuesday before the President, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the House banking committee. They will seek a loan from the Reconstruction Corporation. Mayor Cermak said he was prepared to offer "tangible assets" based on school property which he valued at $300,000,000 in return for a Federal loan.

Helen Kelleher Wins Degree at National U.

Helen B. Kelleher, of Boston, Mass., who received the degrees of master of laws and master of patent law at Washington College of Law, has been awarded the degree of doctor of civil law by National University, of this city.

Miss Kelleher received her LL.B. degree from Portia Law School, Boston. She was elected to the Boston Bar Association in 1925, and to the District of Columbia Bar in 1929. She is winner of the doctorate degree for a thesis, "The Doctrine of Relation," a study in legal philosophy, the research work for which was done at the Library of Congress during the last two years.

Passenger Cut as Auto And Oil Truck Collide

Thomas E. Brown, 64, of 1870 Wyoming avenue northwest, received lacerations to the forehead and scalp when the automobile in which he was riding skidded on the Defense highway near Ardmore road and collided with an oil truck.

Brown was given first-aid treatment by the Bladensburg Rescue Squad and taken to Emergency Hospital. According to police, Mrs. Brown was driving the car.

Ballston Woman Hurt In Maryland Accident

Mrs. Evelyn Garrison, 36 years old, of Ballston, Va., is in Providence Hospital suffering from a fractured right knee, received last night in an automobile accident on a Maryland highway.

Police were unable to learn details of the crash. Several persons were in two machines, it was understood, which crashed head-on. A check of local hospitals revealed no other victims.

DRY LAW REPEAL FAVORED IN BONUS ARMY PLATFORM

stein, of Dayton, Ohio. No dues or membership cards will be required in the organization, the legislative committee decided.

Those called upon by the army for statements of views on the bonus and other questions are: Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Newton D. Baker, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, Melvin Traylor, Alfred E. Smith, Senator Huey Long, John N. Garner, James Reed, William H. Murray, Gov. George White, and anyone else the committee thinks has a chance of a presidential or vice presidential nomination.

The veterans who have occupied a dozen Federal-owned buildings near Twelfth and B streets southwest, will be permitted to stay if the structures pass sanitary and fire tests. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath told Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford yesterday that the men might stay until contractors are ready to tear down the biuldings.

Variance in Figures.

The buildings are about to be torn down to make way for the Government buildings program. Close to 800 veterans are housed in the buildings, which are "de luxe" apartments compared to the squalid shelters occupied by those at the encampment.

Again the figures of police and those given out by headquarters of the army showed wide variance. The police claimed to have transported 250, with but few arrivals; the veterans said there were 40 departures and 382 arrivals.

The veterans announced the receipt of hundreds of telegrams expressing regret at the failure of the Senate to pass the $2,400,000,000 bonus bill. Many of the senders announced the intention of joining the forces in the Capital, the committee said.

Because of the quiet departures from the camp, the number of veterans now in the city is a matter of conjecture, both by police and the veterans themselves. The veterans claim 20,000 in the city, while the police place the figure at about 17,000.

Woman Sent to Richmond.

A woman recruiting officer was sent out by the veterans yesterday. Mrs. Nina D. Browers, of Oshkosh, Wis., known as "Old Glory" at Camp Bartlett, was sent to Richmond, Va., to enlist recruits and to obtain supplies for the army.

A group of two doctors, eight Army men, and sixteen nurses is in Globe, Ariz., headquarters of the army was informed yesterday in a telegram. They also have with them $3,000 of medical supplies.

Gen. Glassford was commended yesterday for the "effective and efficient manner he has handled the situation created" by the presence of the war veterans. The commendation was in the form of a resolution adopted by the Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"He has done whatever has been within his power to alleviate distress," the resolution said. "His path has been a difficult one. * * * He has seen his duty and carried on."

A call for the veterans to stage another demonstration at the Capital within two days was sent out yesterday by the Workers Ex-Service Men's League and the national provisional bonus march committee, both Communist organizations. It also proposed another invasion of the Capitol by veterans to take place when Congress convenes in December. Meantime, marches by the veterans to various State capitols were suggested.

German Veterans Bring Food to Camp Bartlett

Erstwhile enemies of the soldiers in the bonus army came yesterday to offer them succor.

A group of eight former German soldiers, now naturalized American citizens, brought two and a half tons of food to Camp Bartlett from Hudson County, N. J.

All of the German war veterans spent at least three years on the West front. All were wounded at least twice, and all were decorated.

Walter Edlin, of Union City, N. J., offered the food as "slight reparations for the shiploads of food sent to starving Germany by the United States after the war."

All of the German veterans saw action against the American Army.

Home-Bound Veteran, Shot, Is Near Death

Marion, N. C., June 19 (A.P.).—Louis Chiapeta, Houston, Tex., "bonus marcher," shot here, allegedly by a railroad detective, as he and seven others were making their way homeward from Washington, was reported near death in a hospital tonight.

Meanwhile, A. W. Banks, his alleged assailant, awaited trial after surrendering to the sheriff here. Banks is alleged to have entered the box car in which the veterans were riding, kicked them and fired into the group, striking Chiapeta. Banks has refused to make any statement.

California Bonus Army Quits Arizona for Texas

Tucson, Ariz., June 19 (A.P.).—Commander Royal W. Robertson, of the Southern California bonus army and 1,000 of his followers, departed for El Paso, Tex., tonight on a Southern Pacific melon train. The remaining 1,500 on-to-Washington marchers still are in Tucson repairing their decrepit motor cars.

The freight-hopping contingent includes the drum and bugle corps. In El Paso they plan to parade and take up a collection so that funds may be returned to Tucson to get the rest of the brigade through to the Pass City.

Gassed During War, Veteran Gravely Ill

Fred H. McBride, 50-year-old war veteran here with the bonus army, was in a critical condition at Gallinger Hospital last night as the result of recurring effects of being gassed while seeing service overseas during the World War.

The veteran was rushed from the Anacostia veterans' camp to Gallinger in a police car. He is from Kansas City, Mo., and came with one of the first groups of marchers.

Armed Holdups Got $4, Pedsetrian Tells Police

Frank Rhone, colored, of 1435 Swann street northwest, reported to police that he was held up and robbed of $4 early yesterday morning by three colored men.

Rhone said he was walking along P street between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest, when the three men, two of whom had pistols in their hands, walked up to him and demanded his money. He gave them all he had.

Dr. and Mrs. Roberts received members of the class of 1932, the alumni and the faculty at tea at the college yesterday at 5 o'clock, when the honor guests were Miss Julia Schelling and Emanuel Zetlin, of Philadelphia.

Federal Experts to Help G.W.U. Summer School

Experts in the Government service will cooperate with the George Washington University in extending summer courses to students which will be offered as a part of the school's participation in the Bicentennial celebration.

A special course of study will include study of all of the Revolutionary leaders as well as George Washington, is scheduled. Other courses offered in accord with Washington's express wish for instruction of "the principles of politics and good government," in the Capital City will be extended to summer students.

17,592 Meals in May Served by Volunteers

The Volunteers of America served 17,592 meals to the needy in the Volunteer Relief Mission at 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, during May, according to the monthly report of Staff Capt. Arthur E. Wise, regional commander, made public last night.

Capt. Wise pointed out that this is at the rate of more than 500 meals a day, a tremendous increase over the number of meals served in previous months. During the same period lodgings were given to 3,007, about 100 a night.

JOY-RIDERS STEAL BUS AT CLARENDON

Huge Vehicle Is Later Found Abandoned on Wilson Boulevard.

Automobiles are frequently taken by persons wishing to enjoy a joy ride, but cases where huge buses are used are rare.

This was the case which mechanics employed by the Washington Virginia & Maryland Coach Co. at its terminal at Clarendon learned early yesterday.

Having parked a number of buses on Wilson Boulevard, fronting the terminal, the men went about their work in the shops. About 5 o'clock yesterday morning one of the buses was missing. The police were notified. About 9 o'clock yesterday morning, after a search had failed to locate the missing bus, a report came to the office from Claude Wells of Falls Church that a bus was parked on Wilson Boulevard at Falls Church.

C. R. Kahler, cashier at the terminal, stated that except for a quantity of gasoline used, the bus was otherwise in good condition.

ADOPT THE FURLOUGH PLAN.

The question of trimming Federal salaries goes back to the House today. Since the conferees have been unable to agree, the issue must be once more threshed out on the floor of the House, and probably on the floor of the Senate.

The effect of the controversy over methods of saving money from the Federal payroll has been to emphasize the merits of President Hoover's furlough plan. Unless this plan is adopted Congress will doubtless approve the drastic 10 per cent cut, which would certainly work hardships on many Government workers. Surely members of the House who fought to protect lower-salaried employes will choose the furlough as against the 10 per cent cut.

The furlough would preserve the basic rate of pay in the Government service while introducing the principle of the five-day week. It clearly recognizes the present surplus of labor as well as the necessity of cutting Government expenditures. Instead of forcing employes to work more hours per year for less money, the furlough system would give them the same return for their efforts, while allowing them more leisure. Employes would be able to use the time for which they are not to be compensated to their own advantage.

No such arguments can be put forth in favor of the proposed cut in salaries. Regardless of whether or not the cut might be temporary, it would be a backward step in the movement to bring Government salaries up to a par with those paid in private enterprise for similar work. Congress ought not to set a bad example for industry by slashing wages and requiring employes to give more of their time to their jobs.

It is difficult to understand why Representative McDuffie, of the conference committee, plans to present the wage cut proposition to the House first. The plan he has in mind was rejected in the Senate and a similar plan went down to defeat in the House. It has no standing in the conference between the two chambers. Mr. McDuffie ought to follow the regular practice and submit the furlough plan, which was approved in the Senate. Indications are that the House is now willing to accept the President's recommendation. If so, the dilemma would be solved. The problem would be hopelessly complicated by another movement in the House aimed at a drastic pay cut.

THE SHORTER WEEK.

Announcement that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey would inaugurate next month the five-day, or forty-hour, week for all its 43,000 employes in the United States brings a much-discussed policy into actual operation by a large corporation, and doubtless will be the forerunner of similar action by others. In making this cut in time, but maintaining the same hourly rate of pay, the company considers that it is giving its personnel the best practicable insurance of continued employment. Salaried employes on a five and a half day schedule will, after the first of July, go on a five-day basis with about 9 per cent less pay.

Outside the savings effected from salaries of the management group there will be little change in the total amount of wages paid out, since the shorter week will require additional employes, thus spreading the work among a greater number. The new regulation applies only to those in the Standard's domestic service, though its extension to some of the 71,000 employes abroad is being considered. The reductions do not affect salaries of $100 per month or less.

When the conferences were held between the railways and employes that resulted in the 10 per cent wage cut the unions proposed the adoption of a six-hour day. This was rejected by the managers at that time, but negotiations for a test of the plan have been under way before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and it now is being urged that one railroad each in New England, the East, the Southeast and the West, shall make the test of a six-hour day in practical operation. The question of pay under this plan is still to be determined, the unions asking for eight hours' pay for six hours' work, while the managers object to this schedule.

These decided actions in two such important industries indicate that the question of shorter days and shorter weeks has passed the stage of academic discussion. Practical application is at hand, and doubtless will be greatly extended as industrial activity is resumed. It offers a partial check to overproduction. If science and invention can be intelligently utilized to afford more time for leisure without curtailing incomes to the point of lowering standards of living they can be rated as blessings. To employes who have not suffered any previous cut in wages a 9 per cent reduction, taking into consideration the even greater decrease in living expenses, does not work a severe hardship. Furthermore, it provides a spread of employment among a greater number rather than reductions in personnel or the less desirable horizontal salary cuts. With the more general adoption of shorter working hours Americans must seriously consider the opportunities that will be offered for mental and physical improvement. A great stimulus is offered for the development of the cultural agencies of national life.

HELP FOR CLOSED BANKS.

When the Senate laid aside the Glass banking bill an important piece of emergency legislation was doomed. Postponement of the measure itself may have been wise, since it involves widespread changes in the national banking system and Congress is not now in a mood to give it careful consideration. But there seems to be no excuse for throwing overboard that section of the measure which would have created a liquidating corporation for closed banks. This plan is a part of President Hoover's anti-depression program, and it should have consideration regardless of the fate of the Glass bill.

The annual report of the Federal Reserve Board shows that 2,298 banks suspended operations in 1931. Their deposits totaled $1,691,510,000, about twice the amount of deposits involved in bank failures during the previous year. Only 276 banks with deposits of $158,187,000 resumed operations in 1931. Since the passage of the Glass-Steagall act bank failures have been reduced to a minimum. Nevertheless $334,451,000 in deposits were tied up by bank failures during the first four months of this year.

These figures are sufficient to indicate that the need for a liquidating corporation is still urgent. Vast sums of money belonging to small depositors, for the most part, are tied up in defunct banks. Purchasing power is restricted and many business concerns are unable to go ahead. Congress ought not to ignore this situation merely because it does not wish to write the entire banking bill on the statute books at this time.

As it was finally approved by the Senate banking and currency committee the Glass bill provided a sound method of relieving depositors in closed banks. The Government would not attempt to bolster up defunct banks, but would merely assemble a fund to assist in the liquidation of the assets of closed banks, so that depositors could receive whatever is available without undue delay. No change of the national banking policy is involved in this plan. By all means the banking and currency committee ought to lift it out of the Glass bill and rush it through to enactment before the close of the session. A good precedent for this course was set by the enactment of the credit extension measure, which has become a vital factor in national recovery. The proposed liquidating corporation is a vital part of the financial machinery needed to fight the depression. It should be given consideration from that viewpoint.

FARMS FOR VETERANS.

Gen. Glassford's plan for disposition of the bonus army now encamped in Washington is not impressive. By suggesting that the veterans be mobilized into agricultural communities he borrows an idea from Gov. Roosevelt, of New York. The Empire State is attempting with considerable success to install unemployed and destitute families on "subsistence farms." That is a legitimate State project. But how could the Federal Government engage in such activities?

One paramount objection to Gen. Glassford's plan stands out. How could the Government provide farms and equipment for unemployed veterans? The police chief slides easily over that obstacle by saying: "Land is available and cheap. Through Federal channels large areas are falling under Federal control." But most of the land which the Government has at its disposal is not suitable for cultivation. Under the present law any veteran may obtain a homestead, but in all probability it would not produce a living for him and his family. Through the Department of Agriculture the Government is making every effort to take this type of land out of cultivation because it merely augments the agricultural surplus without affording a reasonable living for its inhabitants.

Obviously, the Government could not purchase suitable farm land for one group of veterans without extending that beneficence to all of them. In the end the cost of this fanciful project would doubtless amount to far more than the bonus. But it would not in any respect mitigate the agitation for immediate payment of the bonus and other benefits.

There is only one wise course for the veterans to take, and that is to return immediately to their homes where they may obtain relief through regular channels until they can be reabsorbed into the industrial system along with all the other unemployed.

GOLD AND THE TARIFF.

Not many months ago the United States was accused of hoarding gold and upsetting the currencies of the world. Pseudo-economists declared that the piling up of gold in this country was the foremost cause of the depression, and other wiseacres reasoned that the tariff, which gives America a favorable balance of trade, was responsible for this accumulation of gold and, therefore, was a prime factor in bringing about hard times.

During the last nine months this nonsense has been swept away by the constant shipment of gold from the United States, in spite of the tariff and all other economic influences. The American supply of gold has now shrunk to normal. This country still has nearly one-third of the world's gold, but that is justified by the fact that the United States does about one-third of the world's business. A total of $1,500,000,000 in gold has been shipped to Europe since last September, without disconcerting the Federal Reserve banks or threatening the stability of the dollar in any way. A wholesale redistribution of gold has taken place in a wholly natural way without any lowering of the tariff or any reversal of the favorable trade balance.

In view of these facts it is interesting to note some of the propaganda that was current a few months ago on this subject. Sumner H. Slichter, writing in a reputable magazine, said:

> But the tariff, by restricting the ability of the world to pay us with goods instead of gold, was a major factor in forcing a large part of the world off the gold standard and in accentuating the depreciation of many foreign currencies.

It now develops that the tariff had no connection with the abnormal holdings of gold acquired by the United States in 1929-31. Foreign central banks deposited large portions of their reserves in New York for safe keeping. Private capital was sent to this country to reap the large profits available in 1929, and after the depression began gold came here because European interests considered the United States the safest place in the world to keep it. These facts have been known all the time by financial authorities, but propagandists sought to take advantage of the abnormal amount of gold in this country to discredit the American protective tariff policy.

This is only one reason why the withdrawal of foreign gold deposits in this country is having a salutary effect. The Federal Reserve system has demonstrated its ability to meet every call of foreign gold depositors. Gold that has been withdrawn during the last nine months might have been taken at any time. The United States still has enough gold to support its currency and an ample surplus of "free gold." Thanks to the protective tariff, which maintains a reasonable balance between imports and exports, no country can make any inroads upon this supply of the monetary metal.

PEACE-TIME PATRIOTISM

By GEO. B. CORTELYOU,
President, Consolidated Gas Company of New York.

It has been said that "patriotism consists just as much in believing in one's country in a depression as in fighting for it in war." Few will dispute this statement, difficult though it be to give it practical application; for it is in some respects harder to overcome a depression, many of whose elements are invisible, intangible and incalculable, than to overthrow the armed forces of a visible foe, whose numbers and resources are known.

A depression has its casualties no less than war; like war, it entails sacrifice and suffering, from which no class is exempt. In fact, a depression is a kind of war in which we are all enlisted "for the duration," whether we will or not. It is up to us to play our part and do our duty as good soldiers.

One of the first essentials is morale. A spirit of defeatism at this time is as dangerous as it would have been in 1917-18. To give way to panic or despair would be the surest means of precipitating the very disaster we are trying to avoid. Nor is there just ground for such an attitude. When we remember the optimism that was rampant only a few years ago, when confidence in a never-ending prosperity was unbounded, and when we realize—as we now do—how unwarranted such a state of mind was, does not this suggest at least the possibility that the opposite state of mind may be equally unwarranted?

True, we have lost much, but we have much more left, and what we have left is far more important than what we have lost. We have suffered no catastrophe of nature; we have not been stricken by earthquake, famine or pestilence. Our farms, mines, railroads and factories are still intact. Indeed, so far as our production facilities are concerned, we are embarrassed not by too little but by too much. This does not mean that everybody's wants have been satisfied, and a surplus left over. It means that the basis of exchange by which normally the markets are cleared of goods has been disrupted, with a resultant stoppage in the customary flow of goods into consumption. The immediate and pressing need is to establish right conditions for the resumption of the interrupted flow.

Many of the adjustments necessary to bring this about have been or are being made; many yet remain to be made. Just when the point marking the turn will be reached nobody knows. Probably no one will recognize it when it appears but only after a certain perspective has been gained. The problem, however, is gradually becoming more clearly defined, and with clearer definition is coming a better understanding of the measures to be taken. This is not a time for shallow optimism, for sitting back in the complacent belief that "everything will be all right," but for calm and reasoned confidence in the future of our country made effective by a combination of faith and works—a combination which has won for us in the past and will do so again. This country has never lost a war and will not lose this one.

THE MASTER BEDROOM.

"The Master Bedroom," said the plan,
As plain as print could make it.
"Oho," remarked the married man,
"She'll never let me take it.
That is a pretty compliment,
My pulses now it stirs.
For me, of course, this room is meant,
But soon it will be hers.

"For blueprint purposes appears
To me this kindly reference.
In all our happy married years
I've never had the preference.
But here it is in blue and white
For all who wish to see.
'The master room!' Can that be right?
Does that refer to me?

"Ah, me! although full well I know
That I shall never be it,
'The Master'—title used for show—
It's rather nice to see it.
No privileges I expect
Beneath that roof of shingle.
'The master room!' the architect
A flatterer is or singler!"

There Is Plenty for Others if the First Diners Leave When They Are Full.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICA'S great gift to mankind was freedom.

Here, for the first time, the common man had opportunity to choose his own way of life and rid his soul of chains.

But the ideals of a race are made by its literature. And American literature, for many generations, confined itself to variations of a single theme, "From Rags to Riches."

It was, at first, excellent propaganda. It encouraged people to get away from poverty, which is degrading and ugly and prolific of evil.

But the universal ambition to "get ahead" soon made money the measure of all value. The rich were somebodies; those who failed to get rich were nobodies. Riches meant power and honor and social standing.

People no longer were content to escape poverty. They no longer were content with enough. Since money proved their excellence, it was necessary to show off to prove their possession of money. Keeping up with the Joneses became the national ambition.

And liberty was gone.

People are no longer free. They no longer choose their own way of life. They pant in a treadmill, chained fast to custom, sweating for play-pretties to impress the neighbors. No one dares to violate the rules, for one who prefers living rather than getting is called a crank or a leech.

Work is a necessary evil, not a virtue. Machines are built and the hours of labor shortened in order to give men more leisure.

If leisure, then, is the goal of man's striving, why doesn't he quit work when he has a competence and devote himself to the art of living?

Little wealth is needed to provide necessary comfort and security. Millions now in the treadmill have enough and to spare. Why should they cling to jobs they do not need while men—as able—are jobless and destitute?

They do it because they are slaves. They are slaves to the fallacy that the making of ash trays is more respectable than leisure—slaves to the idea that success consists in making more money to buy more expensive trinkets to impress more people.

Certain natives of Africa stretch their lips to the size of dinner plates. They do it to excel their neighbors, for they are enslaved by custom and unable to realize how silly it is.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Mr. Snell's Speech.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Representative Snell's plea for party unity and aggressiveness, on assuming the permanent chairmanship of the Republican national convention, sounded a note of confidence and courage based on the confusion and factional bitternesses now so evident in the ranks of the Democrats. The Democratic party, with its familiar capacity for blundering, is particularly unfortunate this year. Its record on legislation in Congress does not commend it to the country. Some of its most influential leaders are at loggerheads because of their clashing personal candidacies for President. The Democratic party, as Mr. Snell says, has "as many wings as it has candidates, and these wings do not flap together; they flap against each other."

But Mr. Snell would not have the Republican party rely on a campaign of destructive criticism to win its fight. He forcibly presented the argument that the national emergency calls for the continuance in office of the President who has brought the country thus far through the depression. It is an argument that will be heard many times between now and November.

With the temptation of flush times removed the campaign this year ought to be heated but honest.

Better Brains Wanted.

Schenectady Union-Star.

There is a distinct demand for a better grade of personnel in both Houses. What we mean by "representative government" is undergoing a revamping. Instead of considering members of Congress as errand boys sent to Washington to "bring home the bacon," the experience of the past year, and especially the six months since the Seventy-second Congress came into being, has taught the country that the Government of the Nation requires men of stature, men who are not mere errand boys for their constituents, but men who have a broad general concept of national issues, and are intelligent enough and strong enough to act.

How to Win.

Can Mr. Hoover be reelected? Yes, provided the Democratic party commits one of its traditional blunders. The Democratic party, if it wishes to win, must declare for repeal and nominate Gov. Ritchie of Maryland for President.

Frank and Al.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

What does the rank and file of the Democratic party think about this ruction between Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt? Reports seeping in from correspondents about the country indicate that the popular reactions have gone by contraries. Thus, Smith by his violent attack on Roosevelt has alienated many of his former friends, who feel that he has been disloyal and hit below the belt. Roosevelt, by this group, is now held to be a bit of a martyr and more than ever deserving of support. On the other hand, by failing to make an effective answer to Smith's bold program of administrative measures, Roosevelt is now held by some of his former supporters as lacking in the stuff of leadership. In his plea for the "common man" and his foolish attack on the Hoover relief measures he appears to have lost as much as he has gained, for it is felt that he was making merely a shallow appeal for votes. In none of these attitudes, of course, is there much rhyme or reason, which leads to the suspicion that this is not to be a campaign based on solid sense, but on prejudice and emotion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Knott Discusses Republican Prohibition Plank—Approves Party Action.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit one whose forbears all were Democrats to state publicly his admiration for the way the Republican convention handled the prohibition problem.

The philosopher used to say when asked if a certain thing were true, "Only in part." His friends were annoyed at his not giving categorical replies, for or against. Few questions can be disposed of that way. And where a nation covers such vast territory as ours does, and includes such a motley group as citizens, any political party which assumes to declare directly for or against an honestly disputed course on such a problem as prohibition, ignores a large section of our people. It is partisanship, not not patriotism, which insists that a political party shall be unequivocally for or against a widely disputed question. Democrats can not agree on the tariff. Our politicians can not, as a whole, agree on treatment of veterans. Good men honestly disagree on our attitude to foreign nations and foreign debts.

The Republican party has asserted in its platform its unswerving loyalty to the Constitution as it applies to prohibition. It has conceded honest differences in the party on this matter. It points the way by which the people can speak their minds, within the bounds of the Constitution. It binds no man to be wet or dry.

If the Democrats, in their platform, do anything like as well in dealing with prohibition, I, for one, shall be delighted.

Why Should Not Hatbands and Doormats Bear "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment" Label?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When an automobile tagged "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment" goes by I can not help wondering whether the effect of good breeding as we used to know it is not being lost in the rush of motor traffic. In their ordinary intercourse, as well as in their homes, gentlemen are not supposed to thrust their beliefs under the noses of others. The fellow who springs his religion, politics or other likes or dislikes on every one he meets is a nuisance if not worse. And that is why the "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment" tag on an automobile indicates that there was something wanting in its owner's bringing up.

A "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment" motor tag seems just as rattle-brained and vulgar as would a repeal-the-eighteenth-amendment hatband or a repeal-the-eighteenth-amendment doormat.

"War Worker" Says Small Comforts Are Needed by Bonus Seekers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Those of us who were privileged to serve in the military hospitals in the late war will remember how cheerful, patient and courageous the soldiers were, always appreciative of the little extra comforts which make illness easier to bear. Now some of the same men are here tired, discouraged with the lack of work, and ill. We need not here consider the reasons for their presence, and we can safely trust our able and conscientious public officials to deal with the cause and cure of their condition. Meanwhile, we can not shut our eyes to their immediate wants. As many as possible of the men are being cared for at the local hospitals, which are so crowded that many cases of less serious illness and minor injuries must remain in the "camps," where only most necessary food can be provided and no funds are available for diets needed for the sick. Our citizens will, I am sure, be glad to provide some of the alleviations of illness, such as we used to distribute in the hospitals—reading matter, bags containing toothpaste, soap, handkerchiefs, &c., and fruit.

Any such supplies should be contributed through the authorities in charge of the local hospitals, or of the "camps" to insure proper distribution and avoid duplication.

The writer knows from personal visits to the "camps" that the men will receive them as gratefully as in the war days, and that the kind thought no less than the gift will cheer those wounded in the battle of life.

Elimination of Amber Traffic Lights Preceding Red Is an Improvement.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At intersections that are controlled by lights I have recently noticed a variance in regard to the amber lights. At some of the intersections the lights flash simultaneously, red and amber on one thoroughfare and green and amber on the other thoroughfare. Then there are a few cases where the lights flash green and amber, but the red light does not have any amber signal preceding it. This eliminates the danger of rushing into an intersection before the green light appears.

In the fatal bus accident at Rhode Island and Connecticut avenues some weeks ago, accident was caused by both buses taking advantage of the amber lights. If that traffic can not start until the green light appears, it will help to eliminate unnecessary accidents.

J. M. H. Approves Editorial on Results of Republican Convention.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your analysis of the results of the Chicago convention seems to me to hit the nail squarely on the head. "The restoration of the national welfare," as you say, is the objective of Republican campaign effort. If the people are well advised, they will return the President to the White House and a Congress willing and competent to cooperate with him at the Capitol.

VICTIM OF BEATING CHARGES HIJACKING

Chillum, Md., Man Claims Liquor Car Was Stolen After Attack.

A detailed story of how three men in a large sedan forced his car from Riggs road near the District line, slugged him over the head with a bottle, and left him lying semiconscious by the roadside, was unfolded to police at Sibley Hospital early yesterday by Aloysius Mayhew, 27 years old, of Chillum, Md.

According to police, Mayhew insisted that he had been "hi-jacked." His machine, he declared, was loaded with 20 cases of liquor which he was transporting to a nearby Maryland roadhouse.

Officials at Sibley Hospital summoned police when Mayhew refused to explain how he received his wounds. Although police believe the man knew his assailants, Mayhew declined to divulge their identity. He also refused to give police the numbers on the license plates of his car, so a lookout for its recovery could be broadcast.

Mayhew, according to police, was driving his machine on Riggs road about a half mile from the District. He said a large car, bearing three men, forced his machine from the road. Two of the men, he declared, pulled him out of the car, and after one of them struck him on the head, drove off in his machine. The third man remained at the wheel of the other car, Mayhew said.

After making his way home, Mayhew was later found by his uncle, William C. Shoemaker, lying unconscious in bed. He was taken to the hospital, where he told police of the "hi-jacking."

Mayhew was released from the hospital last night and local police said his case was entirely in the hands of Maryland authorities.

Jersey's Governor May Be Dark Horse

Vice Chairman Hague Reported Backing Him if Deadlock Occurs.

Jersey City, N. J., June 19 (A.P.).—The Jersey Journal declares that Mayor Frank Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, is counting on Gov. A. Harry Moore as a dark horse candidate for the presidential nomination in the event the Roosevelt-Smith contest leaves the field open.

While Gov. Moore is what might be classed as a one-to-five shot, the paper said, more than one New Jersey politician has been busy the past few days figuring out his possibilities.

Gov. Moore, although elected as one of the delegates at large to the Democratic national convention, will not go with the other delegates. This is ascribed by some as a move on Mr. Hague's part to keep Gov. Moore from being embroiled in any of the convention complications and keep him for a last-minute entrance should there develop a chance of uniting on Moore in the event of a deadlock, the Journal said.

Cermak Will Fight For Beer Platform

Chicago Mayor to Contend Volstead Act Change Is Needed Now.

Chicago, June 19 (A.P.).—A pledge for immediate modification of the Volstead act, as well as the ultimate repeal of the eighteenth amendment, will be sought from Democratic platform writers when they assemble here for the convention by Mayor Anton J. Cermak.

The Chicago mayor, a leader in the State's democracy and so far an unopposed candidate for election as national committeeman, said his party should go on record as favoring immediate congressional action to increase the legal alcoholic content of beverages from one-half of 1 per cent to 3 or 4 per cent.

"To declare merely for repeal," the mayor said, "and to offer a substitute amendment will not for several years give the people of this country the thing they want most—wholesome beer. The next administration will have passed out of office before a substitute amendment for the eighteenth can be adopted."

Garfield Is Invited To Fraud Inquiry

Mention of Name in Case of Mortgage Firm's Head Is Cause.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, told newspapermen Saturday that the Senate subcommittee investigating the dismissal of a mail fraud indictment against S. Chester Crobaugh, of Cleveland, had invited James R. Garfield, chairman of the Republican convention resolutions committee, to appear tomorrow and make any statement he wished.

Crobaugh was head of the defunct Union Mortgage Co. After his indictment, Garfield, a close friend, discussed the case with Justice Department officials here.

"There are no indications that Garfield has done anything improper," Robinson said. "The committee felt, however, that because his name has been mentioned in connection with the case, improper inferences might be drawn, and that he should be given a chance to explain."

Civil War Veteran, 91, Is Flying to Convention

Detroit, June 19 (A.P.).—Lacking two months of being 91 years old, William A. Snyder, oldest Civil War veteran in Kalamazoo, Mich., stopped here today enroute by airplane via Cleveland and Pittsburgh, to Harrisburg, Pa., to attend the Pennsylvania State convention of G. A. R. veterans.

Twirling a cane that he didn't feel like using for more serious purposes, he stretched his legs at Detroit City Airport after traveling here by plane, and then climbed aboard an amphibian bound for Cleveland.

Money Spent in Europe Will Never Come Back

By JOHN J. DALY

GENEROSITY is the keynote of the negotiations at Lausanne, Switzerland, where the international conference considers reparations and war debts.

First of all, John Bulls offers to wipe the slate clean, cancel everything, and let Uncle Sam hold the bag.

Then, La Belle France suggests the removal of all trade barriers instead of cancellation of the war payments to her.

Finally, the spokesman for Germany, who has not said a word up to this point, rises in his place and makes the grandest gesture of all. In a temperate address, applauded by those who heard it, the representative of the Fatherland indicates that it may be necessary to declare a moratorium on private debts, mostly owed to the Americans.

* * * *

THOSE rich Americans! Who cares who pays them? Nobody!

An American in Europe is a mark for every sharp-shooter and sharper of every nationality—the world's E-Z-Mark.

Owe America? Certainly.

Pay America? Never. Not while there is any loop-hole, any chance on earth to evade the payment. It is not dishonesty, it is merely dollar diplomacy with reverse English on it.

Those free and easy spenders, the Americans, throw their money to the four winds. If they expect to get it back they are suffering from a sad hallucination.

In America, there is an old-fashioned custom which prescribes that a person who borrows money must pay it back. At least that much is expected. In Europe, the reverse seems to be the order.

* * * *

GERMANY, offering the suggestion that a moratorium be declared on private debts, especially those owed to Americans, is merely running true to continental form.

It probably is the fault of Americans themselves. Year after, year, rich Americans went to Europe and flouted their wealth in the faces of their poor relations. Those Americans who remained at home sent money over to the old forebears who now forbear to pay.

Since this sort of game is being played it might be a good idea to turn the tables, and let Americans keep their money at home.

Certainly, American money is better off in American hands, where it gets a certain amount of consideration and respect, with interest at 6 per cent.

In Europe, they will not even pay their respects to the American dollar.

U. S. SUPERVISION OF ELECTION IN NICARAGUA IN BALANCE

priations relative to Marine supervision of the Nicaraguan elections has practically convinced the State Department that there is little chance of Congressional approval of the item. Therefore, to assure that the election be held, it has been proposed to divert a greater portion of the projected $1,500,000 loan than the $104,000 originally agreed on, to the payment of the Marines' expenses.

In addition, the State Department wished the administration of the proposed loan to come under American supervision somewhat after the fashion of the financial advisor to the Haitian government. President Moncada has not yet replied to this suggestion of the State Department, but it is believed here that the suggestion will be rejected.

The Nicaraguan budget amounts to about $90,000 a month and it is considered extremely hazardous to burden the national economy with the onerous weight of a sum of $250,000 to $350,000 which the election expenses would entail. In this event the Nicaraguan Finance Ministry would be forced to pay out more than 30% of the total annual budget to pay the expenses of holding the elections.

May Offer Compromises.

Several compromise propositions are believed to be in preparation, the most important of them being a project of reducing the total number of marines hitherto considered necessary from 643 to approximately 400. This would enable appreciable reductions to be made in the costs of the elections, but might seriously favor the dissident elements in the country which might endanger the success of the elections or even bring on possible trouble.

The loan proposal was approved some weeks ago by the directors of the Bank of Nicaragua, of whom four are Nicaraguans and the other three Americans. The loan would be an internal operation by the bank, secured by the revenues of the State Railway and the bank's profits, as well as other monopoly profits.

Secretary Stimson is taking a deep interest in the Nicaraguan situation personally, as he scored his first diplomatic success there in 1927, when President Coolidge sent him to Nicaragua to avert the civil war that was threatening to disrupt the country.

In the elections which followed in 1928 Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy (then brigadier general) directed the elections and for the first time in more than a decade Nicaragua held a free election. Candidates of both the Liberal and Conservative parties in that year asked the United States to supervise the next elections, which will take place in four months. Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward has already arrived in Nicaragua and the members of the electoral commission have already been selected and are scheduled to sail at intervals from July 1.

The internal condition of Nicaragua is growing tense with the ever present menace of the bandit Sandino and his mysteriously equipped guerrilla forces. The political forces are now aligning themselves, with a three-cornered fight imminent in the ranks of the Liberals, who constitute the greatest numerical force of the country. The three candidates now to the fore are the former here, Juan V. Sacasa, Rodolfo Espinosa, a senator, and Enoch Ajuado, the present vice president.

Former President Adolfo Diaz, now in New York, is in league with Gen. Emiliano Chamorro, a prominent political figure in Nicaragua with strong military affiliations, and the prospect of a coup d'etat, such as heretofore occurred in Salvador, Peru, Bolivia and Chile, is causing considreable apprehension in all circles there.

At the present time there are about 1,000 Marines in Nicaragua, but the policy of Secretary Stimson has been to gradually evacuate them. It is planned to have all the Marines out of Nicaragua by the first of the year. That will be the decisive moment for the native guardia. Maintenance of order and tranquillity in the country will then devolve upon the native troops.

Midwest Storms Cause 3 Deaths

Crops Ruined and Property Damaged in Nebraska and Kansas.

Kansas City, June 19 (A.P.).—Death and ruined crops lay in the wake of severe wind, hail and rain storms that capered over several nearby States today, property damage was extensive.

Near Trenton, Nebr., Frank Wyss, 35, drowned while attempting to swim for help for occupants of his marooned motor car. They survived by perching on its top until the flood subsided. Water three feet deep coursed through the streets of Trenton after a cloudburst.

Harold Pack, 40, was dashed to death when a high wind slammed a transom he was trying to close and knocked him off a ladder in his cafe at Arkansas City, Kans.

Milo F. Ball, 65, died of heat prostration at Guthrie, Okla., last night. The storm there followed a maximum afternoon temperature of 98. Six inches of rain fell at Pratt, Kans.

High winds wrecked an airport at Wichita, Kans., and caused damage estimated by authorities at $100,000 at Anthony, Kans.

ALEXANDRIA LEGION PLANS FOR PARLEY

Four-Day Convention to Be Opened July 31; Parade One of Features.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
207 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

Meetings are being held each Wednesday by the convention committee of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, and the American Legion Auxiliary, arranging for the entertainment in this city on July 31 and August 1, 2 and 3 of the annual convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary, Department of Virginia.

The convention will open on Sunday, July 31, with a reception in Gadsby's Tavern, with the local auxiliary hostess, and church services that evening. Plans are for an opening session of both organizations on Monday morning in the Ingomar Theater. The business sessions of the legion will be held each day in this building, while the women's organization will probably meet in the Young People's Building.

The parade will be staged on Monday afternoon and a reception and dance that night in the armory. A boat trip to Quantico on Tuesday afternoon, with supper, is on the program. The annual commanders' ball and reception will be held that night.

Election of officers in both organizations will be held on Wednesday morning, and that afternoon a trip to Arlington County, under auspices of Arlington Post, No. 139, and Auxiliary, will close the gathering.

The funeral of John L. Kimball, 63, of 1223 Prince street, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home, conducted by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Baptist Temple. Mr. Kimball died Saturday at his home. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Kimball, and three brothers, George W. Kimball and Wingfield B. Kimball, of Alexandria, and William Kimball, of Clarendon, Arlington County. He was a member of Alexandria Council No. 5, Order Fraternal Americanism and Oriental Court No. 11.

Announcement has been made that the annual conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, held in Pocomoke City, Md., last week, has returned the Rev. C. M. Compher, pastor of the local church, to that charge for another year.

Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, president; Miss Adelyn Apperson, treasurer, and Miss Alice Gronau, emblem chairman, of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club, have returned from Staunton, where they attended the State board meeting of the Virginia Federation of B. P. W. Clubs. Charlottesville was selected as the place of meeting for the 1933 State convention, and Hampton, for the October board meeting. The meeting was presided over by Miss Hilda Marshall, of Martinsville, State president, and the principal speaker at the banquet Saturday night was Mrs. Eudora Ramsay Richardson, of Richmond, noted author, and field representative of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Alexandria Branch of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock with the chairman, Mrs. Ben B. Cain, jr., 619 South Lee street. Plans will be discussed for a mass meeting on Friday in the armory.

Clough's Second Trial On Today in Leesburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 19.—The second trial of Virgil E. Clough, indicted for murder in the slaying of Clayton Littleton at Bluemont last August, is scheduled to get under way before Judge J. R. H. Alexander in circuit court here tomorrow morning. Clough has been at liberty under bail since the sentence of eight years in the penitentiary imposed upon him at his first trial was set aside.

Mrs. Littleton, widow of the slain man and over whom Littleton and Clough are said to have quarreled, is again expected to be a witness, being under bond to appear. Clough, it is understood, will plead self-defense, claiming, as he did in his firsttrial, that he shot Littleton when he believed his own life was in danger.

U.S. Goading Japan To War, Reds Say

Encouraging Conflict With Soviet Prior to Conquest in Far East, Charge.

Moscow, June 19 (A.P.).—A charge that "certain imperialist circles in the United States" are encouraging Japan to make war against the Soviet Union was made by the newspaper Pravda, organ of the Communist party.

Pravda said the American effort was being made in the hope that Japan would thereby weaken itself so that America could conquer "its enemy in the Pacific." It warned that such efforts should meet the resistance of the American working masses.

Declaring that increasing differences between the United States and Japan are indicated by America's action in strengthening her naval bases in the Pacific, the Communist party organ added sarcastically:

"But this does not prevent certain imperialist circles in America from supplying arms and credit to its future rival.

"This policy (of encouragement of a Russo-Japanese war) has been carried on in connection with attempts to weaken Japan and thus allow American imperialism to warm its hands."

Public Affairs Institute Adds Thomas and Glass

The followinng have been added to the list of prominent speaker, for the Institute of Public Affairs which will be in session at the University of Virginia from July 3 to July 15, inclusive:

Norman Thomas, presidential nominee of the Socialist party, who will speak on socialistic economics; Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who will speak on credit and finance, and Miss Marguerite Wells, chairman of legislation, National League of Women Voters, who will discuss parties, platforms and conventions in emergency times.

3 Burned in Explosion Of Hot-Water Heater

Three persons suffered painful burns early yesterday when a hot-water heater exploded in the home of Charles Shaffer, 54, at Carmody Hills, Md., just outside the District. Neighbors conveyed them to Emergency Hospital here.

Those burned were Shaffer, his 8-year-old son, Norman, and Willie Herron, 26, a friend. The Shaffers were treated for first and second degree burns about the legs, arms and face, and admitted to the hospital. Herron was burned about the face and hands, but was discharged after treatment.

CAPITAL PREPARES FOR MRS. PUTNAM

New York to Greet Flier Today; Hoover to Award Medal Tomorrow.

While Washington completes plans for a reception tomorrow to Amelia Earhart Putnam, the only woman to fly the ocean solo, New York City will extend her a welcome this morning when she arrives with her husband, George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, on the Ile de France.

The plane in which Mrs. Putnam made her record-breaking flight is also on board, crated and housed on the afterdeck.

The Ile de France is due to arrive at quarantine at 9 o'clock. The aviatrix and her party will be met by George P. Mand, of the mayor's reception committee, and Charles Lanier Lawrance, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. She will be escorted up Broadway to City Hall to be accorded New York's official welcome by Mayor Walker.

From City Hall, Mrs. Putnam will go to Bryant Park where she will receive the cross of honor of the United States Flag Association.

In this city tomorrow the flier will be received at the White House and by the Senate and House of Representatives. President Hoover will confer the special gold medal of the National Geographic Society.

The welcome in New York will be broadcast by WMAL at 11 o'clock and WRC at 11:30 o'clock. Mrs. Putnam will receive the Columbia medal from Henry A. Bellows, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, at 10 o'clock tonight. President Hoover's words as he presents the National Geographic gold medal will be broadcast by WRC at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Motorcycle-Auto Crash Sends Two to Hospital

Samuel Timmons and William Johnson, both colored, of Washington Grove, Md., were injured last night when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed into the rear of an automobile on the Gaithersburg Pike near Westmore, Md.

The two men were treated at the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring. Johnson suffered severe internal injuries, while Timmons received lacerations. Timmons, who was driving the motorcycle, was charged with operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

DEDICATION IS TODAY IN PETERSBURG PARK

Exercises Will Be Attended by Confederate Veterans on Way to Reunion.

Petersburg, Va., June 19 (A.P.).—The Petersburg National Memorial Park, built with Federal funds on the site of the 300-day siege which foreshadowed the defeat of the Confederate cause, tomorrow will be dedicated to the Nation whose union was preserved.

The dedication exercises will come on the eve of the forty-second annual convention of Confederate veterans in Richmond Tuesday to Friday.

Preparations for the celebration here were complete tonight and the Cockade City was prepared to welcome the thousands of visitors expected for the exercises.

Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne will deliver the dedication address and Patrick H. Drewry, of Petersburg, will preside. More than 1,000 persons will participate in the pageant, which will consist of seven episodes and an epilogue which will tell the story of the vain struggle by the seceded States.

A scene from the Battle of the Crater will feature the pantomimic display.

Meanwhile at Richmond, the vanguard of the fast-thinning army of veterans was arriving for the reunion. A number had arrived in advance of the commander in chief, Gen. C. A. DeSaussure, of Nashville, who will reach the city tomorrow and be welcomed by a seventeen-gun salute from the Richmond Light Infantry Blues.

These early comers will go to Petersburg to participate in the park dedication before commencing the business of their reunion, which for some of them, will be the last.

The reunion program will embrace also the thirty-third convention of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association and the thirty-seventh convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Byrd Act Meetings To Start Thursday

First of Series Advocating Plan Will Be Held at Lyon Park.

The first of a series of Arlington County, Va., mass meetings to be held under the auspices of the advocates of the Byrd road act will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Lyon Park Community House. Hugh Reid, delegate from Arlington County to the General Assembly of Virginia, and John L. Harrison, of the United States Good Roads Bureau, are announced as the principal speakers.

While reports indicate that there will have been secured the required number of signatures of qualified voters asking that a special election on the question be held August 9, those favoring the county remaining under the provisions of the act plan for a determined campaign from now until the day of the election.

Dates of other meetings to be held will be announced within the next few days.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

AMELIA EARHART PUTNAM, first woman to fly the Atlantic alone, will be the most dominant personality on the air waves for the next day or two. Miss Earhart's arrival from Europe this morning will be celebrated in true Broadway fashion and the radio audience is invited to listen to descriptions of the homecoming (WMAL, 11 o'clock; WRC, 11:30 o'clock).

Miss Earhart will receive the Columbia medal from Henry A. Bellows, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, in a ceremony in the New York studios tonight (WMAL, 10 o'clock). The radio medal was struck for Mrs. Putnam as a tribute to her linking of aviation and radio in promotion of international amity and progress.

President Hoover's words as he presents the National Geographic Gold Medal to Mrs. Putnam will be carried over Station WRC at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. The President will speak briefly in making the presentation and the flier is expected to tell some of the details of her solo hop from Harbor Grace to Londonderry, Ireland. Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, will preside during the ceremonies.

WASHINGTONIANS will be allowed to hear the round-by-round description of the world's heavyweight championship match between Max Schmeling, champion, and Jack Sharkey, contender, during the regular Lucky Strike Dance Hour tomorrow night. Instead of "The Chaddock Case," the mystery dramatization prepared for tonight, the American Tobacco Co. will sponsor the bout. The broadcast will continue until the end of the battle, which is scheduled for fifteen rounds.

America's outstanding golfing event, the national open championship, will be described over N. B. C. networks from the scene of the contest, the Fresh Meadow Country Club, at Flushing, Long Island, by Alex J. Morrison, authority on the game. He will first take the air in a preview broadcast this afternoon (WRC, 5:30 o'clock) to discuss the chances of the various entries.

He will be on the air Thursday and Friday (WRC, at 4:45 p. m.) with analytical resumes of the rounds.

FORMER GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH will discuss "Democratic Politics on the Eve of the Convention" in an address over a coast-to-coast network of Columbia tonight (WMAL, 9:15 o'clock).

Phillips H. Lord, creator of "Seth Parker," will bring radio audiences a new character, "The Country Doctor," in a broadcast series which will have its premiere over the WJZ network at 9 o'clock tonight. Lord will play "Dr. Matthews" in the new program, which will be heard Tuesdays and Wednesdays also at the same hour.

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, will be the guest speaker during the broadcast of the National Radio Forum over WRC at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

The Oversensitive Young Girl Is Seldom Popular or Happy.

"SHE'S supersensitive and self-conscious and not nearly happy or popular enough. Pity of it all is, she's awfully nice and could cultivate many lasting friendships." I've overheard many such reference to girls in school and business, to women in the home, to mothers whose sensitiveness robs their children of that free social background we all admire. Young girls are the chief victims of this self-consciousness. And this self-consciousness robs them of many social and business opportunities. It keeps them from joining a new group, trying their hand at a new game, from participating in church or community activities (for fear of appearing awkward).

The girl who is self-conscious is often afraid to appear too interested in new people, to ask questions (for fear she will appear ignorant), to request others to do little favors which make for friendship. She slinks into her own shell, seldom has "dates" and usually becomes narrow or bitter. There is too much suppression and not enough enthusiasm in her life.

Either Indifferent or Overzealous.

And this grave fault asserts itself in two ways. She either becomes indifferent to people and things, or in an attempt to cover over her lack of poise and assurance, becomes overzealous. You've seen evidence of it, girls who were so self-conscious that they felt they had to talk every minute of the time and so proved poor listeners.

I've seen evidence of it—'plaints, letters and personal visits from young girls who felt they were "the homeliest looking things in the world," that they could never be lovely, that they didn't know how to walk, talk, eat, mingle with people or do anything worthwhile.

Too Critical of Beauty Flaws

It is just as serious a mistake to be too critical of any beauty flaws as it is to be indifferent. The girl who feels there is a list of 15 flaws to contend with and wishes to wage war against every one (and all at the same time) is doomed to disappointment. It is too difficult. It is far wiser to start with one or two of the more serious complexion, hair, figure or health ills and correct them. Then satisfied that the big job is well done, the minor flaws can be ironed out easily enough. It is a very good plan to take an inventory of one's self and to build and build until one has reached the very pinnacle of personal loveliness and physical perfection. But slowly and surely, my dears. Not too fast or the structure will crumble.

Invariably the longest letters come from the youngest readers. And to them I want to say: one thing at a time, and don't be so sensitive, don't be so critical of yourself, and so conscious. Be natural, be enthusiastic, forget yourself and remember that somewhere, someone is going to (or does) like you. "Find the one!" (Or the many.)

"GEMINI."

IF June 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:35 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:35 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Insignificant astrological influences will be in force on June 20, and much will depend upon the energies put forth. Life will not be handing out bargains at this time, and full price must be paid, at least in effort and thought. Nothing of a startling nature is anticipated in connection with either personal or business affairs.

The child born on this June 20 will have a simple, artless nature, with an inborn desire to please. It will not be headstrong and will usually listen to reason. It will be a willing worker, and no shirker of tasks. Its disposition will be sweet, its temper mild and its childhood free from squabbles.

Born on June 20 you have a very willing nature, and although you shrink from responsibilities and are afraid to use your own initiative, you are able to carry out orders to the letter. You are punctual and far from clumsy as an executant. You take great pride in your work, and do not leave frayed ends for some one else to trim.

Your pleasant, homely manners readily win friends for you, and people feel that you are a person to be trusted. You have your weaknesses, but it would be difficult to find a yellow streak in your make-up. You have a hopeful, cheerful outlook on life and seldom give up in despair. You have put out many ships, which will eventually return home to you, laden with returns for your many kindnesses and thoughtfulness to others.

You are neither prejudiced nor antagonistic toward new things, but you dislike turning your back on old places or faces. If you can find some comfortable rut for your habitat, it is a certainty that you will stick there until unforeseen circumstances push you out. You need to have some chick or child upon whom to spill your love and devotion—and it may be sure that it will be spoiled. June 20 women are shining successes within the home, but are never in their natural element in the business world.

Successful people born on June 20: Daniel Saunders, manufacturer and founder of Lawrence, Mass.

Louis W. Wyeth, jurist.

John T. Morgan, senator from Alabama.

Helen Gould Shepard, philanthropist.

Benjamin H. Bristow, Secretary of the Treasury under Grant.

Joseph M. Wilson, architect and civil engineer.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

What a Hero!

MY DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I have confidence in your advice and trust that you will endeavor to solve my problem.

I used to go with a fellow two years ago and I seemed to care for him quite a bit. We only went together about three months and I didn't realize I liked him as much as I did until he and I parted. He thought himself too good as to family tradition, lineage, &c., for my family and me. When he was explaining how I would be taking a chance on being approved by his family I didn't get angry because I didn't quite realize the monstrosity of the whole argument. Imagine a person such as he was being such an idiot in this day and age. I told him good-by for good and have no intentions of ever going back to him. Miss McDonald, but now I've been going a year with a fellow who works at the same business place as the old boy friend and who was introduced to me by him. I seem to think of the old friend quite frequently. This worries me, because I want to be everything to the one I am now going with. I have tried to figure out why the other comes up in my mind so often and why I feel so queer when I see some one who resembles him, but not when I actually see him at a distance. I could never be happy with such a conceited idiot who thinks himself so superior to others. I must not forget to mention that my family is considered very good as to lineage, &c. Please help. "WORRIED."

Just the old story of the cherries that are out of reach! The nit-wit sold you the idea that he really was too good for you and you are experiencing a sense of loss as a result. That is human nature. All you need do is realize that if your present lover were to desert you, you would feel exactly the same about him and would immediately forget all about the first man in your concern over the second.

It is a pity that you do not even yet appreciate the full extent of the first man's mental inferiority. He is impossible. Could you imagine any man who really was of any consequence holding forth to a woman in such a strain as you quote him? Even his family would blush for shame if they knew of it. To be the wife of such a shallow soul would be a fate no woman yet deserved. So accept the fact and go on with your life from there. The future will tell the whole story. He will probably marry some woman who will spend her life apologizing for him and his snobbish confessions of inferiority—for you know the man who is sure of himself and of his social position can marry as he pleases without excuses or explanations. It is the man who is not quite sure who must be wary and pick his way.

Never mind about the "queer" feeling. Any one would feel "queer" who had experienced such a narrow escape.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

"Baccara" is the name of this lovely yet simply designed summer evening model in discreetly printed chiffon. The cape arrangement is worthy of note. (Courtesy of Dupouy Magnin, Paris.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—I guess we'll just never hear the end of this sun-tan business. There is absolutely no use in asking "shall I or shall I not sun tan?" because you have your very own answer. Yes, if you wish—no, if you don't.

It is quite as chic to be white complexioned, to wear large hats, long-sleeved beach dresses, gloves, and even stockings, as it is to wear a brassiere bathing suit and get all the sun the law allows. But, be consistent! Unless you are one of the fortunate few who can really go to an expensive beauty parlor and indulge in the kind of light bath which takes the tan away, or puts it there, be consistent! Lotions help, but no lotion will actually either bleach or tan you.

There is nothing like doing things thoroughly, either. If you tan more easily than you stay white, I should say that is the thing to decide on. If you only blister and freckle and peel and get pink, don't try to tan.

As for how to tan properly, with no ugly peelings and blisters, or freckles or uneven tones, there is a system. One must expose the skin only for five to fifteen minutes the first day, then you can increase this by ten minutes the second, then half an hour—and from then on you should be able to take all the sun you want at any time. Of course, I am not speaking of tropical sun, which has to be handled differently altogether. But if you haven't the patience to take your sun this way, you will never have a successful tan—nor an even one. And an ugly tan is ugly.

Another aid to proper tan is cocoa butter or cocoanut oil. Anoint the skin before you take your sun bath, and though not lavishly, at least all over the exposed area. Then your sun bath, then your shower or dip. This really does prevent blisters, and one should use it on the back and arms all the time, even after a seeming tan is acquired—it makes for that golden tan instead of the ugly, lifeless one. More of white complexions anon!

Been waiting for me all your life? Yes, you have—'cause I've been waiting for the very same thing! I've asked moo-o-o-o-r people what their ideas were for hiding telephones under something besides a doll's skirt—moo-o-o-o-or people have le-s-s-s-ideas on the subject! Well, I don't think ours are so ravishingly hot, at that—but at least they are original, and the things we tell you how to make in this week's illustrated leaflet do hide the telephone, and are artistic and can be made at home with your own clever fingers—and are not dolls! So send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, and just see for yourself what we all can do about telephone hidies. You can make them during the summer—both for yourself and for your friends for gifts—Christmas does come, you know.

I could jump up and down! They would send me something like this to sketch! Well, it's evidently a gorgeous summer evening frock, and the jacket is adorable, both back and front—but why does it have to be printed chiffon—and have such delectable samples of what colors and designs it comes in pinned to the rough sketch from Paris? When they know how I hate to draw printed anythings—and that I can only interpretate this rough sketch for you in black and white.

Ah well, resignation, resignation! There it is—the dress, simple and well made, with a bow in the back—and really very interesting cape arrangement which opens in the back and ties in the front, if you wish. Dupouy Magnin is the Paris couturier responsible for this—I should say the haute couture responsible for this—because Dupouy Magnin is a firm, while Monsieur Jean Magnin is the "couturier" responsible for the design—he makes 'em all.

Au revoir!

DECEPTIVE DEFENSE.

WHEN the bidding by the Declarer and his partner has been accurate and based upon the values held, the problem faced by the defending players of finding the trick to defeat the contract is frequently far from simple. Sometimes the only means of attaining this end is to create in the mind of the Declarer a wrong impression of distribution that will cause him to play the hand in such a manner as to create a defensive trick where it does not exist.

An interesting example of deceptive defense occurred in a recent Rubber game at Crockford's Club in New York.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 10 4 3 2 ♡ K Q 10 7 5 ◇ Q ♣ J 7 6
♠ Q 5 ♡ J 4 3 ◇ K J 10 6 ♣ 5 4	N W E S	♠ A K 6 ♡ 9 8 ◇ A 3 2 ♣ K Q 10 8 2
	♠ J 9 8 7 ♡ A 6 2 ◇ 9 8 7 ♣ 5 4 3

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
			1♣
Pass	1◇(1)	Pass	3◇(2)
Pass	4◇(3)	Pass	5◇(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The correct response. The length of the diamond suit suggests the hand will play more safely at a suit, but there is no need to hurry, as the final declaration can be determined by East's further bidding. East is sure to make a further bid, unless his hand is an absolute minimum.

2—An alternative bid with East would be two notrump, but the weakness of the heart suit makes the support of partner's bid suit more advisable, particularly in view of the fact that the players are vulnerable.

3—West's trump holding and the fact that the hand contains 2½ honor-tricks warrant a Rebid.

4—With passing opponents, adequate trump support and great honor strength, East, of course, bids for game.

Against the contract of five diamonds, North opened the heart King, and the South player, when the Dummy was exposed, reasoned that the problem of defense was entirely up to him. West's Rebid and the honors shown on the table strongly suggested that the Declarer held the club Ace. He certainly held five and probably six diamonds. If the diamonds held in West's hand were a sequence headed by Queen-Knave, nothing could be done, but if West held the King-Knave of diamonds, there was a possibility that the ruse South planned would succeed. Therefore, he overtook the heart King and returned the deuce of that suit, seeking to create in the mind of the Declarer the impression that he held only two hearts and could overruff any trump in the Dummy except the Ace. North won this trick, and he also, as his partner hoped, was deceived. He led another round of hearts, hoping that it might be ruffed by a small diamond in the Dummy. West read the situation as South had planned, trumped with the Ace, and decided that his only chance now of losing no tricks in diamonds was to lead a small diamond from the Dummy and finesse against South for the Queen. This plan was followed, North's singleton Queen made, and the contract defeated 1 trick, due to the clever defensive tactics of South, whereby the Declarer was led into a trap.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The best defense at Contract not only requres the winning of every obvious trick, but, whenever possible, the creation of less obvious tricks through strategy.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ 5 4 3 ♡ 9 7 ◇ A Q 5 ♣ A K 9 3 4
♠ 9 2 ♡ K Q 2 ◇ K J 8 ♣ J 7 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ Q ♡ A J 10 6 ◇ 5 4 2 ♣ 5
	♠ A K J 10 8 7 6 ♡ 8 ◇ 10 7 4 2 ♣ 10

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Helping the Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

GIVES SOME HINTS ABOUT THE MAKING OF COFFEE.

WHEN we say fresh boiling water, Mrs. Merrill, we mean that the fresh cold water is taken from the spigot and brought to a brisk boil. It should not be allowed to do more than just come to the boil. And to make good coffee we must have fresh boiling water. But another essential, if you are using an old-fashioned coffee pot, or any kind, for that matter, is to keep it immaculately clean. As to which type coffee is better—well, that is for your individual choice. There are many different types on the market, all of which are there on their own merit.

Here is a recipe for boiled coffee, and one which we hope will prove to your liking.

Boiled Coffee.
(For Mrs. Merrill.)

6 cupfuls fresh boiling water
1 cupful cold water
1 cupful coffee
2 eggshells

Scald coffee pot. Crush the eggshells, add to the water and mix with the coffee. Turn into coffee pot, pour on freshly boiling water and stir thoroughly. Boil for three minutes and add the remaining cold water.

Cold water at the end of the boiling period tends to perfect the clearing process. Cold water, you see, is heavier than hot, therefore, when it is added to the boiling coffee it sinks to the bottom, carrying the grounds with it.

And now we must plan a menu for the morrow—one built around the left-over leg of mutton which remains on our larder shelf from yesterday.

TUESDAY'S DINNER
Mutton Delicious
Potato Croquettes
Molded Spinach
Whole-Wheat Bread
Blackberry Tarts
Iced Tea

Mutton Delicious.

Have ready three cupfuls of minced, cooked mutton. Place a fourth cupful of butter (or substitute, as bacon fat or drippings) in a saucepan. Fry in the fat two or three slices of onion and a cupful or more of chopped mushrooms. Cook until brown. Moisten about three cupfuls of breadcrumbs with a cupful of heated milk and add one teaspoonful of minced parsley and a bit of red pepper. Mix and add to the meat, together with the onion and mushroom mixture. Work into a loaf. More salt may be needed to taste. Bake into hot oven from 30 to 45 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Potato Croquettes.

To two cupfuls of mashed potatoes add three tablespoonfuls melted butter, one egg, beaten, and pepper and salt to taste. Shape into small croquettes, roll in egg and cracker crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat. Drain on absorbent paper.

Molded Spinach.

Wash one peck of spinach thoroughly and cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain, add one-third cupful of melted butter, a scant teaspoonful of salt and reheat. Put through sieve, place in buttered mold and keep hot until ready to serve. Unmold onto a hot serving dish and sprinkle with several teaspoonfuls of French dressing. Cover with hard-cooked egg pressed through a sieve and sprinkle with paprika.

Blackberry Tarts.

To each cupful of flour add one-half cupful shortening, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix with the tips of the fingers. When thoroughly mixed and separated into little granulations, add just sufficient ice water to bind together. Roll out, handling as little as possible. Cover inverted muffin tins with pastry, prick well and chill. Bake in a hot oven until nicely browned. Wash the blackberries, sprinkle with powdered sugar and allow to stand for a half hour. Place in tart shells and cover with whipped cream, or serve plain with cheese balls.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, pending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: Will you please help me with my meal planning? I served the following dinner the other evening and was told by a friend that it was not properly balanced. No one had indigestion afterward, but I should like to have your opinion. Here it is: Bean soup, steak with onions, French fried potatoes, peas, fried egg plant, hot rolls, apple pie, cheese and coffee. MRS. R. J.

While your menu may sound very appetizing at first, apparently complete and satisfying, I am afraid, my dear Mrs. R. J., that continued meals of the same type would not be conducive to good health and nutrition. The most glaring error, perhaps, is the lack of the protective foods, milk and the leafy vegetables, which are so very necessary for the maintenance of vitality. I do not say that one would not be well fed on such foods as your menu includes—rather would be apt to be too concentratedly fed—but, unless generous quantities of the protective foods are included at the remaining meals during the day, trouble would be quite sure to follow.

Suppose we alter your menu to illustrate our point. Instead of French fried potatoes, substitute mashed potatoes, especially if there are children in the family; have creamed or scalloped egg plant instead of fried, or, if you like, spinach with lemon garnish. Then a lettuce salad with French or mayonnaise dressing to furnish the green, leafy vegetable advised. For dessert, apple pie for the grownups, with baked apples and cream for the children, will bring your dinner to a satisfactory close.

Since bean soup contains a great deal of nourishment, it is therefore better suited to luncheon, when it may take its place as the main course. A clear soup, or, if the daily quota of milk has not been already consumed, a cream vegetable soup, would be more suitable. Just little alterations, as you will readily see, but so far reaching and so important in their effects upon our health, our digestions and our dispositions. Remember that simple foods, simply prepared, are best for us, after all, to say nothing of the ease they grant the cook!

If you should like assistance at any time with regard to the why and the wherefore of foods and menu planning, just let us know. We shall be eager and very glad to help.

Refreshing Summer Beverages.

Summer days are thirsty days! And there are so many occasions when a sparkling, icy drink is most refreshing and welcome. It may be after a tiresome shopping day in town, a brisk game of tennis, or, perhaps, when friends "drop in" of a hot afternoon or evening. It really doesn't matter, for in our new folder you will find many suggestions for easily prepared, appropriate beverages—all equally delicious.

Send your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Nancy Carey, The Washington Post.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

REMOVING MENTAL KINKS.

A VERY definite gain in the treatment of insanity was made when shackles, chains and restraint beds were done away with—or nearly so. In every hospital for the insane there are many patients who must be restrained to prevent them from harming themselves physically or from escaping with the chance that they will harm others. However, these are a minority. The majority are not now subjected to the harm to mental, spiritual and physical health which follows as a result of the resentment against restraint.

Another gain resulted from giving patients opportunities for social contacts with other patients. The chance to work alongside other patients and to talk with them does more to cure mental disorders than does all the medicine in bottles. It is very harmful to a man with a mental derangement to permit him to isolate himself mentally and socially, and stew in his own disordered thoughts.

Drs. William Malamund and W. R. Miller, of Iowa, go a step further, especially in earlier and milder insanities of the dementia precox type. They sit down and talk it out with the subject. They encourage him and even lead him to tell his own story, and especially all that he thinks led up to it. What did his ancestors pass on to him by way of nervousness, peculiarities, difficult personalities, as well as definite mental and nervous disease? What in his family life tended to throw him into his mental disorder? What did the neighbors, business, school, the experience of life? What did these contribute to the result as the man himself views it?

Then follows a persistent effort to talk the patient out of his opinions. If the doctor has the confidence of the patient he will accept the diagnosis of dementia precox and will listen to the physician's statements that the patient has drawn wrong conclusions.

To get results the patients to be treated must be chosen wisely. Advanced cases and old-established ones are not favorable. The next step is to outline a plan of presentation that will appeal to the reason of the patient. It must be one that holds the patient's confidence and, finally, secures his cooperation. It is a method that takes time, but when intelligently, patiently and persistently carried out returns a considerable proportion to their homes nearly enough normal in their reactions to life so that they can live in peace with their families and get on well enough with their associates to enable them to earn a living.

When this method and the results of using it on a limited number of patients were presented to a convention of hospital superintendents they were greatly interested. Their institutions are so overcrowded and the expense is so great that the State is nearly ready to break under the burden.

However, the proposal is of far greater interest to those who are without, looking in. The persons who are at home and at work, but who are unhappy and hard to get on with because they have split personality are legion. If the method is worth something as a cure for early cases it should be worth more as a preventive. Suppose we were to start by periodic personality examinations, or at least one such. Next, by a frank statement that a split personality is present. Next, by a logical explanation to the patient of the meaning of his emotions and the why of his peculiarities. Such service would enable him to change his attitude and behavior, in some cases at least.

APOPLEXY.

Mrs. E. M. B. writes:

1. What is hemorrhage of the brain?
2. Is it serious?
3. Is it curable?
4. What is meant by brain cells drying up?
5. Can one expect to live long in that condition?

REPLY.

1. The common name is apoplexy.
2. Yes.
3. A few cases completely recover. In a larger proportion recovery is partial. To many it is fatal.
4. I presume your physician was trying to tell you how the hemorrhage injured some brain cells and destroyed others, and, therefore, recovery was incomplete.
5. A few persons live many years after apoplexy. Most do not. In the first place, second and third attacks usually follow. In the second the apoplexy age is around the average age at death, and not much below the Biblical limitation of life.

DANGER IS TRIVIAL.

B. B. writes: I am in love with a man whose mother is insane. She got that way after the birth of the last child. My mother says if I marry the man our children will be insane. Is that so?

REPLY.

The danger is trivial. More depends on the mental poise of the man than on his experience. In the first place insanity is scarcely inheritable. In the second, the insanity which follows childbirth is usually mania-depressive, and that is less transmissible than is dementia praecox. In the third place, even if the man had inherited a lack of mental poise, the quality would not be present in his children, provided you are a well-balanced woman.

Disease traits rarely last in the third generation.

These are enough arguments—and you can marry, provided you and the man are of the right sort.

IT'S CUSTOMARY THING.

Mrs. T. L. C. writes: My baby is 16 months old and we are wondering if she has flat feet. When her foot is wet and placed on a surface there is no arch discernible.

REPLY.

Babies of that age and younger always appear to be flat footed. In fact, they have a pad of fat under the instep, which makes that region slightly convex rather than concave like the instep of older people.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Can't you imagine how ravishing this dress would be in a gay red and white printed crepe silk?

A white crepe silk cape collar covers the sleeveless arms sufficiently to make it quite suitable for town for warm days. The edge of the collar is finished in the daintiest way with a narrow frilling of self-tissue.

The cleverly cut skirt gives extreme snugness through the hips. The panels will make you appear tall and slender.

Style No. 2841 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 35-inch material with ⅝ yard of 35-inch contrasting. Price of patterns, 15 cents.

Carried out in one material a plain marine blue crinkle crepe silk is lovely.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by sending 10 cents for this book to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

EVERY day the mail brings us a flood of letters from middle-aged women. They prove that Change of Life need not always be dreaded. They tell how the headaches, backaches, can be overcome or avoided.

SNAPDRAGON RUST.

EVEN so early in the season I realize, through the letters you send me, that every one is having trouble at this time with snapdragon rust. This disease is easily recognized by the spore masses which are found all over the plant. These masses are usually brown or gray. It is said that all snapdragon rust can be traced to plants which live in the open during the winter or to varieties which come from the greenhouses.

This fungus disease must be eradicated as early in the season as possible or it will kill the plants which it has attacked. Even if you have planted varieties which show a tendency to resist rust, if you do not prevent a spread of the malady you will find that the plants will become dwarfed and the flower spikes, which will be poor, will be borne on short stems.

One way to avoid snapdragon rust is to grow plants from seed. You should have a cold frame in which to start the seed; later, when they are in seedling state, you can transplant the young plants to some permanent place in your garden.

Another thing which is sure to spread the disease is to water affected plants from above. When you do this the water scatters the powdery spores from leaf to leaf and from stem to stem. Watering from above keeps the foliage moist, and moisture creates an ideal condition for infection. Always water all diseased plants by pouring the water over the ground about the roots.

Even if your plants do not appear to be troubled with rust, it is well to dust them frequently with powdered sulphur. This is preventive treatment. When rust is severe it is well to apply the sulphur every other day for a week or ten days. Sulphur is apt to harm the blooms, as it burns the texture of the petals. For this reason, every effort should be made to free the plants or to protect them from rust before they begin to bloom.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

As a result of the recent cooperative agreement of the three largest theatrical producing organizations in the country, the Theater Guild, the Messrs. Shubert and the Erlanger Amusement Enterprises, the American Theater Society of Washington has been formed and is now actively engaged in laying plans for its subscription season, which will bring to the Capital some of the finest plays of the impending theatrical year.

The Society will present its plays in the National Theater, where Mrs. Sidney Thomas and Miss Katherine Dunlop, who have handled the Professional Players' subscription season at the Shubert-Belasco Theater during the past two years and are now in charge of the Washington organization, have established offices and are already engaged in arranging subscriptions for the new season.

Subscribers, as heretofore, will be accorded reduced rates and preference in their choice of seat locations. Six plays will be presented by the Society.

Present indications are that the 1932-33 season of the Society will open on or about October 10. The definite date will be announced in due course.

The first play will be the Theater Guild production of "The Pure in Heart," by John Howard Lawson, with June Walker and Osgood Perkins in the principal roles. The remaining five plays will be chosen by a National Play Selection Committee of seven members, with the object in view of a balanced program of diversified entertainment.

The following plays are among those under consideration: "Cynara," by H. M. Harwood and R. G. Browne, with Philip Merivale; "The Good Earth," a dramatization by Owen and Donald Davis of Mrs. Pearl S. Buck's Pulitzer Prize novel, with Alla Nazimova; "Another Language," by Rose Franken, New York's latest hit which had its premiere here in April at the Belasco; "Autumn Crocus," by C. L. Anthony, with Francis Lederer, who appeared in the play for a year in London; "This Side Idolatry," by Talbot Jennings; "Something to Live For," by George O'Neil, and "A Trip to Pressburg," by Leo Perutz.

Additional plays will be submitted to the committee by the producer members of the Society and by other producers who have signified their willingness to cooperate, including Arthur Hopkins, Sam H. Harris, Gilbert Miller, John Golden, Brock Pemberton, Macgowan and Reed, Eva La Gallienne and others.

The subscription books, in charge of Mrs. Thomas and Miss Dunlop, are now open. Seating allotments will be made strictly according to the date of application.

Already this column has been taken numerously to task and scoffed at no little, by those with memories of the camera tricks of a long list of jungle pictures in mind, for its credulity in accepting apparently authentic word that Frank Buck's "Bring 'em Back Alive," hailed as the most remarkable picture of its kind ever made and scheduled to open its Washington engagement at RKO-Keith's next Friday, is wholly free from fakery.

Even after having viewed the picture in its entirety, there have been critics who have intimated a belief that much of the animal footage in "Bring 'em Back Alive" is "studio stuff." In refutation of the misgivings of one of his own commentators the editor of one of the foremost of the motion picture trade journals has the following to say in an editorial note:

"'Bring 'em Back Alive' was not in any part pictured in a studio. The animal action scenes were practically all made in a compound adjacent to the City of Singapore, in the Straits Settlement.

"To the Singapore market the animal trappers of Malaysia bring their wild wares for sale to circus agents and buyers. The scene staged and recorded in the compound may be accepted as dramatically reasonable reconstructions of what actually happens in the open jungle.

"The authenticity of the action is beyond question.

"Mr. Buck's all to unruffled make-up and the artificialities of the radio announcer's words and voice, which purports to be his, represent endeavors at theatricalism, which have no bearing on the animal components of the picture, which constitute its chief claim to attention.

"The battle of the tiger and the python, which is the high point of the picture, is without precedent or parallel in wild animal-photography.

So now you know.

It is Miss Leona Powers, the charming and versatile leading woman of the National Theater Players, whose farewell week begins Monday night, who remembers that Beulah Bondi, noted character actress, is a hometowner and thoughtfully passes on a Los Angeles newspaper clipping recently received from her mother, resident on the Coast.

It seems that excursions to the Pago Pago sets of "Rain," the camera-and-microphone version of Jeanne Eagel's famous stage play, have become a popular diversion. A complete jungle village on the island of Pago Pago in the South Seas has reared itself on the Isthmus of Catalina. Here Joan Crawford, Walter Huston, Beulah Bondi, last seen here on the screen as Helen Hayes' mother in "Arrowsmith," and on the stage with Pauline Lord in "Distant Drums;" William Gargan, Guy Kibbee, Walter Catlett, Ben Hendricks, Frederic Howard, Matt Moore and Kendall Lee Glaenzer have been marooned for the past five weeks—with at least two more to go before the filming will be completed.

It will be recalled that the plot of "Rain" is the outgrowth of the irritability of a small group of sharply contrasted characters thrown into intimate contact by an incessant, torrential downpour and its resultant sea of rich and oozy tropical mud. This has all been cleverly contrived by an efficient sprinkling system on Catalina that can be turned on and off like a shower bath and most of the time is left turned on! This has resulted in a condition that has brought great joy to the heart of Director Lewis Milestone.

Mr. Milestone reports that his troupe has now reached the point where their appearances before the cameras have ceased to be acting. They are all being themselves. And, what with the restiveness of five weeks of isolation and all that water and mud, says Mr. Milestone, it makes for a perfectly elegant family scrap!

The story of how a school graduation photograph of Betty Furness, 16, won a movie contract for her came over the wire from Hollywood simultaneously with her arrival there on Thursday of this week.

Miss Furness was signed to a contract the day after her graduation from Miss Bennett's school for girls at Millbrook, N. Y., after an admiring photographer had sent her picture to Lee Marcus, vice president of RKO, according to studio report.

Miss Furness is blonde, blue-eyed, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 100 pounds—in case you care to check up on your own qualifications. She was accompanied to the Coast by her mother, a New York interior decorator.

There may not be any Santa Claus, but that Cinderella gal still manages to keep up a small hilltop mansion in Hollywood!

4-H Clubs in Camp Here Lay Wreath in Arlington

Members of the 4-H Clubs encamped in Washington journeyed yesterday to Arlington National Cemetery and placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The wreath was laid by Lawain Churchill, of Michigan, and Allan Settle, of South Carolina.

Following the exercises, the boys and girls returned to camp, where they heard an address last night by the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, pastor of the Luther Place Memorial Church. The group was entertained by the Sixth Congregational Church quartet and story telling by Miss Helen Morgan, of Nebraska.

CLEAN WHITE PURE

Even the package invites you

INVITING is the word . . . Chesterfield's attractive white package is certainly the proper introduction to the cigarettes inside it. For it suggests right off . . . they're pure.

Examine the paper Chesterfields are rolled in. It's white . . . and pure. Now light up . . . You'll notice there's neither taste nor odor of burning paper. You get the full flavor of fine ripe tobaccos.

To make sure of purity . . . every ingredient and every method used in making Chesterfields . . . is checked by a staff of scientists.

You always open that clean white package with confidence. It reminds you of the purity back of that satisfying taste. And remember, they're milder too!

NATS SINK TO FOURTH PLACE AS TIGERS WIN, 8-5

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AT A time when the Washington ball club has just succeeded in losing six of its last eight games and is teetering precariously on the brink of the second division for want of some nine-inning pitchers, the performance of Sad Sam Jones and Irving Hadley yesterday provide bitter fodder for thought.

It seems that the Nats' management misplaced the confidence in the ability of its pitchers to carry the team without the services of Jones and Hadley when the two veterans of the Washington staff were released to the White Sox last winter in the deal for Carl Reynolds. Cutting two regular hurlers off the roster is a drastic step for any club, but at the time there was evidence that Crowder, Brown, Marberry, Burke, Weaver and Fischer would suffice the Nats' pitching needs.

But neither Griffith nor Johnson bargained for the collapse of the Nats' pitching staff to the extent that it has broken down. Brown, Weaver and Crowder have done well enough, but of this trio only Brown has been a consistent winner.

Marberry and Burke have been the chief disappointments and their failures contributed greatly to the Nats' drop from the lead to fourth place.

Jones and Hadley yesterday made every Washington fan regret last winter's deal. Neither had previously set the pitching world on fire by their performances, but yesterday, coincident with the Nats' drop to fourth place, Jones allowed the Yankees only six hits in losing a 1-to-0 pitching duel, and Hadley blanked the Athletics after the second inning to win a 3-to-2 decision.

The Washington club has been making enough hits to win behind such pitching as Jones and Hadley supplied yesterday, but the Nats' pitching since the start of the Western tour has been atrocious, with the exception of Lloyd Brown's last two games.

Especially disappointing has been the work of Dick Coffman, who was soundly thumped in both his starts for the Nats, following his acquisition from the Browns in the deal for Fischer.

The Washington club's recent losing habits must have been contagious. Previous to joining the Nats, Coffman had won five while losing only three with the second-division Browns and was regarded as a winning pitcher, but in his two starts with the Nats he has performed like a raw rookie from the class ZZZ leagues.

This department can not remember when a Washington club's pitching staff has been so weak in the post-pennant days since 1924-25. The club has held up its end in every other department, but must continue to take its bitter medicine unless the pitchers do an about-face.

Johnson is forced to campaign with the staff now at his command, barring any additions that might come from the minors. With the interleague trading limit expired, the Nats must stand or fall by the staff as presently comprised. It would be too bad to see the chance of an otherwise good ball club sacrificed for the want of good pitching.

Fred McLeod, Columbia Club's venerable pro, has his opinions concerning the national open tournament which starts Thursday.

McLeod, who won the open title himself in 1908, does not recognize Gene Sarazen as the favorite to win at Fresh Meadow, despite Sarazen's recent British open triumph. McLeod predicts that Macdonald Smith will finish one-two-three in the U. S. open; that Sarazen will not be one-two-three, and that Smith's card at the finish will better Sarazen's.

Sharkey and Schmeling On Edge

Rivals End Training Fit, Confident for Clash Tomorrow.

Carey Expects Crowd of 60,000; Sale of Tickets Brisk.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, June 19 (U.P.).—Every one connected with the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey title bout was in excellent spirits tonight as the two principals concluded their training uninjured and President William F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden, announced that the gate would show a good profit.

Both men are ready to step into the ring Tuesday night at the garden's new bowl on Long Island for their scheduled fifteen rounds in the thirtieth heavyweight championship bout under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

"And the goose hangs high," said President Carey tonight, "because the tickets are selling like hot cakes. The 7 p. m. box office tabulation shows that $146,000 has been taken in actual cash and $170,000 worth of tickets have been reserved. The cash sales have put us out of the red, because the total expense is slightly less than $100,000, and that includes $10,000 for rental of the bowl.

Carey said the capacity of the bowl was 71,780, and he estimated that more than 60,000 persons would attend. This will be a fair average crowd for a championship bout, he explained, "and a mighty fine attendance during the depression."

Sharkey Goes to New York.

Sharkey left Gus Wilson's camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., for New York tonight. He may take limbering exercises tomorrow at Stillman's Gymnasium in New York. Schmeling will break camp at Kingston, N. Y., tomorrow afternoon and come to New York by automobile.

Both fighters bubbled over with confidence as they unwound the tapes from their hands for the last time before the big fight. Sharkey weighed 203 pounds, his average mark for the past ten days. He expects to tip the scales at 203 when he weighs in Tuesday at 2 p. m. Schmeling weighed 191. He expects to weigh in at about that poundage.

There is every reason to believe that both men will do their best to win. Sharkey has been striving for the title for six years, and he may be getting his last chance at it. He showed great confidence in himself by agreeing to take only 10 per cent of the gate. This will pay little more than his training expenses, but he figures victory will repay him royally.

On the other hand, Schmeling has his title to protect, and his method of winning the title to vindicate. He never has established his claims to the satisfaction of all. The only way he can do that is to win decisively from Sharkey this time, proving that he would have won two years ago if Sharkey had not fouled him.

A card of five preliminaries will support the main bout, which is scheduled to start between 9:30 and 10 p. m. Eastern standard time.

Indians Stop Red Sox Twice, 9-3 and 6-3

Cleveland, June 19 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians passed Washington in the American League race today by winning both games of a double-header and sunk the Red Sox deeper into the cellar as the new Boston manager, Marty McManus, took the reins from John "Shano" Collins.

After winning a slugging match, 9 to 3, in the first game, the Indians came out of a tie in the eighth inning of the second as Clint Brown hit a home run with two men on base, to win, 6 to 3.

Lott Wins Over Parker In Five-Set Match

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 19 (A.P.).—George Lott, of Chicago, national amateur star, beat Frankie Parker, 16-year-old Milwaukee marvel today, to win the men's singles crown of the tri-State tennis tournament here.

He triumphed 5—7, 6—2, 4—6, 6—0, 6—3.

Collins Quits As Red Sox Manager

Discouraged by Failure With Boston Club, He Says.

Marty McManus Is Named Successor Temporarily.

BOSTON, June 19 (A.P.).—The trials and tribulations besetting Bob Quinn, president of the lowly Red Sox, were increased today with the resignation of his manager, John "Shauno" Collins, who wired from Cleveland he was so discouraged he could not go on.

Quinn, on Collins' suggestion, appointed Marty McManus, the Red Sox's aggressive second baseman, to carry on as acting manager and turned his thoughts to the selection of a new pilot.

"It was all out of a clear sky to me," Quinn said. "I had no inkling he was so discouraged until I talked with him yesterday, when he made it plain he couldn't keep on going. I gave him every opportunity to reconsider."

Quinn said Collins telephoned him yesterday and said he was determined to withdraw.

The disastrous season of the Red Sox to date has been emphasized in the eyes of the usually charitable Boston fans by the surprising showing of the Boston Braves, now in second place in the National League.

Collins Hero at Chicago.

Collins, the fourth manager to come and go under the nine years of Quinn's regime, was a hero of the pennant-winning Chicago White Sox of 1917 and 1919 and was one of the few Chicago players who emerged unscathed by the "Black Sox" scandal of the 1919 world series.

He came to the Red Sox in 1920, remaining until 1925, when he was released to take over the managership of the Pittsfield, Mass., Eastern League Club. He managed Des Moines in 1926 and 1927, returned to Pittsfield as manager in 1928 and 1929, and took over the helm again at Des Moines in 1930.

His record as a minor league manager was impressive, winning a pennant for Des Moines and always finishing fourth or better. He was named manager of the Red Sox on Thanksgiving Day, 1930.

McManus, a veteran of twelve years in the majors, is one of the few Sox players still popular with Boston fans. A native of Chicago, his major league career began with the Browns in 1920. He later was transferred to Detroit and came to Boston by the waiver route a year ago.

Foxx Slams No. 26 As A's Divide Pair

St. Louis, June 19 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns broke even in a double-header today, giving the Athletics three victories in the five-game series. The Browns won the first of today's contests, 3 to 2, and the Athletics took the last game, 6 to 3.

The Athletics bunched hits in the first and third innings to win the second game, with Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia first baseman, getting his twenty-sixth homer of the season.

Finnish Star Breaks Two of Nurmi's Marks

Meadows, of Newark, Hurls No-Hit Game

Newark, N. J., June 19 (A.P.).—Rufe Meadows, Newark southpaw, pitched a no-hit, no-run game today against the Montreal Royals in the second game of a double-header in the International League. Newark won both ends, 4-2, and 8-0.

Meadows yielded four passes and fanned one. Two of his walks came in the last inning.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE "German Cathedral," on the Gendarmenmarkt, one of Berlin's most beautiful squares, was erected not as a place of worship—but as an architectural mask for a less beautiful church. It is used as a storehouse for street cleaners' implements—wheelbarrows, brooms and shovels.

The beautiful building was ordered built by Frederick of Prussia in the latter part of the eighteenth century to hide a smaller and less attractive church constructed 80 years before. So great was the king's hurry to get the "cathedral" built that the architect did not design it properly and on the night of July 27, 1781, it collapsed. It was rebuilt, however, and still stands in Berlin.

A companion to the German "cathedral" is the French "cathedral" on the same square. It, too, was built to hide a small church. Neither of the structures was ever consecrated and neither of the magnificent domes has any connection with the little church it hides. They were never used for religious services.

Terry McGovern, "Terrible Terry," won the world's bantamweight championship from Pedlar Palmer, English fighter, exactly 27 seconds after the gong sounded for the first round—the shortest world's championship fight on record.

McGovern was a fast, plunging fighter who devoted little attention to the science of the game. He had a terrific punch and generally won his fights in the first few rounds. When he met Palmer in Tuckahoe for the bantamweight title he struck two blows—one of which landed while Palmer was falling.

ALLEN WINS BATTLE FOR YANKS, 1-0

Chisox Held to 3 Hits, Jones Allows Only Six Safeties.

CHICAGO, June 19 (A.P.).—John Allen held the Chicago White Sox to three singles, one of them of the scratchiest sort today, as the New York Yankees won a pitchers' battle, 1 to 0. Sam Jones hurled for the Sox, and gave six hits.

Combs, the first man up, walked, and after Sewell flied out, Ruth was passed. Gehrig forced Ruth at second, but Ben Chapman singled to score Combs with the only run of the game.

CREWS READY FOR RACES TODAY

Cornell and Syracuse Hold Hope of East on Hudson.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19 (A.P.).—Twenty-one spidery eight-oared shells of eight universities skimmed the placid waters of the Hudson today in final preparation for the great intercollegiate regatta here tomorrow.

All except Syracuse of the eight big crews that will battle in the dusk tomorrow evening down the 4-mile racing stretch idled through last practice, along with the fleet of six junior varsities and seven freshman crews. All were saving their energies for the big races.

The dry land sailors, oarsmen of another day, and the experts, gathered in the hotels here, have agreed only on one thing, that victory in the varsity pull rests with four crews, the mighty eight of Cornell, Jim Ten Eyck's powerful, easy-flowing Syracuse crew, and the two boatloads of giants from the Far West, California and Washington.

With scarcely a second thought Buck Walsh's first Navy crew, defending champion and the dark horse that scored so sensationally last year, is relegated to the second division, along with Rich Glendon's olumbia eight, once the queen of these waters; Rusty Callow's Pennsylvania eight, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Braves Blanked By Cincinnati, 5-0

Boston, June 19 (A.P.).—St Johnson held the Braves to five hits today as Cincinnati shut out Boston, 5 to 0, in a series opener to make it five straight over the tribe this season.

Catcher Bob Asby's Concord (Mass.) friends presented him a check for $1,000, and Bob obliged with a home run to score the first run of the game. Grantham also hit for the circuit with one on base.

Burke's Mediocre Pitching Allows Detroit to Coast To Third Win of Series

Weaver Stops Attack Too Late; 20,000 See Contest.

Manush and Cronin Lead Nats' Hitters Stone Gets Homer.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post)

DETROIT, Mich., June 19.—Ineffective pitching prevented the Nationals from winning again today after they had given Bobby Burke a two-run lead in the opening round and they dropped to fourth place as the Cleveland Indians won a double-header. The score was 8 to 5. It was their third loss in the four-game set here. A crowd of 20,000 saw the game.

Led by Joe Cronin, who drove in four runs, the Nationals staged a rally in the third to put Burke on even terms again, but he simply could not stop the Detroit hitters, who went in front once more in the next round and were never headed. "Prof." Monte Weaver relieved the southpaw in the sixth, but sending him in was a case of locking the stable door after the horse had been stolen.

Whitlow Wyatt and Tom Bridges did the Tiger hurling and held the Nats to but seven hits. Indeed, the Washingtonians were fortunate in making as many runs as they did, for an error by Walker made two of them possible.

Manush and Cronin Hit Hard.

Manush, with three hits, shared stick honors with Cronin, while Stone showed the way to the Tigers, getting a homer, double and two singles.

When Wyatt, who has been ill and complained that the heat had him "down," gave way to Bridges starting the Nats' fourth, the score was deadlocked at 4-all. As was the case Saturday, the Nats gave their pitcher a lead, but Burke immediately allowed the Tigers to double it in their half of the first. Then the Nats knotted the string with a two-run rally in the third.

With one dead, Manush started the scoring by singling. West walked and Cronin then cleaned the bases with a double to left. Burke immediately put himself in a hole by walking one and hitting another. Stone's single filled the bases and Webb's long fly, Walker's double—a humpback grounder over Bluege's head—and Schuble's one-baser brought four runs home.

An error by Walker on Myer's fly let the Nats tie the string with two unearned runs in the third. Manush singled Myer to third and took second on the throw in, both advancing on West's long fly, with Manush scoring while Rogell was throwing out Cronin.

Tigers Gain Lead In Fourth.

The Tigers broke the deadlock and became two up in the fourth, having the bases loaded when the final out was turned in. The ingredients of this rally were singles by Hayworth and Bridges, Davis' sacrifice, Gehringer's long fly, Stone's double, a walk and a scratch hit by Walker. In the fifth they added another run to their total when Bridges tripled and Davis singled, both blows coming after two were out.

After Stone homered and Webb singled starting the home sixth, Weaver relieved Burke and stopped the rally.

Meanwhile, the Nats had obtained but one hit off Bridges until they staged a baby rally in the seventh. One run was scored as a result of successive singles by Manush, West and Cronin after two were down.

After the Tigers had made threatening gestures in the eighth, Rice, up for Weaver opening the ninth, doubled, but his mates could advance him no further than third and the Nats lost another game, which only fair pitching might have won for them.

In the Wake Of the Game

DETROIT, Mich., June 19.—Having already skidded out of the runner-up berth on this trip, the Nationals will be battling to regain third place in the league standing as they open a four-game series against the Indians in Cleveland tomorrow. Manager Walter Johnson likely will nominate "General" Alvin Crowder, who has pitched only 18 1-3 innings in the three series played on this road jaunt, to do the flinging for the Nats.

In order to permit the Bicentennial game between Bucky Harris' 1924 world's championship team and the current edition of Nationals, to be played at Griffith Stadium on August 15, the game scheduled with the Philadelphia Athletics on that date has been advanced and shifted to the Quaker City. It will be played in Philadelphia as part of a Saturday double-header on July 2.

It is understood that every player in the Washington 1924 line-up will be on hand to participate in this game with the possible exception of Goose Goslin, whom the Browns may not wish to spare because they have a double-header listed on that date. Harris himself will be there to play second and manage the team, and present plans call for Johnson, Zachary, Ogden and Mogridge to do the hurling for the Old-Timers.

Burke walked Davis, first Tiger to face him, on four successive balls. Then he hit Gehringer.

In the fourth Spencer dropped a Texas Lea

THERE was no joy in Ciro's Italian Village last night, nor were there any spaghetti dinners for the members of the baseball team, for the team lost. It dropped a heart-breaker to the Dixie Pigs, 2-0, and with it the leadership of Section A, unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League. More than 3,000 fans turned out for the game, which featured the Capital City League schedule yesterday.

In the other games played Congress Heights nosed out City Cab, 11-10; St. Joseph's won its first league victory of the year, a 5-4 decision over Diamond Cab; Columbia Heights drubbed Federal Unionists, 12-1, and Federal Storage disposed of Franc Jewelers, 5-2.

Adair Allows 3 Hits.

The Ciro-Dixie Pig game was by far the best played on the sandlots this season. "Giggles" Adair, 16-year-old Dixie twirler, set his foes down with a trio of widely scattered hits, walked none, and prevented those who did reach first base from progressing. "Lefty" McIntire, who toed the slab for Ciro's, gave up five hits. But for a pair of untimely errors by "Shorty" Mahaney, second baseman, in the fifth inning, and a foolish play by Bernie Fitzgerald in the seventh, McIntire might not have been scored on.

Mahaney tossed two balls in succession over Fitzgerald's head at first base in the fifth, after making beautiful stops of both. The first of these runners, Ed Radtke, came home on a long fly by Len Roberts.

The eventual winners scored their second run in the seventh inning when with "Babe" Clapper on third, whence he had arrived after hitting safely and advancing on sacrifice hits, Fitzgerald called for the ball. "Smokey" Wilner, Ciro third baseman, tossed it to him in lackadaisical fashion and as he did Clapper made a break for the plate, arriving just in time to beat Fitzgerald's peg to Bertolino.

Colliere Aid Young Pitcher.

"Fee" Colliere's level head was largely responsible for the success of "Giggles" in turning back the Villagers. "Fee" called for them where the Ciro batters could not hit to them, and Adair responded with remarkably accurate control. Hugh Waldrop's veterans made a favorable impression on all who witnessed the game. They played errorless ball. Ciro's was a trifle unsteaded by the importance of the game.

Ben Spigel fanned thirteen opponents as Columbia Heights added to its lead in Section B. A home run by Crump, and the slugging of Tomagni, Frat and Mayerhoefer aided in the victory. Matters was best for the losers. The veteran Tom Sweeney connected for a triple with the bases loaded to give Congress Heights its victory over City Cab.

$2 CLUBHOUSE $2

Saturday both horses were in the money trying hard. LITTLE CONNELLY, $18.64, $3.80, ran third, and SURF BOARD, $9.34, $4.02, ran second. We advertise losers as well as WINNERS. Now TODAY will be different. You will have no regrets tonight because we are going to put over a

LIMIT WIN PARLAY

In the third race we have a 2-year-old that has been given a special prep for just this spot. He will beat Miss Melody, Flying Fleet, Stimeway and all the other favorites to pay off in box-car prices. Our WINNER in the sixth race will break on top and lead all the way, making Uncle Henry, Chip and the rest of the field look like they were tied. You will be sorry if you miss these long shots, as they are sure going to WIN. For sale at all leading newsstands, or call Met. 3587 for free delivery service. Please call early to avoid being disappointed.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Both horses won Saturday, McKell at $9.60 and the Marquise at $4.05, and the bank roll went up to $52.35. Code horse was scratched. All three bank rolls show a profit to date; $5 bet on code horses show $20 profit. Joe's handicap system shows $260 profit. Watch for Asbestos' fight selection tomorrow.

Thompson Beats Hough For Kenwood Golf Title

New Champion's Consistent Play Gains 3 and 2 Victory; Houghton Sets Course Record of 72 at Beaver Dam.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FORREST THOMPSON is the new champion of the Kenwood Club, succeeding Maury Fitzgerald, last year's champion, who was eliminated in the first round of match play. The final round yesterday—36 holes—between Thompson and Royce Hough, jr., was remarkable for the consistent character of the golf played. Thompson had 77s for each of the two rounds played, while Hough had two 78s.

At the conclusion of the first eighteen holes Hough was 2 down, and he was 5 down when the first nine of the second round had been played. Although he won the eleventh and the thirteenth he could not withstand the steady playing of his opponent and finally lost, 3 and 2. There were no spectacular features to the match, although the ding-dong battle between the two contestants interested the large gallery which followed the match. The cards:

MORNING ROUND.

Out—
Thompson	5	4	4	4	5	4	5	3	4	—38
Hough	4	4	5	5	5	3	5	4	3	—38
In—
Thompson	4	4	4	5	4	5	4	5	3	—77
Hough	5	4	4	6	5	4	5	4	4	—40—78

AFTERNOON ROUND.

Out—
Thompson	4	6	5	4	5	4	4	4	4	—40
Hough	4	6	4	5	5	6	4	5	5	—42
In—
Thompson	4	4	5	5	4	4	4	3	4	—37—77
Hough	4	3	5	4	4	5	5	3	4	—36—78

In the tournament played on the course of the Indian Spring Club yesterday the low gross prize was won by J. William Harvey, jr., with a card of 39—35—74. Thomas M. Belshe, club champion, finished second with 41—38—79. The low net prize was won by Dr. William B. Vogel with 77—9—68. There was a tie for second between Paul Molle and A. H. Youngquist with identical scores of 84—15—69. The fourth prize was won by H. A. Mihills, president of the club, with 84—14—70.

The exhibition golf match on the course of the Beaver Dam Club yesterday afternoon resulted in an overwhelming victory for A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, and Robert T. Barnett, Chevy Chase, who defeated Cliff Spencer, Beaver Dam professional, and Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, 6 and 4. The feature of the match was the fact that Houghton established a new record for the course, playing the 18 holes in 36, 36—72, one stroke under par, 37, 36—73. Houghton's card was as follows:

Out—
Par	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	4	4	—36
Houghton	4	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	—36
In—
Par	5	4	4	4	3	4	5	3	5	—37—73
Houghton	4	5	3	4	3	5	4	5	3	—36—72

On the outward nine Houghton captured a birdie on the fourth hole, 454 yards, but was one over par on the sixth when he overapproached the green. On the homeward journey he had a birdie on the tenth, but missed a par on the eleventh when he pulled his tee shot into the woods. He then scored birdies on the twelfth and fourteenth holes, running down a 6-foot putt on the twelfth and a 10-footer on the fourteenth. He was one over on the seventeenth when he three-putted. His score was all the more creditable because it was the second time he had played the course. Barnett finished with 38, 39—77; Cliff Spencer, with 39, 36—75, and Glenn Spencer, with 41, 37—78. The best ball of Houghton and Barnett was 69, four under par.

In the tournament for left-handed golfers on the course of the Argyle Club yesterday the low gross was won by George W. Wood, 40, 49—89, and the low net by Albert H. Parham, 95, 21—74.

Close Contests At Manor Club.

A desperate struggle to reach the semifinal round of the two-man team tournament at the Manor Club marked the contests yesterday. H. G. Wood and Emerson Moore defeated D. M. McPherson and C. A. Netzler, but they were carried to the twentieth hole before they secured their victory. The match between J. J. Byrne and J. C. Remey against J. R. Pattison and Mack Myers went to the twenty-third hole before Byrne and Remey won.

In the lower bracket W. W. Dean and A. E. Turner defeated I. T. Donoho and H. W. Patten, 2 and 1, and E. M. McClelland and George F. Miller defeated J. W. Gilligan and Perry McLean, 5 and 4. In the semifinal round Wood will play Byrne and Remey, while Dean and Turner are paired against McClelland and Miller.

Playing the seventeenth hole at the Army-Navy Club yesterday, Dr. W. I. Ogus scored a hole-in-one, 156 yards. He was playing with Col. Humphrey, Maj. Goddard and Capt. Willis, but his greatest joy was due to the fact that his 12-year-old boy witnessed the feat.

SWIM STARS SEEK A.A.U. TITLES

Glen Echo Pool Scene of Annual Meet Tonight.

GLEN ECHO'S massive Crystal Pool will be the scene of the annual District A. A. U. high board diving championship tonight at 9 o'clock when a distinguished field of the aerial maneuverists leap out into space in quest of the titles now held by Onalene Lawrence and Roger Leverton.

The diving championships will be augmented by an abbreviated swimming meet, with three men's and three women's events.

The Augusterfer girls, Rita and Madeline, loom as favorites to garner laurels in the sprint events.

In the women's division the issue seems to lie between Onalene Lawrence and Lois Bates. Onalene has had the more expert coaching and the necessary experience gained in out-of-town meets, but Lois Bates appears to be the more natural athlete, and, aided by her smaller stature, is always a serious test for Miss Lawrence, who is the defending champion. Lenore Taube might well beat them both.

Mahlon Glascock, former intercollegiate diving champion at Yale University, is expected to furnish strong competition for the field of men divers. Glascock is a Washingtonian, a product of Fred Brunner's Central High School coaching.

RUNNING true to form, Miller Furniture Co. defeated Swann Service, 6 to 2, to win the first half of the title of the Senior Division of The Post's Capital City League. It was the team's fifth consecutive victory. Koontz Service scored over Dor-A, 4 to 2, in the only other game played, as the Clifton Barbers forfeited to the Takoma Tigers.

"Tut" Turner's effective pitching silenced the big guns of the Swann attack. Turner granted only seven hits. With men on base he was well-nigh invincible. The eventual winners pounced on Bragg for four runs in the first two innings. A brief rally in the ninth inning added two runs to their score and clinched the game. From the third inning to the ninth Bragg held his opponents well in check. "Mouse" Miller and Lyman McAboy led the winning attack, while Walt Osborne and George Sachs were best for the losers.

Jack Davis was continually in trouble with the Dor-A nine, but his ability to tighten up in the pinches saved the day. Dor-A nicked the Koontz hurler for eleven safeties. Beall connected for a pair of healthy blows that brought over two of the Koontz scores. The Southeast aggregation took full advantage of every opportunity to squeeze out the victory.

Mt. Rainier Star In No-Hit Contest

Hoffman Allows Only One Man to Reach First to Win, 9-0.

Bill Hoffman turned in a no-hit, no-run performance as Mount Rainier defeated the Washington Athletic Club, 9 to 0, yesterday. Hoffman not only set his opponents down without a hit, but issued only one free pass to first base, the player drawing it being the only member of the losing team to reach the initial sack.

FAVORITES continued to advance in the junior division of the Capital City League, sponsored by The Post, yesterday. Dixie Polish added another game to its win column when Dor-A was unable to muster a full team at game time. Georgetown drubbed Swann Service, 10 to 1, Fussell-Young scored over Wheeler Club, 6 to 1, and Mount Rainier upset Southwest Merchants, 10 to 9.

"Stump" Talburt twirled Georgetown to victory, allowing the Servicemen but eight scattered safeties. His mates hopped on the offerings of Cowan and Smith for sixteen hits. The winners scored four runs in the eighth inning, which were disallowed when the game was called, and the score reverted to the previous inning.

Artie Nock and Mikalaski topped the attack of the Fussell-Young nine. Greiner held the losers to five hits in bagging the victory. Tom Nolan starred afield with a sparkling performance.

'AIDA' IS PRESENTED BEFORE AUDIENCE OF 2,500 AT STADIUM

Beauty of Costuming and Caliber of Voices Long to Be Remembered.

MME. CORONA BRILLIANT IN TWO DIFFICULT ARIAS

Every Hope and Desire More Than Fulfilled; Ferrara in Capable Role.

Under a wide and none too starry sky the twice-postponed presentation of Giuseppe Verdi's immortal opera, "Aida," was given at Griffith Stadium last night before an enthusiastic audience of more than 2,500 opera lovers.

With the barest of "stage" equipment, limiting the sphere of action, and approaching the natural setting of the great pyramids of Cheops, before which in 1871 "Aida" was first sung, the tragic tale of old Egypt was enacted by a stellar cast headed by Leona Corona and Pasquale Ferrara, excellently supported by Pasquale Amato, Dreda Aves, Nino Ruisi and Paolo Ananian, all of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

A more colorful presentation nor a cast better fitted to the individual roles can not be imagined, the sheer beauty of the costuming and the marvelous caliber of the voices, that filled to the uppermost reaches the spacious stadium, combining to make this offering long to be remembered.

Mme. Corona Outstanding.

Mme. Corona, singing the title role, was the outstanding member of the company, rendering her two long and difficult arias, "Ritorna Vincitor" and "O, Patria Mia," not to mention the many duets and other numbers, with a soprano voice that rang clear and strong throughout the park.

As Rhadames, Senor Ferrara was magnificent, his fine tenor voice amply meeting the demands of "Celeste Aida," "Morir, Si Pura e Bella," and the closing duet, "O Terra Addio." Mme. Aves delineated the aristocratic Amneris with force and color. The captive king, Amonsaro, Aida's father, was sung by Senor Amato, who wrought from the role all the inherent tragedy. Senor Ananian was the pompous King of Egypt and Senor Ruisi the colorful high priest.

No Loss of Dramatic Work.

Next to his "Il Trovatore," "Aida" is not only Verdi's most popular work, but it is also one of those few of the less heavy operas which could be presented in the open, with no loss of dramatic value. Here, with but little with which to work for the mounting of an opera, "Aida" was offered for what it is—a music drama, whose appeal is that of masterfully constructed composition rendered by a company whose sheer artistry transcends mundane scenic matters.

The adequate presentation of grand opera presupposes an able orchestra, and the one which Giuseppe Creatore led last night met the most exacting demands of the Verdi script.

Though twice postponed, and the degree of expectancy rising with each change of date, every hope and desire was more than fulfilled—a performance that will rank with any that has ever been staged in Washington.

HOW DENIZENS OF THE JUNGLE SPEND THEIR SPARE TIME AT ZOO

SACRIFICE OF SELF URGED BY PASTOR TO GAIN SALVATION

Moralizing Sermons Are Held Insufficient in Talk by Dr. Buhrer.

SAYS JESUS IS ANSWER TO CRY FOR SUPERMAN

Powers of Cross Described to Congregation at Reformed Church.

"In this crooked, crowded, confused world of today follow the lines of Jesus and you'll get to reality," the Rev. James D. Buhrer, pastor of the First Reformed Church, told his congregation yesterday.

"Mere moralizing sermons," Dr. Buhrer declared, "flowery language, profound philosophy, scientific methods, psychic methods always miss the mark. The hearers of such preachers and teachers experience what the blind man of Jericho said: 'Jesus of Nazareth is passing by.'

"Unless we lead persons and nations to Christ we fail. A sermon without Christ is like bread without flour."

Answering the cry of J. H. Thomas, English labor leader, for a superman, Dr. Buhrer declared from his pulpit: "Yes, Thomas, we do need a superman and Jesus is that man."

Tells Work of Cross.

"The Cross," Dr. Buhrer continued, "draws sinning men. In the olden days they used to catch a goat, figuratively bind their sins on his head and turn him loose to forage. Those people were groping after the reality in Christ. We can not transfer our guilty conscience, no matter how much conscience money we pay or tortures we endure. But another can help us carry it.

"That is why a mother never gives up her lad gone wrong, but bears with him in shame. That kind of living breaks down men into repentance when they begin to think. Sacrifice of self for others is the mightiest deterrent to sin. Atonement defies analysis, but it is a fact thousands have apprehended in experience.

"The cross draws thinkers. As soon as you begin to think you find life full of contradictions—good and bad elements. Does the fittest always survive? Is the warrior the abiding victor? Is conscription the only hope for a nation's defense? Was Jesus a failure when he was nailed to the cross?

Urges Self-Sacrifice.

"Self-sacrifice is the only solution of all these problems. On the cross Jesus says what we can all understand. Jesus does what at our best or worst we do—sacrifice and suffer. Future generations may forget theology, but they'll never forget the cross.

"Memory draws to the cross. 'This do in remembrance of me.' You can not forget the Christ you once met. No matter whether you go out of a Christian home, Sunday school or church, you'll ever be reminded of that Jesus you sacrificed and lost despite your daily experiences.

"To many this memorial becomes only a reminder of better days they once lost by indifference, selfishness, greed or stubbornness. Now they wander up and down in the world without God, hope or faith in God or man, while death and eternity are daily drawing nearer."

"GREAT AMERICAN" OPENS TOMORROW

Washington Pageant Will Be Presented 3 Nights at Sylvan Theater.

"The Great American," a pageant in fourteen episodes to be presented in the Sylvan Theater tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday nights under the auspices of the United States and District Bicentennial Commissions, will be whipped into final shape at a concluding rehearsal tonight.

Seats for the pageant will be on sale daily at the headquarters of the commission, 214 National Press Building. They will range in price from 25 cents and 50 cents for bleacher seats to $1 for box seats. Tickets will also be on sale each night of the performance at the Sylvan Theater.

Dr. George C. Havenner, executive vice chairman of the District Commission, announced that no complimentary tickets will be issued.

Episodes in Pageant.

Episodes in the pageant will include "The Marriage of Washington," to be presented by groups representing the Henry D. Spengler Post and unit of the American Legion, with Mrs. J. Jerome Lightfoot as chairman.

Characters in the scene will include many prominent Americans who attended the marriage rites of Col. George Washington and the Widow Custis. Their parts will be enacted by William O. Chapman and Mrs. Donald M. Hyde.

Participants in this episode include Dr. Douglas A. White, as the Rev. Mr. Mossum; Betty and Gar Chamberlin, as Nellie and Jacky Custis; Miss Grace Sandhouse, Miss Margaret Iseley, Mrs. T. L. Special lighting of the pageant scenes will be directed by a committee, headed by M. C. Turpin, and including Charles Bittinger, R. D. Holcomb, R. B. Patterson, J. H. Potts, W. S. Siebert, Harold W. Snyder and A. Herrmann Wilson.

Two Bridge Players Win Trophy.

Miss Virginia S. Benjamin and Mrs. Metta R. Cole, members of the Friday Contract Study Club, were recently announced as players in the World Olympic Unit of the Women's City Club. The trophy they won will be on exhibit in the cardroom of the Women's City Club when it is presented.

MANIA OF BIGNESS RAPPED BY CLERIC

Size Alone Does Not Insure Success, Dr. E. O. Clark Tells Baptists.

"The glorifying of all that is huge seems to be the peculiar mania of America," the Rev. Edward O. Clark told his congregation yesterday at the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, in a sermon entitled "Something Greater."

Citing the parable in which the disciples, impressed by the great structure of the temple, were reminded by Jesus that "something greater than the temple is here," Dr. Clark declared that "we today, like the disciples of old, are easily carried away by mere bigness."

"Everything," he observed, "must be gigantic in size or number or it does not impress us. So we have the competition in skyscrapers. A city or a nation is popularly supposed to be great in proportion to its teeming millions. Occasionally the hope is expressed that the City of Washington will soon grow to number 1,000,000 inhabitants, as if numbers alone guaranteed greatness.

"We read of a prize fight with an attendance of 42,000, and we are overawed at the thought of the immense throng. Actually a little 'haystack' prayer meeting composed of six students many years ago has changed more the course of history than a dozen such crowded fistic arenas. With us everything must be big—from blimps to battleships, from peanuts to parades.

Estimated by Noise.

"Even the church is caught in the popular fallacy of estimating success by mere noise and large crowds. Unless there are huge throngs at a religious gathering it is not a success, and conversely, if there are such throngs the gathering is thereby a tremendous success. Unless there are milling millions listening in, the message doesn't count. Unless there is boisterous enthusiasm, the worship is dead. We seem to have forgotten a significant prophetic word, 'Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit saith the Lord of Hosts.'

"Jesus instinctively sensed the fallacy of judging by size alone. His insight, concerning this matter is revealed when we read, 'But I say unto you, something greater than the temple is here.' Its greatness and grandeur was not imperishable; there was something greater. It was but a passing symbol. The imperishable reality was something deep and holy in human hearts. It was and is the unchanging experience of God in the life of men. Within the soul, when touched by the presence of God, a radiant spiritual life wells up and is the source of all piety, all truth, all sacrifice, all love. This is the essence of religion itself. Without it there would be no temples either big or little. Once the soul is conscious of that holy thing within, all else pales into lessened significance. Abundant, radiant life begins.

Something Greater.

"This something greater of which the Master spoke is not a belief or tradition handed down, nor yet is it a mystical entity, but rather is it moral and practical. It is the actual experience of God when one walks the Master's way of life. Too many today endeavor to strain their religion through their intellects, with the consquence that religion becomes increasingly a nonentity. The intellect has its place in religion, but it must be kept in that place and its limitations recognized. The truth is that most of life's real experiences can not be reduced to a rationalistic formula. 'The heart has reasons that the mind knows not of.' There is something greater than intellect, something greater than art, or culture or anything material; that something is the radiance of a soul pulsing with the deepening life of God.

"It is for this that the church exists. It is to make this possible, whereby folks can glimpse the eternal for themselves that temples are built. Size and numbers mean little; a soul thrilled with the greatness of God, that is everything. It is greater, even, than the greatest temple."

Police Adopt Friendly Dog, Called Oscar

Brass buttons and blue uniforms hold no terror for a small black and tan dog which decided he wanted to be adopted yesterday and nonchalantly trotted into the Second Police Precinct station and made himself right at home.

After investigating the squad room, the cell block and the section behind the rail, the canine then trotted into the captain's office, jumped on his desk and proceeded to make friends with the commanding officer.

He was officially adopted and the name of Oscar wished on him. A collection will be taken among the men of the precinct and a collar and tag and proper food will be presented to Oscar.

Car Overturns, Hurting Maryland Man.

James Wright, 25, Cross Roads, Md., was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon for lacerations on the head and possible fracture of the left shoulder when his car skidded and turned over en route to Washington. The car was driven by Leroy Fennel, also of Cross Roads. He was uninjured.

2 NERVOUS ROBBERS BLAMED IN SHOOTING

Boy and Girl Shot by Men on Sargent Road Show Marked Improvement.

The unwarranted shooting of a young couple on Sargent road, near the District line, Saturday night, is believed by police investigating the case—to have been done by a nervous holdup pair.

The victims, both of whom were wounded by the same bullet, showed marked improvement in their conditions yesterday. The boy, Wesley Owens, 18 years old, of 58 U street northwest, was the most seriously wounded, the bullet having passed through his neck. Physicians at Sibley Hospital, where the victims were taken, do not consider his condition dangerous.

The girl, Miss Sue Whittington, 16 years old, of 330 Bryant street northeast, was treated for a wounded shoulder and allowed to go home. The bullet passed through the boy's neck and then struck Miss Whittington.

According to the police account, the pair said they parked on Sargent road and a coupe containing two men drew up in front of them and ordered them out of the car, at the point of a pistol.

They obeyed, and as Owens stepped out, the man with the gun fired. He asked if they were hit and when the boy replied that he had been, the men then jumped in their car and drove off.

Owens managed to drive the car into the District as far as Ninth and Monroe streets northeast, where he related the story to a policeman, who then took them to the hospital.

Because of the blinding lights from the gunmen's car, the two victims were unable to furnish police with an accurate description.

Adventists Hear Brookhart Denounce Repeal Backers

Charges Press Is Bought and Big Taxpayers Seek to Shift Burden; Editor Sees Fight for Gambling, Liquor and Vice.

Broadsides were fired at antiprohibitionists and the press by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, and Francis D. Nichol, associate editor of the Adventist Review and Herald, at the closing camp meeting yesterday afternoon of the Potomac Conference of Seventh Day Adventists in Takoma Park.

Senator Brookhart charged that the big income taxpayers are fighting against prohibition and favoring the legalization of 2.5 per cent beer so as to saddle the payment of these taxes on the beer buyers.

The Iowa Progressive Republican and dry, recently defeated for renomination, further charged that the newspapers of the country are being bought off by the heavy taxpayers "to throw mud at prohibition and its defenders."

He averred that if the prohibition service was properly manned with men who sincerely believed in prohibition there would be not nearly so much law violation, more arrests and more respect for the prohibition law.

Senator Brookhart cited his own experiences as practicing attorney in Iowa, telling how he drove away bootleggers to keep soldiers sober.

Mr. Nichol spoke ironically of newspapers whose editorials once attacked the saloon and aided police in apprehension of criminals that "have now reversed their position and are boosting for repeal."

Linking gambling, liquor and prostitution as the three greatest evils in the history of the world, Mr. Nichols declared that when decent people cry for repeal they are asking for the free operation of these vices.

Pointing to the condition of other nations "that condone these evils," the editor predicted that if the United States ever follows suit it will collapse as a Nation.

Approximately 1,200 persons attended the rally. The Rev. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology at Washington Missionary College, presided, and an address was also heard from the Rev. C. S. Longacre, international secretary of the Religious Liberty Association.

The Potomac conference has been in progress for the last ten days. The meeting marked the inauguration of a national educational campaign in favor of temperance and prohibition.

LANGLEY TO START GRADUATION WEEK

Will Hold Exercises Tonight; Fourteen Others to Give Diplomas.

Hurts to Schoolboy Hit By Stone Baffle Doctors

A 10-year-old boy, who was injured Saturday while playing on the grounds of the Cook School, Seventeenth and Fuller streets northwest, is in undetermined condition in Emergency Hospital, where he was taken early yesterday when his injuries proved worse than at first diagnosed.

Chandler Brassard, of 2518 Seventeenth street northwest, was struck in the head by a stone hurled by one of his companions. He was taken to his home and put to bed after first aid treatment.

His condition grew worse early yesterday. Five stitches were required to close a deep gash in his head. Police were unable to learn the name of the boy who threw the stone, but were of the opinion Chandler was struck accidentally.

Man Hurt in Crash Of Auto and Truck

Motorist Narrowly Escapes Being Crushed When His Car Upsets.

Grant G. Bergstresser, 36 years old, of Takoma Park, Md., is in Walter Reed Hospital with fractures of the collar bone and left wrist, received yesterday when the automobile he was driving was struck by a truck at Fifth and Cedar street northwest.

Bergstresser narrowly escaped being crushed by his machine, which overturned after the collision. He was thrown to the pavement and part of the machine came to rest across his body.

Jacob M. Heilmann, 31 years old, of 7009 Georgia avenue, who, police said, was driving the truck, was charged with failing to give the right of way.

$50 Clothing Theft Reported.

Jacob Barnard, of 1443 Euclid street, reported to police yesterday that some one entered his apartment by jimmying a rear door some time over the week-end and stole $50 worth of clothes.

Armstrong High will hold its exercises at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, Dr. Johnson presiding and Francis Junior High at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, Dr. Bennett presiding. On Wednesday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, Randle Junior High students will receive diplomas, A. K. Savoy presiding, and exercises will be held at Shaw Junior High at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. William C. McNeil presiding.

$575 Jewelry Is Pilfered From Benefactress' Home

Jewelry valued at $575 was stolen from the apartment of Mrs. Lotta Kimball, 2432 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, after she had heeded the pleas of an unemployed man and had given him work, according to police records.

Mrs. Kimball told Third Precinct police that the man approached her on the street yesterday afternoon and that she allowed him to wash the woodwork in her apartment. After he had gone she said she missed a diamond ring valued at $500; a watch and chain valued at $25, and a kunzite stone valued at $50.

She said that she did not obtain the man's name. He was wearing a white shirt and dark trousers, according to the police report.
